PREFACE.

As an introduction to this, the seventh volume of Planets and People, we wish to call attention to the numerous predictions made in Volume six for the year 1900; the closing year of the 19th century.

Referring to page 6, book of 1900, "The General Outlook," we stated that the ruling planet of the year was that far off body called Neptune, "the ancient God of the seas," and we open this year with Mars, the God of war, as the ruling planet of the day.

"These two elements therefore have a direct and important bearing upon the General Outlook, and the nature of these two magnets are very bad for War, Disaster, Conflagrations, Internal Discords and general recklessness. They forebode severe Strikes, Duels, Murders and Tragedies out of the ordinary before the year is over. People in high places will be under the severest of this stress of forces, as the sign of position and prestige of Government and Religion are all stronger than for some years past and the afflictions are severe."

"The great swell given all branches of business during the past two years will continue to expand the business of this year and keep the wheels of progress moving forward in this important interest of the people. So we may all take hold and press on in the struggle for wealth the whole season through and make no mistake as to good times."

"That terrible warfare will be carried on under the dominating forces of the solar circle could not be avoided except there be a general knowledge of the law that underlies the whole situation. This not being the case, the natural impulses of the physical man rule the situation and it means that blood alone will determine the results in hard fought battles."

It is only necessary to recall the terrible conflicts, the great sacrifice of life, the horrible butcheries and bloodshed experienced during the year 1900, to convince the most skeptical mind that we base our predictions on a law that rules supreme in the affairs of man. Again we quote:

"RELIGION.

"This year's outlook shows that the most stupendous undertakings in the name of religion are due to be launched during the twelve months before us. And we see in the figure that such undertakings have the planets in their favor. There is everything to show that the prime movers in this direction will meet with success. It is a time when great things can be accomplished in a religious sense."

Reports from all sources show that the past year has been a phenomenal period for religious undertakings and movements. Protestants and Catholics alike have started many new schemes to further their interests and the convention in New York in which all denominations took part shows the result of planetary vibration as related to this particular phase of human emotion in a most striking manner.

In labor circles the fulfillment of our prophecies have been most marked and our weather forecast seems to have captivated a large number of our readers. One gentleman writes that he finds our weather forecasts more accurate than any other, including the Government signal service.

A few letters from appreciative readers and students of the law are appended to show what people think of our publication and work generally.

PROGNOSTICATIONS.

We wish it understood that in giving forecasts of what may be expected to occur during the coming twelve months, we aim to explain the phenomena of planetary forces the best we can for the general guidance of those interested in studying the subject. The individual horoscope is absolutely necessary in forecasting such events as pertain to individual lives, therefore, all general predictions show the action of these forces upon the majority of the race illustrating that which pertains to a world as a whole.

As the future prospects of Planets and People were never so promising as at this time we aim to reach many new readers with the circulation of this volume. Our friends will confer upon us a great favor by sending in the names and addresses of those whom they believe to be interested in the subject of Universal Law, Vibration and Occultism.

We extend our thanks to our patrons for the many kind appreciative words written us in praise of the work accomplished through Planets and People.

THE AUTHOR

GENERAL FORECAST

For the First Year of the Century, 1901.

The position of the Planets on the first day of January, 12, 1 a. m., shows the nature of the vibratory combination which forebodes the good or ill of the people for the following twelve months.

THE RULING PLANET.

The planet that rules the year, as a whole, is Neptune, but owing to the fact that it makes an important change toward the last, the planet of the day, January 1st, will have as great a bearing upon the affairs of man as the former.

We start, therefore, under the special influence of the planet Saturn, which, being in almost exact opposition, makes it very intense in effect upon the minds of all people, as a people.

This is a disturber of the mentality, an agitator of the brain and, reflectively, of the nervous system. Its tendency is to produce unrest, dissatisfaction and the determination to break up old lines and take chances on the outcome regardless.

It is a very disagreeable current, owing to the fact that it interferes with the sun's ever pleasing and productive power. It renders the situation quite inharmonious and disturbs things at the very center.

All this forebodes a revolution within. The feelings will be severely wrought up, and much suffering will result.

There is, however, a soothing ray from the beautiful Venus, which mingles with the former vibration and this will tend to keep people confident, much as it may lead them into trouble through overconfidence.

The latter tendency is the chief thing to guard against. To be overconfident in business or governmental matters, or in any other relation, means that confidence will be misplaced and great disappointment will result.

BUSINESS.

From a business point of view the outlook is fair. Things should keep up, especially in agricultural and realty lines, and thus make the year's doings compare favorably with the past few years.

There is, however, a striking condition which will develop early in the spring months, that means a culmination in all inflated values. The bubbles in the shape of trusts and special options and privileges of various kinds will no doubt burst under this strain and a law will be passed that will regulate these matters and place them on a much more just and equitable basis.

This means disaster to many and, in a measure, a depression in lines affected by inflated securities. The welfare of the people will be enhanced rather than otherwise, and the general legitimate business of the world will not be hurt to any extent in this readjustment.

The time is ripe for a general improvement in realty, agricultural interests and building operations.

THE LABOR QUESTION.

This brings us to a consideration of the question of labor and capital.

Labor will have an important inning; so say the stars. The element of labor will be in the position of power ere the year is far advanced. It is a time for the physical man to assert himself and cause the gods of finance to bow to his ways and propositions.

This is important, as it affects so great a number of our population that any movement for furthering the ends of united labor will have favorable conditions under which to promote their side of the question of hours and wages.

The affliction to capital will bring about more or less trouble between capital and labor which continues during Jupiter's transit of Saturn in the sign Capricornus. This takes about one year and begins on the first day of spring.

NATIONAL SIGNIFICANCE.

Powerful nations will be weighed in the balances from this date on to the end of the year. The people and their governments will be in turmoil and a general era of reconstruction will set in. The strength of all nations will be tested by their own kind. Old laws will be repealed and new ones passed in their stead as never before. It is a law-making period; a period for national adjustments and reciprocal enactments.

This, however, is not indicative of the settlement of all difficulties between nations at once; but a move in that direction.

RELIGION.

The great question of religion is the growing question of the times, and this government will have the problem to cope with in a far greater measure than any other. This question of religion is on to stay for a long period, and as it is already in the toils of war its cycle is a long and a hard one.

The fundamental principles of our constitution relative to religion should be placed before the people in every way possible that they may fully realize and understand the position of this government relative to freedom in worship, promulgation, etc.

The opening up of China and the revelations that are being made concerning the doctrines, beliefs and practices of so-called heathendom is sure to bring about a new feeling and a larger understanding of the foundation principles on which true religion rests; hence, a test of the claims of each will be made in a way that will surprise those who think they have the real truth concerning the soul's salvation.

Will the Christian religion be able to stand this test?

It is our prediction that it will suffer the most of all, even more than all others put together, for there comes a time in the affairs of the world when knowledge plays a part even in religious matters, and a period of this kind is upon us.

The only promise given the Christian religion is in the extreme liberal movement carried on in its name. A movement which disclaims any belief in the miraculous and delusive statements which have blinded the reasoning faculties of the masses for many centuries. All of this old junk, stained with the blood of the past, must pass away that the light of reason may stream forth and illumine the souls of the universal sphere—souls of all denominations of whatsoever name or kind.

The planet Saturn, which many look upon as an evil omen, is conducive of this great awakening which will bring about a new era in religious undertakings. It is the magnet of education, of change, experience and progress. The advent of the twentieth century is the starting point of a New Education which includes the subject of religion as well as the science of life and all other phenomena. The fact that Neptune is the ruler of the first year of this new time is evidence of a broadening out of thought and feeling among all mankind.

The narrowness that has characterized the established systems of religion for many years and centuries will pass away and the new thought, coupled with the science of phenomenal expression or universal life in manifestation, will take its place.

Everything is working rapidly to this end. The greatest sufferer will be that system which has firmly declared itself and recognizes no change or advancement from an established rule or dogma. The people, however, will merge from this into the new sphere.

WAR.

The four points of the earth having been stampeded by the vandals of war, we must not expect a peaceable adjustment of differences for some time. The question of religious freedom must be settled when the final finish comes.

The favorable conditions for religious propaganda, mentioned in 1890 ends early this year, and then comes the test of the faiths, claims, and dogmas.

According to the quadratic law of nature, that point of the square angles where the greatest battles will be fought is where the nations have come together in the far east. This is to be a lasting and pestiferous struggle. It will take thousands, if not millions of those of other nations to finally put an end to the deal. Is the country worth the price? Are there too many people in the world? Perhaps.

The Philippines are near this point, and may be included in the deal. We have no sympathy with war, but if physical force must be turned upon itself, let those who love it do the fighting. It seems to be in the nature of man to enjoy conquest of this nature. Observe the interest in Prize Fights.

War will continue until this religious matter is fully adjusted. With half of the population of this country opposed to the doctrines of Christianity and all of the religious adherents of other sects also against it, the problem is one that requires very diplomatic procedure if a severe struggle is to be avoided. The constitution of the United States of America is the only document in the world that offers a solution to the situation, but as this document applies only to the domains of this government it will have little effect in dealing with other nations. It can and does solve the problem of religion in this country; but it must be backed by the force of the government, by the armies of the nation and the combined action of real American citizens.

One of the first and wisest moves to this end would be the elimination from the seat of government of everything in the nature of religious ceremonies, blessings, prayers, etc., making the proceedings of government what it should and must be to make it non-partisan or non-sectarian and free from contamination by sectarian bigots. The government is the business of the people. It is purely secular. It must be made so or there will ever be good and sufficient reason for complaint by some of its supporters.

These are the questions of the hour, the things that need attention ere the struggle is upon us.

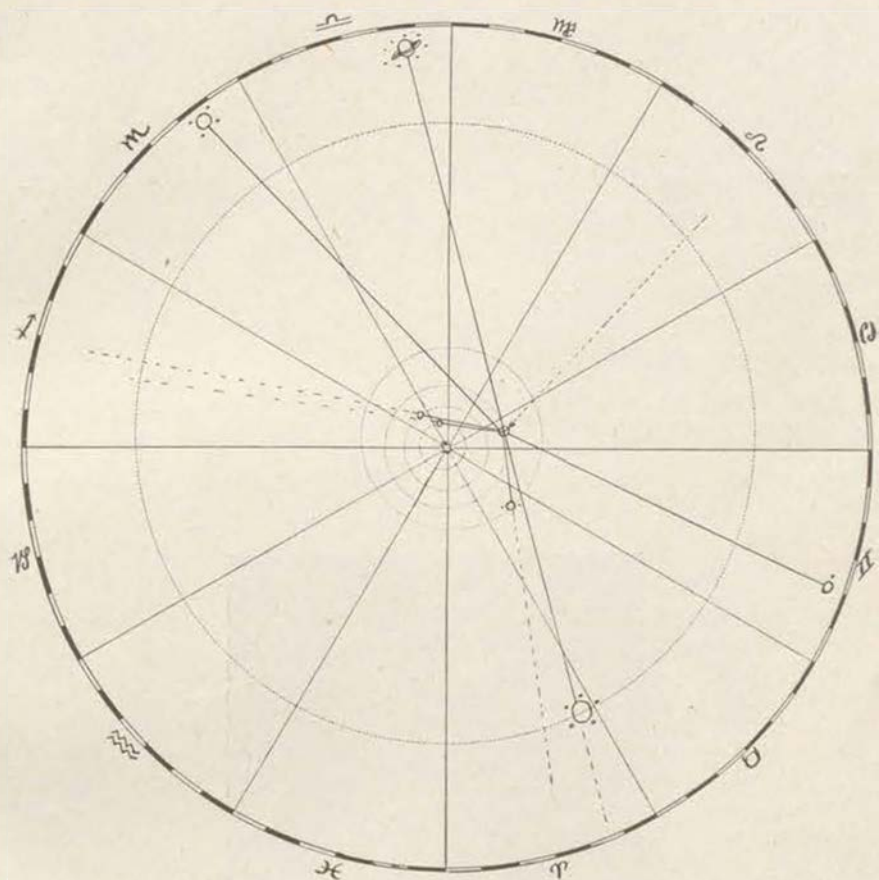

The New Time is fast approaching. The government is the controlling power. Let it be a government of the people, by the people and for the people—the whole people.

With business conditions fairly good, with agricultural interests improving, with labor gaining a better vantage ground and the freedom of the people growing in grandeur, we may look forward for twelve months with more confidence than fear; yet, the fact that money, the root of all evil, so-called, is afflicted, means many tight places and hardships for people who have heavy burdens and responsibilities.

A reign of Anarchy within our own realm is the worst that we see is possible in the way of a general affliction. The worst vibration, however, is some ways ahead and does not culminate in this, the first year of the twentieth century, so cheer up, press the button, and call for what you want.

WEEKLY DELINEATIONS.

Owing to so few of our readers being interested in the study and use of the Ephemeris Tables we have eliminated this feature of Planets and People and substituted a special orbital zodiacal illustration, which enables the student to see at a glance the Geocentric position of a planet by lining from the earth point at any time across to said planet.

We have adopted this in order to impress more clearly the importance of reading the planets from the Heliocentric standpoint, as it is the basic and all important system for quick, easy and accurate knowledge relative to the law of life and things.

The accompanying illustration from "The Law and the Prophets" explains itself. The real and apparent positions being lined out in a manner showing both the Heliocentric and Geocentric places in the signs

THE ZODIAC.

The Zodiac is a symbol of our solar circle, with the Sun as its center. It is an occult symbol for the reason that it does not appear to the vision of man, neither can it be traced in the heavens by the most powerful telescope; yet the science of mathematics proves its existence, and the figure as presented is simply a symbol expressive of the law which the universal magnetic currents produce.

It is well to make a close study of this, as a symbol, gradually tracing it to its mathematical base, thence to the Universal Law which is at the foundation of all phenomena.

It should be observed, first, that it is circular in form, not globular; that it is radiatory, equi-divisional and functional; that its variable significance is due to the planets of our system which, in their most potent relations, are the cause of the vibrating currents thus symbolized.

Next, one should study the co-ordination of man to this symbol, the relation of each function to the several divisions, the manner in which the actuating magnets vibrate the various sections and intensify the activities and phenomena relating to each.

This is the secret to the study, and as it takes some considerable concentration of thought to grasp the larger and deeper meanings, it is a very easy matter to gain a general knowledge of its importance with very little application.

One should commit the signs of the Zodiac to memory before considering the planetary signs. This will fix the foundation lines and signs of the study, which never change, firmly for such changeable conditions as the planets produce in their movements around and within the zodiacal wheel.

Aries is the first sign of the Zodiac, and Pisces the last. Aries begins at the extreme bottom of the figure of the Zodiac used in our system, extending to the right 30 degrees, where the sign Taurus begins, and so on around to the end of Pisces. Each sign is 30 degrees, the twelve completing the circle of 360 degrees.

The Zodiac has four quarters, viz.: 1. Wealth. 2. Labor. 3. Love. 4. Wisdom.

The first sign in each quarter is a mental sign.

The second sign in each quarter is a vital sign.

The third sign in each quarter is a neutral sign.

THE QUARTERS.

If you are born in the quarter of Wealth, it signifies that you belong in the field of business, of sowing, of investment and commercial undertaking. If in the quarter of Labor, it shows that you are better adapted to mechanics, building, to the trades, invention, etc. If in the quarter of Love, social relations, amusement and home, will interest you most. If in the quarter of Wisdom, the desire for knowledge will overbalance all other attractions. These tendencies are modified by the planets at the time of birth according to position and aspect, as shown in each personal horoscope.

THE SIGNS.

ARIES.—If you were born in Aries, it shows that you have a strong mental temperament, a positive mind, keen perception and clear expression, and suited to a business or profession requiring much thought and contemplation in its operation.

TAURUS.—If in Taurus, it is evidence that you are a little easy going, stubborn, somewhat inclined to speculation, and that you have desires for the good things of life, provided hard work is not necessary in securing them. It shows also that you are full of fun and sociability.

GEMINI.—Gemini shows that you are naturally very psychic, sensitive, impressional, mediumistic, and easily influenced; that conditions of every kind come on and pass away easily and quickly with you, and you love the home and quiet surroundings.

CANCER.—If born in Cancer you are extremely mental, positive, stubborn, intellectual, and will have your own way at any cost. You desire to lead and be at the head in everything. You are desirous of having people acknowledge your superior mental ability.

LEO.—If born in Leo, you have a deep, emotional and affectionate nature, and are moved by the heart in all your expressions. You have great power to carry forward the things you undertake to do.

VIRGO.—If Virgo is your sign of birth, you are negative, quiet, reserved and receptive. Your nature is somewhat hidden, but you are very apt to soar in thought and mingle with the ideal and visionary.

LIBRA.—If born in Libra you have a high sense of justice, much intelligence, good understanding and a generally happy disposition. You are a natural trader and would make a good store keeper or speculator.

SCORPIO.—If you are born in Scorpio you have an extreme nature, ever planning for future returns and always active in the affairs of the world. You are influenced very much by other people, and will gain much knowledge through peculiar experiences, unusual happenings, etc. You are inclined to speculate and operate in financial schemes.

SAGITTARIUS.—If you are born in Sagittarius you are more quiet, slow, deep in thought, but inclined to undertake great things. You are venturesome in a business way as well as in social matters, and very much inclined to roam about. You have considerable power in business proceedings, and should be engaged in outdoor pursuits.

CAPRICORNUS.—If born in this sign, Capricornus, you are capable of leading in manufacturing enterprises, or as manager of some business department, and also of accomplishing much in jobbing and transacting business of this nature. Speculation, such as real-estate, stock, etc., is your best sphere of action. You have mental power for the things mentioned.

AQUARIUS.—If you are born in Aquarius you are quick in action, a hard worker, perception high, intuition keen, love nature deep, and far-reaching, and you are gifted in genius and science. Mechanics, architecture and engineering are suitable fields for action; philosophy, religion and science the desirable studies.

PISCES.—If you are born in Pisces, you are high in imagery, ever looking up and seeking that which will pacify the mind, while you are always on your feet, moving about and giving expression to your physical body. You are negative and quite impressional. Intuition good. Any line of business, such as traveling, or, in the profession, that of the medical line is favorable.

THE PLANETS.

MERCURY.—Mercury is quick and intense in action with all other bodies with which it comes into position; is intellectual in effect upon human beings, furnishes the vital force that is necessary in business life, and fits people when well aspected for literary work, orators and executive official duties.

VENUS.—Venus governs the affections and harmonizes the physical organism. Her action is always for good, but people are often ruined through the trusting and yielding nature which she imparts to many by her association in certain positions with other planets.

MARS.—Mars is an intellectual planet, but a producer of quarrels and disturbances of various kinds. If you have a temper you cannot control, you should learn to ward off the vibrations from Mars. Strikes, duels, and wars are the result of his action upon the lives of men.

JUPITER.—Jupiter is harmonious in his action upon both the mental and physical states and governs all monetary and business affairs in human life. Broad and comprehensive intellectual growth results from Jupiter's vibrant force. People are successful or otherwise according to Jupiter's position in aspect with other bodies.

SATURN.—Saturn is the cause of sickness, disappointments, in-harmony and failure, but gives strong mental and spiritual powers when well aspected. Inward suffering and all physical weaknesses are the result of his vibrations. He interferes with business success. You should learn to rise above the powers acting from that source.

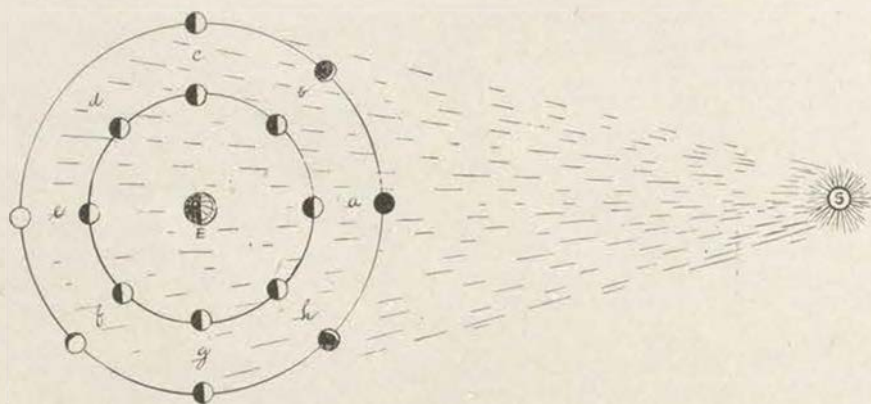

URANUS.—Uranus is the labor planet, and is an intensifier in speculation and general business. Is good and evil in effect, according to position and aspect. The psychic powers are found through the vibrations of Uranus. Clairvoyant sight is the result of a favorable position and aspect.

NEPTUNE.—Neptune is a financial planet and controls commerce and travel to a great extent. Governments make treaties and adjust differences with foreign powers, or the reverse, according to position, power and aspect of Neptune and the other planets.

MOON.—The Moon being a very rapid body in its movements about the earth, it produces those daily and hourly fluctuations of the mind and heart, and thus keep up the more active manifestations of life generally. It may be very good or very bad, but for a short time only.

Mercury is the planet nearest to the Sun, Venus comes next, then the earth on which we live, then Mars and so on out to Neptune, according to the order in which they are above placed.

The Moon has four phases, and in order to tell in what phase or quarter the moon is in at any time, as shown in horoscopolical illustrations, remember this: New moon occurs when the moon is in conjunction with the sun, or to make it a little plainer, when the moon is between the earth and the sun. The full moon occurs when the earth is between the moon and the sun. The first quarter occurs when the moon reaches a position just behind the earth as she moves along in her orbit; and the last quarter when the moon gets just ahead of the earth. The various phases of the moon are shown in the accompanying illustration:

The special weekly forecast and general suggestions relative to Business, Health, Children, Marriage, The Weather, Planting and Sowing, etc., are made in accordance with this Great Planetary Law, the Universal Vibrations of Nature, and all who heed these things will find therein a reason for each and every expression of life in the physical sphere of mother earth.

YOUR PERSONAL HOROSCOPE.

The translation of the planets through the Zodiacal signs are ever productive of change in the affairs of man, and when one is favorably vibrated another is severely acted upon, hence the necessity of a personal horoscope in order to determine when and how one may be affected.

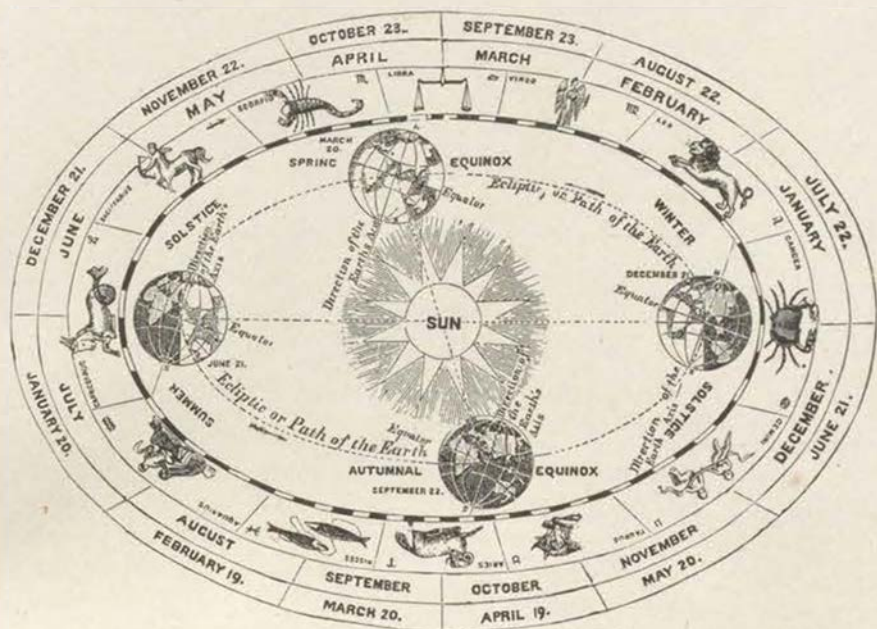

The delineations in this work relate to the present living and controlling forces of the eternal life, the ever-living and ever-present creator of the manifestation of life in things—THE INFINITE.

AS A STUDY.

Thousands of people are taking up the study of Planetary law now that our simple methods of presenting the same are becoming more widely known. It is only a matter of a little time when millions will become familiar with this Great, Grand and Beautiful Science of Being.

Our Books, Charts and Simple Instruction specially gotten up for the purpose of extending this knowledge to the masses, cost but little in comparison with other works, and the results to the student are a thousand-fold greater, for the time required, than from any and all other branches of learning.

(Note.—The following delineations were written during August and September, 1900, before the presidential election.)

The above diagram illustrates the Earth at the four cardinal points beginning the four seasons, Spring, Summer, Autumn, and Winter. The months are given both Geo-centrally and Helio-centrally, the inside circle shows where the Earth is each month, and the outside circle shows the corresponding position of the Sun.

The first day of Winter is the shortest day of the year, and the first day of Summer is the longest. The Spring and Autumn Equinoxes show the only days of the year having equal day and night.

DAY TABLE OF THE PLANETS FOR 1901.

Showing the Geocentric Conjunction, Opposition, Square, Sextile and Trine Aspects.

1st Month, 31 Days—JANUARY 1.—Winter, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Venus enters Scorpio the 2d. Neptune is evening star in Gemini. Venus and Mars are the visible morning stars. Moon full the 4th in Cancer.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—The business indications for this first week of the year are not very promising. The opposition of Saturn upsets the confidences of the people and causes a great deal of fear to come over them. This is so marked that large numbers will be affected, thus making it a forerunner of dullness in trade, outside of animal products, which alone are vibrated fairly well for gain to the dealer. The fear referred to will curtail investments and cause a shrinkage in the circulating medium, no matter what party is in power. Business, therefore, is not at all promising this first week of the new year. Speculation is a feature of business which will be under the power of tenacious holders of values, who will strive for supremacy, but with little to give impetus to new trading.

HEALTH.—The conditions for health are very fair the first few days, but the latter part of the week the change is productive of headaches and mental disorders. Nothing serious. Throw it off.

CHILDREN.—The adaptations of children to business and professional life are in the line of agriculture.

MARRIAGE.—After Tuesday come the best days of this week, which, at best, are not very good.

WEATHER.—A stormy time, with the worst of it the last of the week. Very windy and disagreeable. Low vibrations and high, giving extreme changes. It will be a disagreeable time for colds, owing to the result of the holiday season.

1st Month, 31 Days—JANUARY 7.—Winter, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Capricornus the 11th. Neptune is the star of the evening. Venus, Jupiter, Uranus and Mars are the stars of the morning.

Moon—last quarter the 12th in Libra.

DELINEATION.

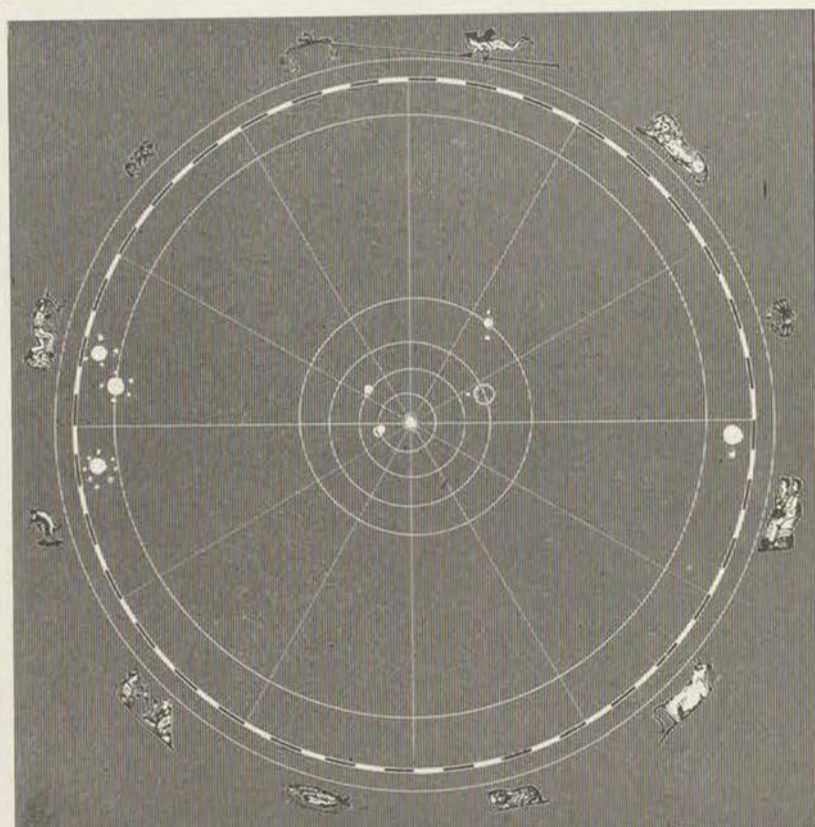

BUSINESS.—This week of January 7 is a repetition of last week up to the 11th, when Mercury enters Capricornus and stirs up the minds of the people and sets them to thinking seriously of taking hold again for luck. This will improve the situation so far as activity is concerned, and the time will be ripe for a period of speculation which will be very much of a see-saw movement, and quite lively.

HEALTH.—The stimulus which Mercury will give to the situation toward the last of the week will be beneficial to health, although the first effect will be a sudden shock to those whose heads are in trouble. A thorough massage, rubbing of the head, with cold water bathing will stir up the circulation and give much relief.

CHILDREN.—When Mercury makes the conjunction of Saturn the co-ordination of children born then will be toward literature and art, and to agriculture as well. They will love the country and woods—the mountains and valleys. They will be very intellectual and gifted in the study of language.

MARRIAGE.—Marriage under the extreme up and down tendency of this combination will be conducive of depression, depletion and lassitude, as well as indifference in the marriage relation. Better wait a while.

WEATHER.—This is a stormy week all through. The elements will be stirred up quite severely the last few days. Snappy, cutting winds and probably sleet. The sudden change will follow the 11th and extend over vast areas, making it quite a severe period for those who are without shelter, as well as for stock in parts where they are usually left to browse around and pick their way through the winter.

1st Month, 31 Days—JANUARY 14.—Winter, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Aquarius the 21st.

Venus enters Sagittarius the 21st.

The earth enters Leo the 21st.

New moon in Aquarius the 19th.

The morning and evening stars remain the same.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—January 14th the same stirring, exciting and changeable vibrations show the trend of the times in business circles, and the excitement is favorable to animal products and to some other lines of trade. There will be an extra call for certain kinds of literature, and publishers of agricultural journals should make a special point in advertising during all this week. It is a good time to secure subscriptions.

Speculative values will be very changeable all through this period, and the final windup should not be far from the starting point.

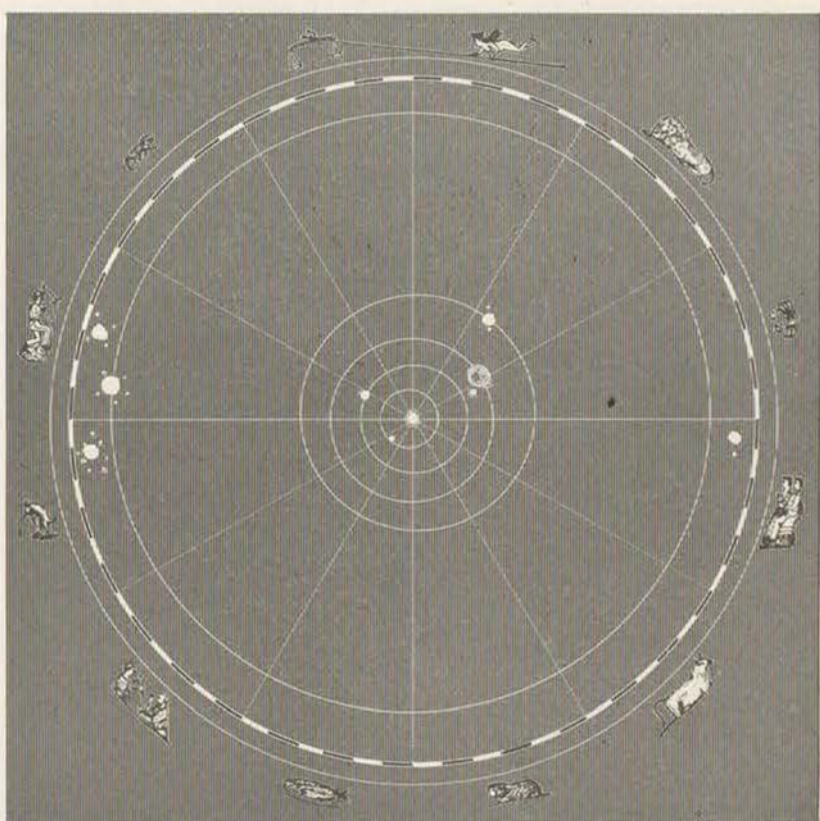

HEALTH.—Colds in the head and pains in the back of the neck and head are the chief disturbances, and while they are not dangerous, they are very annoying. Physical exercise sufficient to bring out perspiration will give almost instant relief, and with a little care afterwards recovery for some time to come, or until another period for such attacks. Generally speaking, this is not a bad time for health. The vital forces are in good condition to give strength in abundance.

CHILDREN.—The little tots of this week will be very much the same in nature as those of last week; the variations being in relation to time of day, but in the present state of our solar system the two planets, Mercury and Saturn, determine all the principal characteristics.

MARRIAGE.—Partnerships of this nature, as well as those of business, may be entered into under much more promising vibrations later on, and we advise putting them off awhile.

WEATHER.—The tendency of the elements beginning about Wednesday is toward calmness, therefore, we should have pleasant days the latter part of the week, cool, but not severe.

1st Month, 31 Days—JANUARY 21.—Winter, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Pisces the 29th.
Saturn may be seen as a morning star, with Venus, Jupiter and Uranus.
Mars and Neptune are evening stars.
Moon—First quarter the 27th in Taurus.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—January 21st a complete change is brought about in all of the affairs of the world. This is a very marked and, we may add, a very striking change. It will have an important bearing upon trade and commerce generally. It is very war-like and should influence values in cereal lines in a way to give much activity.

Speculation, however, will not be the chief feature of this time, as the more material interests of life will attract people most of all. It is rather of a severe time. Many horrors of death will be reported. Mining interests will be much affected by this combination. Either deaths in mines or severity from strikes will characterize this period.

HEALTH.—This is quite unfavorable for the general health of the people. The blood will become stagnant and vitiated, and much suffering will result from imperfect circulation and poisonous blood. It is a severe time for blood poison to set in when bruises are sustained. A steam bath and a purging of the system will give immediate relief to all who feel ill and do not know what the trouble is. Throw out the deficient substance and keep up a good exercise.

CHILDREN.—The male children of this period co-ordinate with mining interests, especially Iron and Copper mines. There is a tendency to the Hardware trade, Drugs and the Medical profession; also to the military.

MARRIAGE.—There is positively no promise of any kind for good. Be patient.

WEATHER.—We should experience a warm spell the first of this week, followed by a cold snap of more than usual severity. Probably rain about Wednesday.

2nd Month, 28 Days—FEBRUARY 4.—Winter, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Aries the 5th.

Venus enters Capricornus the 8th.

Mercury, Mars and Neptune evening stars.

Moon full on the 2d in Leo.

DELINEATION.

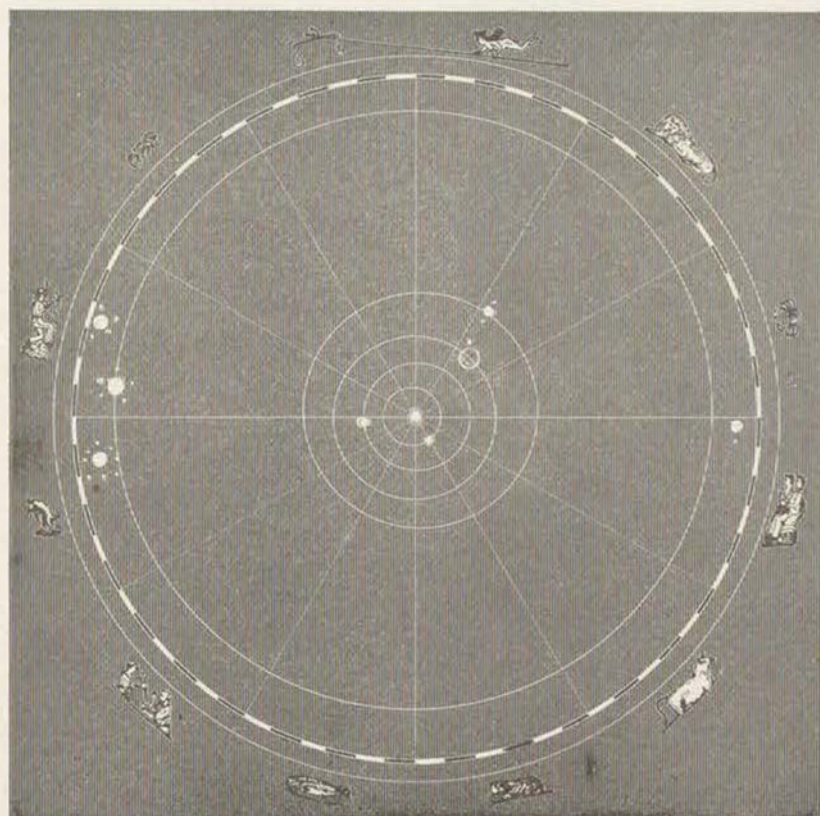

BUSINESS.—This Monday, February 4th, there is little to say favoring the business situation. Mining interests still hold the attractions of the times; but on Tuesday or at the latest, by Wednesday, the Mental man wakes up and begins to consider more deeply the questions and problems of the hour. This change is important in connection with labor and capital. It is a time when differences may be discussed with an assurance of a more rational result. It is not the best time for peaceable settlements. In fact the week starts under the very opposite, but Wednesday is the time for mind and reason to come to the front and produce a means to an end of differences. This applies to all who are in dispute; in the household, among neighbors, in business and elsewhere.

HEALTH.—There is nothing favorable to the health of the people, nor will there be, until after the 22nd of the month. The tendency is toward fevers all this week, and brain fever especially will upset a good many heads. The vitiated blood will make these feverous attacks quite severe, and in fever stricken localities it will be epidemic. This is just the right combination for a severe run of Small-pox. Read "Vibrations of Health" and learn how to treat these things.

CHILDREN.—There is little to change the nature and occupation of children from those of the last date, except that pottery and art goods in this line, ornamental work, etc., may be added to the others mentioned.

MARRIAGE.—The situation grows worse apace, and the year is well along; but a good time is coming.

WEATHER.—We should have a great deal of wet weather, heavy falls of damp snow, and severe freshets in the middle states. Fires out of the ordinary are due to break out this week also. Water and heat abound.

2nd Month, 28 Days—FEBRUARY 11.—Winter, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Taurus the 11th.
Mercury enters Gemini the 16th.
Mars enters Virgo the 15th.
Moon—Last quarter, the 11th in Scorpio.
Morning and evening stars unchanged.

DELINEATION

BUSINESS.—February 11th the Business outlook is a little brighter. The possibility of better conditions prevailing soon in labor circles, mines, etc., will give a little confidence at least to the investor, and as a more energetic spirit permeates our solar circle the people of all climes will begin to feel like taking hold and doing something. This means a little improvement in the commercial sphere. Speculation will be more active and more hazardous, but plenty of excitement will make the situation very interesting to those of daring mein. Very short sudden actions and reactions are in line with the planetary agitations, so it is well to keep a watchful eye on all investments.

HEALTH.—Quite a stimulus will be given those who suffer from disease all through this week. It is a good time to make a special effort in throwing off bad elements and inbreathing good, fresh air. Massage the spinal column below the shoulder blades and downward.

CHILDREN.—There is a strong current favoring mechanics, machinery, novelty manufacture in wood and iron the first three days, after which the medical profession will open a way to a large number born at this time.

MARRIAGE.—We now come to a short period when conditions are just fairly good for marriage. The last three days of this week is the specially appointed time. (Appointed by nature.)

WEATHER.—The first part of the week will set up very lively currents in the atmosphere, which will make a regular storm period lasting until the latter part, when a few days calm and clear will follow.

2nd Month, 28 Days—FEBRUARY 18.—Winter, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Cancer the 21st.
The Earth enters Virgo the 20th.
Mercury, Mars and Neptune rule the night.
Venus, Jupiter, Saturn and Uranus rule the day.

Moon—New on the 18th in Aquarius.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—This Monday, February 18th, we have the most promising business vibration of the year, thus far. It really looks like a new time in the affairs of trade, commerce, etc. This is an important time for beginnings in new movements. The wave is one which will effect a large percentage of business characters. It being the first respite from a long run of inharmonious currents, it may take several days to fully realize that it is a real change. Take courage now, all ye that are heavy laden, and get a move on you; you don't need rest. The opportunity is here for systematic labor. The country needs your services. It will call upon many to set things going. Speculation will be easy, with a decline in cereals that lead the markets.

HEALTH.—The elements that serve to enhance healthy tissue are more abundantly displayed this week, and of a sudden people will get up from a sick bed and be well. This is especially favorable for Christian Science practices. It will be so easy to lift a patient up and tell him he is not sick. Of course the planets do it.

CHILDREN.—The first three days the Professions—medical, literary and scientific—will be the best lines to follow, as the vitality will be quite low, which will disqualify them for manual labor of any kind that is very much exhausting to the system. Fruit farming, gardening and light outdoor work will be very good for these weaklings.

MARRIAGE.—The favorable wave of last week continues for three days longer, and Sunday, Monday and Tuesday may be noted as quite desirable times.

WEATHER.—A storm and severely windy period is due to break forth about the 23d, continuing for several days. It will be a damp, cold and disagreeable run of the elements.

2nd Month, 28 Days—FEBRUARY 25.—Winter, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Leo the 26th.

Venus enters Aquarius the 27th.

Moon—First quarter the 25th in Gemini.

Mars again the Ruling Planet of the week.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—February 25th opens up a week of business undertakings that will mark the first important movements of the season. This is quite a promising outlook. The heavy-weights in the world of finance will now begin to show their colors. This will give confidence to large numbers and make it easy to establish connections that will result in satisfactory operations. This is something of a warlike figure, as usual, and a period of hardship for many while things are being placed on a more just and equitable basis. Speculation will be under broader lines, making larger deals more frequent than for some time past.

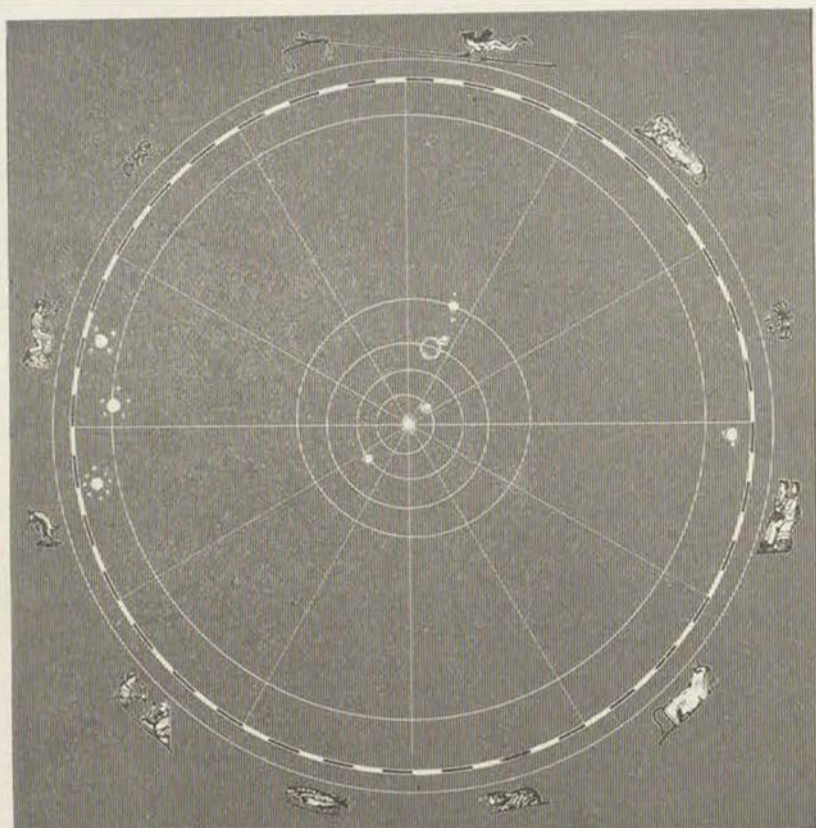

HEALTH.—A decided change for the better is shown relative to health.

While smallpox will keep many in trouble, there is less danger than during the four weeks just passed. The lower limbs, which are free from dangerous ailments, will be afflicted most, and exercise and massage rubbings are needed to liven them up and keep the circulation on a par with that of the balance of the system.

CHILDREN.—The stars are quite favorable to the Medical and Surgical line, and a great many of both sexes born this week will find their proper sphere in this line. It is favorable to marine, military and ocean traffic, the import and export trades.

MARRIAGE.—While this is not especially favorable to marriage, it is not a bad period for contracts of a partnership nature, and marriage really comes under this head. The first two days are best.

WEATHER.—This appears to be rather a steady cold week, with considerable rainfall, and toward the last considerable wind. As the waters will be stirred up most there will be much danger upon the seas.

3rd Month, 31 Days—MARCH 4.—Winter, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Virgo on the 4th and becomes the ruling planet of the week. Moon is full the 5th in Virgo.

Mars and Neptune rule the night. The others rule the day.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—March the 4th, with Mercury coming into conjunction with the Earth and Mars, the business situation is accelerated, and with the previous week's favorable wave it means quite an improvement all along the commercial line. Iron, steel and wire seem to be favored most. Large orders should be booked in these lines. Builders' hardware should be in greater demand, also machinery. Agricultural implements will sell freer and faster than ever before. Structural iron and bridge work will be called for more freely. The heavens begin to look down with favor upon these things. Speculation will be active and fluctuations will be very marked. The trend will be upward, but sudden and sharp reactions will be experienced, with a range of prices to suit the rapid trader.

HEALTH.—This is an exasperating time for colds in the head and lungs; chills and fever will have a run also. The circulation is universally good, so the usual remedies will give quick relief. Those afflicted with dropsy will have a period of expansion and annoyance. Keep the upper half of the body well massaged and eat plenty of red pepper. This exercise and stimulation will aid in giving a normal condition to the afflicted parts.

CHILDREN.—Builders of Bridges, Ships, Railroad Cars and contractors generally will be born this week. Science, invention, machinery and architecture will attract them. The range is a good one and some great character will result.

MARRIAGE.—This is not favorable to partnerships of any kind.

WEATHER.—A high flyer in the elements. Danger everywhere of cyclones, hurricanes, waterspouts, tidal waves, etc. Volcanic eruptions are due. Danger on the high seas.

3rd Month, 31 Days—MARCH 11.—Winter, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury entered Libra the 10th.

Mars again becomes the ruling planet of the week.

Moon—Last quarter 12th, in Sagittarius.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—March 11th shows up still better for business. The retail trade will respond more freely to this impetus and thus begin to move accumulated stocks which have been slow to turn during the past two months. The hardware and builders' supply business, plumbing, etc., will improve while this wave is on, and this means that business generally will be much better. It is an excellent time to push all lines. Speculation will run in iron and steel largely, as these securities will no doubt be affected more than other speculative stocks. A better demand should not have a depressing effect upon prices. The stock being under the control of trusts it is largely a scheme of manipulation rather than open and legitimate speculation. Thus man determines to some extent the effect of the tides of these values. The stocks of great corporations are cornered by the majority vote, and being thus held, there is not always sufficient data to warrant a prognostication as to future movements. Make a note of this.

HEALTH.—The conditions for health this week are much better than they were last week, and all who are ailing should improve rapidly under reasonable treatment and care.

CHILDREN.—Teachers, lawyers, doctors, and in the business world, iron merchants, railroad builders and contractors generally. This range of adaptations will enable parents to choose to their liking for the baby's future.

MARRIAGE.—Conditions quite favorable for unions. First three days best.

WEATHER.—A cold snap is due about the 12th or 13th, and a dangerous storm period right afterwards. Great loss of life, many suicides and tragedies will result.

3rd Month, 31 Days—MARCH 18.—Winter, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Scorpio the 19th.

Venus enters Pisces the 18th.

Earth enters Libra the 21st.

New moon the 19th in Pisces.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—March the 18th the business world gains another point in planetary movements and changes. This will continue for three days, and thus it is a special time for contracts and culminations of all kinds in business matters. A good time to drive a bargain, sell real estate and secure orders in general trade. The tendency to trade increases apace, and the last three days show a great increase in traffic of all kinds. This is a time when it is easy to find good bargains among those who have the desire to trade more highly developed than the capacity to make profits. A good trade sign. Speculation will catch many suckers, and great activity will result over small and foolish investments. A drop in prices may be looked for about this time. On the whole the week's doings should set things a going for a continuous active period. However, some large failures are due on Saturday.

HEALTH.—Bowel difficulties and pleurisy will strike the ones subject to affliction at this time. Cancers will be troublesome and give much fear to those well along with this malady.

CHILDREN.—Strictly business will be the motto of those born during all this week. They will be heavy weights in their line. Merchants of the wholesale and manufacturing type. Plungers in the world of commerce they may be called. Give them a business education. This is important.

MARRIAGE.—There is nothing in the way of combinations of this nature, although corporations and partnerships in the business world will experience a shake-up about this time.

WEATHER.—The 25th is another storm period, and probably the wind-up of the cold snaps will precede a suddenly warm and springlike atmosphere. All in 36 hours. A quick change in the elements.

3rd Month, 31 Days—MARCH 25.—Winter, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Sagittarius the 29th.

Jupiter enters Capricornus the 23d.

Moon—First quarter the 27th

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—March the 25th, the first week of spring, will be a period to remember in after years. The most effective change of the year comes at this time, so far as these forces relate to the business affairs of man. Governments will be affected by this change. All great schemes, religions, political lobbying and everything that depends upon holding people as subjects and making it possible for autocrats to control will feel this important change in the nature of things. The affairs of nations will assume new forms, and those who have been put down and under will show a phase of human nature which will require the strongest arm of the law to cope with. This is a week of collapses of various kinds. A time for a reign of terror, anarchy, or something to be suppressed by the force of arms. Business failures will be numerous.

(Note—We are writing this September 10th, 1900, sixty days before election, so the reader can readily see that we do not base these predictions upon the results of party success.)

HEALTH.—Some of the more fatal diseases will have a run this week in culminating lines. Apoplexy will claim many. Brain fever some. Cancer many, yet the general conditions are very fair for energy and vitality.

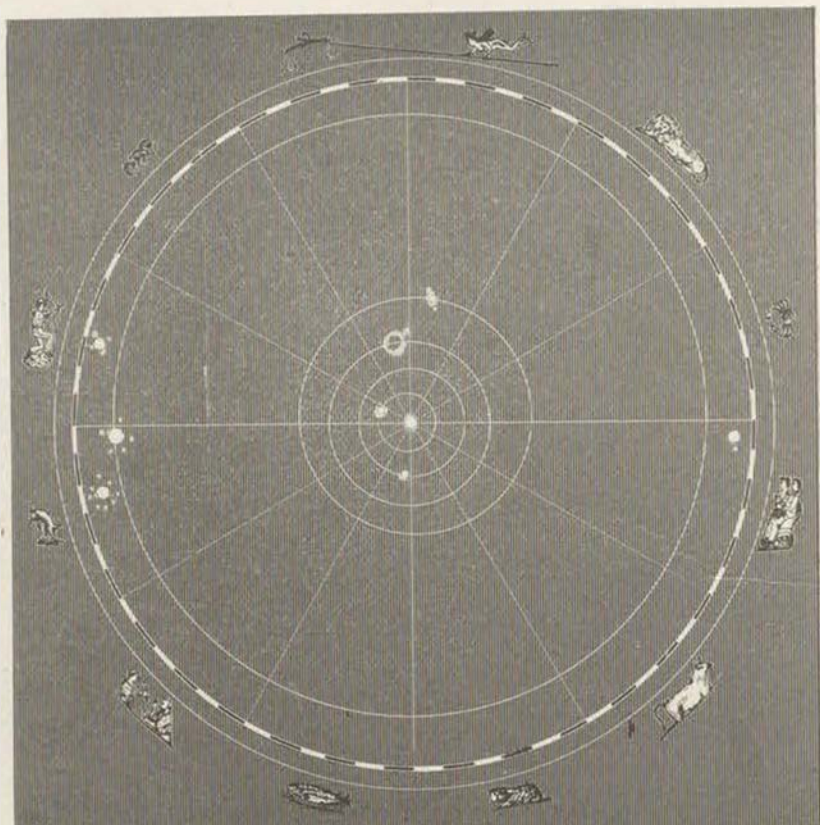

CHILDREN.—Again we have business characters which are specially adapted to the jobbing and manufacturing lines. Cattle dealers, fancy horses and ranches for herding animals of various kinds. Some millionaires are sure to be born this week, especially if it can be said—

"Aries with the rising sun arose

And cast his lot for millions."

MARRIAGE.—This is not conducive to the marriage relation WEATHER.—The weather features of the map of the heavens look very wet at this time. Copious showers and a phenomenal fall of water over vast areas should result.

4th Month, 30 Days—APRIL 1.—Spring, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Venus enters Aries the 6th.
Moon full on the 3d in Libra.
Mars and the Moon rule the night.
All the others affect the day.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—This Monday, April 1st, is a period of readjustment and the starting point of a new time in business matters. Trade generally will be fairly good. Some depression for a time may be felt as a result of last week's doings, and some will still have to have their worst time, as all cannot be shook up at one and the same time. Trusts will no doubt receive a black eye during this month, and all inflated values will be called to account. Speculation will be in the throes of despair, and wild rumors will send things downward with severe jerks back and forth at times. A wild time on 'change. Wheat will no doubt get a great deal of this influence, and any corners run at this time will help to intensify the extreme situation.

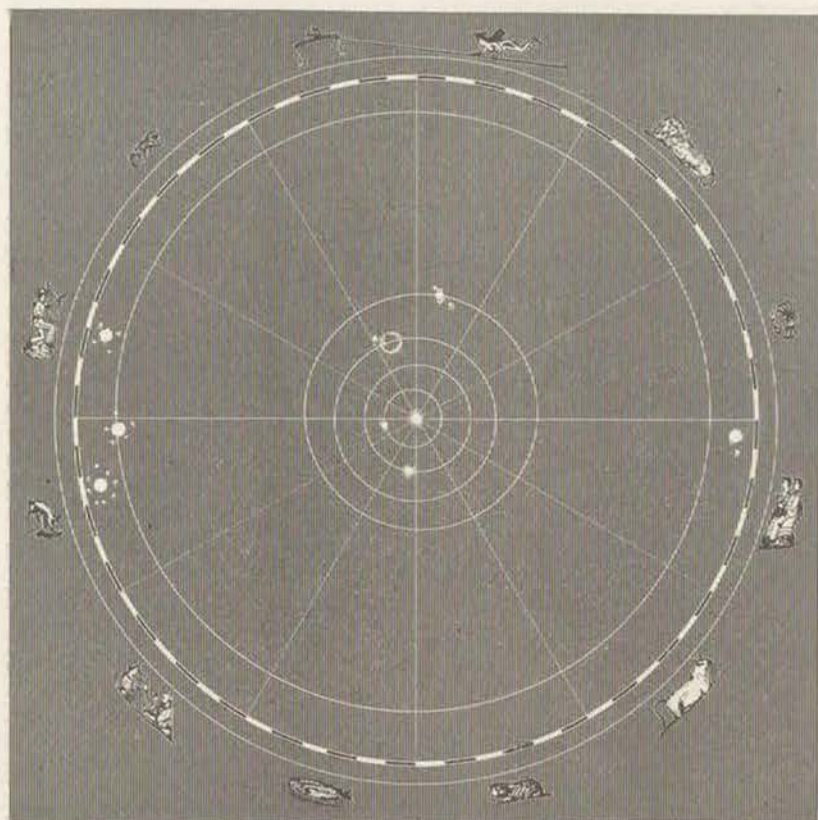

HEALTH.—People will feel the power of the times upon and within their physical bodies, and this means greater life and strength, hence, a healthful time all round. The special ailments mentioned last week are still under the same stress of circumstances, but it will soon wane and a new star will take the lead in magnetizing the people of the earth.

CHILDREN.—There is but a slight change in the business adaptation of children, and the lines suggested for last week are good for those of this time. They will be gifted in dealings of large magnitude, whatever line they choose. It is a horoscope for physical power and glory to the new comers.

MARRIAGE.—There is nothing in the way of marriage, and the best days of the week are Tuesday and Wednesday.

WEATHER.—The rains will wind up about Wednesday. That is, the cause will let up at that time, and soon there will be a clear sky and beautiful weather for some days. The danger lines are passed, and all is promising from the elements.

4th Month, 30 Days—APRIL 8.—Spring, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Capricornus the 8th. Moon—Last quarter the 11th in Capricornus.

Mercury, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune are morning stars, rising between 12 midnight and 12 noon. Mars is the evening star.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—April 8th the affairs of the nation may be harmoniously adjusted under very satisfactory agreement. Now is the time to do it. Let no time or opportunity pass these days without an effort in the direction of peace and justice. It is a most promising time for peace commissions to accomplish wonders for the good of all the world. Business and social differences, family discords and estrangements all may be made harmonious, comparatively, if a little effort is put forth with this end in view. Everything points to a wonderful improvement in business circles. Head gear will lead in retail lines, and beauty will have a decoration inning. "Make way for the Ladies." It is their period.

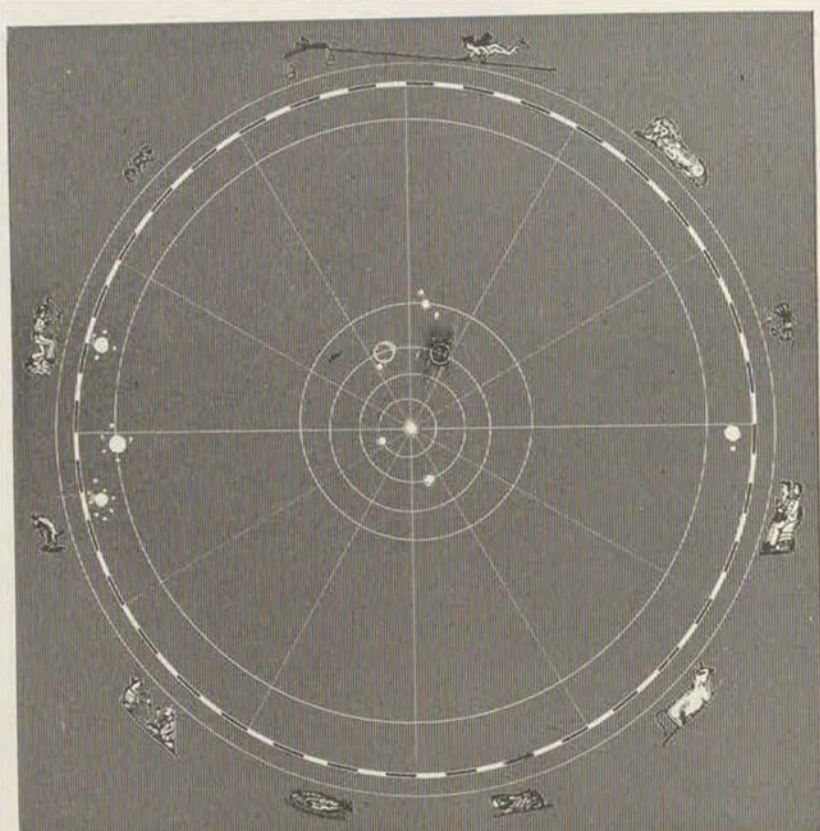

Confections, drinks, mild and otherwise, will cause many to indulge beyond the limits of reason, and debauchery will reign for a little time among the high (?) and low alike. Speculation will be at the interesting line all the week. Great confidence

HEALTH.—But for the tendency of the times toward over-indulgence, everything is especially favorable for health, harmony and happiness. Mirthfulness runs riot. Everybody will be hilarious. Bursts of eloquence will be heard in many pulpits and lecture halls as never before. That is, if the speakers keep sober and do not yield to the temptations of the hour.

CHILDREN.—Orators! Orators! Orators! Preachers and lawyers, many. Smart but liable. * * * Awfully good, the males will be regular ladies' men; the girls, bless their dear, sweet pictures, they will all be dreams.

MARRIAGE.—Just the time.

WEATHER.—Thunder showers, beautiful weather, a growing time, a lovely world to live in.

4th Month, 30 Days—APRIL 15.—Spring, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Aquarius the 18th.

Moon—New on the 18th in Aries.

The day, night, morning and evening stars remain the same.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—April 15. The business situation continues good and the wave of last week will have nothing in this combination to disturb it. Everything points to greater prosperity and a much larger retail trade than for a long time past. Traveling salesmen will now begin to book better orders, and the circulating medium will seem to be lubricated. The world seems to be in a fair way at this time to "get right again." Art goods, fancy goods, notions and novelties will move rapidly. Theaters and all kinds of entertainment will draw crowds bent on amusement. The art of making love as a theatrical feature would be a drawing card this week. Speculation will boom, and a sudden change in price will surprise 'em. Confidence and recklessness will help to keep up the activity, whichever way it goes. Wheat is the leading berry of the week.

HEALTH.—There is no let up to the harmonic vibration for health. Now is the time to get up and out into the air and sunshine. Health Universal is the motto. There are no sick transits in force at this time. Plenty of sun and air will do the business, and create a new state within the vital centers. A good wetting in a thunderstorm will do you good. Stay in the sun and dry off will do you more good. Breathe deeply and fill your lungs with the best that Nature has on tap.

CHILDREN.—The same conditions prevail relative to children up to the last two days of this week, when there will be less capacity for the professions mentioned, although the gifts will be in the same direction. It is better for business interests, milling, fancy goods, etc.

MARRIAGE.—The last two days of the week are the best, though all are good.

WEATHER.—It appears to be a very wet month, and small or short showers are again due after Wednes-

4th Month, 30 Days—APRIL 22.—Spring, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Earth enters Scorpio the 21st.
Venus enters Taurus the 24th.
Mars enters Libra the 24th.
Mercury enters Pisces the 27th.
Moon makes first quarter 24th

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—Business April 22nd is under a new regime. It shifts to clothing and personal adornment generally. A sobering up time and shamefacedness. Funny people can't go through such a period just loving one another instead of going to such extremes. Still all these things make business of some sort or another, and it is this that sets money freely in circulation. You pay your money and you take your choice, a privilege guaranteed by the Infinite. And you suffer the consequences of your acts, whatever they may be, or bask in the sunshine of reward for deeds well done. This is the law. Speculate if you will; the range will be narrow and trades will be diminutive. Act quickly. The eternal ways show speed at this time.

HEALTH.—Harmony abounds everywhere. Peace and good will is able to renew all who suffer and make them feel that life is worth living after all. No serious ailments can develop or break out under the present state of the stars. They are for health and entirely against affliction of every kind. Let it be so.

CHILDREN.—The little tots coming from the mystic sphere at this time will be good enough to eat. They will be born lucky and make good business people in retail lines. Clothing trade quite favorable. They will make nice, agreeable salesmen, clerks and all-round handy characters. They will love early and intensely, and should be allowed to marry young. Some will become very wealthy in the clothing line.

MARRIAGE.—This appears to be the most favorable week of the year thus far. Prepare the supper at once.

WEATHER.—The most delightful weather one can wish for should greet us all this week. The wet period seems to be passed and the beauties of nature favored as never before.

5th Month, 31 Days—MAY 6.—Spring, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Aries the 4th.
Mercury enters Taurus the 10th.
Venus enters Gemini the 12th.
Moon is full the 3d in Scorpio.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—May the 6th is the date for the above figure, which shows that we have passed over a few odd days in order to make the delineation appear for Monday, the first of the week. From the 4th to the 10th we have a run under the planet Venus, in a favorable position for good to all mankind. The business situation is still flourishing for the time and season, which, however, is not to be compared with 1900 during the same week. The clothing business should be better accordingly than most other lines. It appears to be a time for decorations of superior finish. There should be some improvement in iron goods of all kinds this week. The retail trade especially is affected.

Speculation is under a stimulating current this week, yet the markets should be soft and easy, comparatively. Fluctuations will be a little more rangy than they were last week. The conditions are favorable to easy manipulation in either direction.

HEALTH.—We have health in abundance as usual these days. The one disagreeable feature is the tendency to cancerous outbreaks and annoyances. Fevers are due to some, but this is not a severe time for this troublesome concentration of heat.

CHILDREN.—This is probably the most harmonious and easy horoscope to be born under that we shall have this year. Venus rules the career of him who is born any time before the 10th, when Mercury takes first place. The clothing trade, dressmaking, fancy goods and flowers. Many will become florists; a good occupation for Venus characters of this type.

MARRIAGE.—A very promising time to wed. Let the bells ring out in many places, for love's sweet ray inspires.

WEATHER.—This will be a hot weather week. Extremely so for the season; light thunder showers.

5th Month, 31 Days—MAY 13.—Spring, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Taurus the 10th.

Venus enters Gemini the 12th.

Moon—Last quarter the 10th in Aquarius.

Mercury, Venus and Neptune rule the day.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—May 13th there will be a great deal of stir and activity in business circles; many propositions presented that mean but little, and will amount to little. The real business done will be much less than for some weeks past. Still this is a fairly good week for general trade. We wish it understood that as compared with the few weeks just passed it is less of a business period, not that it is a bad spell, when everything will collapse and go to pieces.

Speculation will be active, with a narrow range of ups and downs. The range in prices will be sufficient for good profit taking on rapid trading.

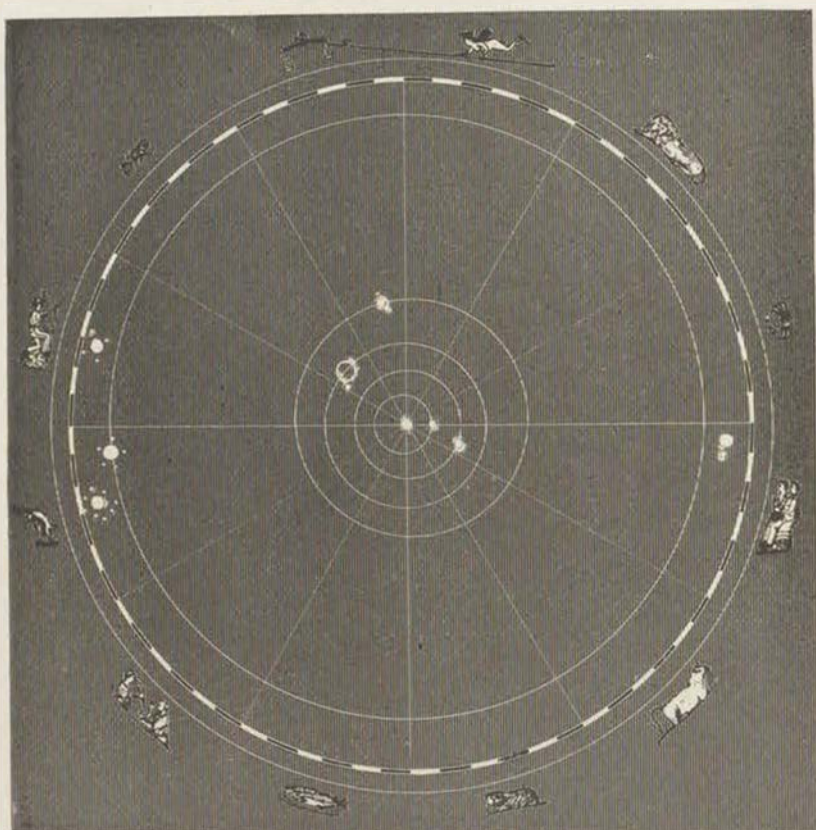

HEALTH.—Everything favors the health of the people this year. Mental troubles are the principal afflictions, and they do not amount to much except to the chronic grumbler. We see no reason for making a suggestion as to what is best to do except, perhaps to say, "forget it." Think about the brighter side of life. Get in touch with the ever glorious ethers of space and press forward in the pursuit of happiness.

CHILDREN.—The figure for this time shows that some very peculiar natures will be ushered into the sphere of mortal existence. They will be very lively characters and will serve the law best in connection with newspapers. Reporters of news.

MARRIAGE.—While there is little to say for marriage, we see nothing of importance to interfere with such contracts.

WEATHER.—A storm period of considerable importance begins its manifestations about the 15th and continues to grow worse for some days. This is a developer of some lively atmospheric movements. Cyclones, tornadoes, etc., are due.

5th Month, 31 Days—MAY 20.—Spring, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury entered Gemini the 15th.
Mercury entered Cancer the 20th.
Earth enters Sagittarius the 22nd.
Moon is new the 18th in Taurus.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—May 20th the planets are about the same from a business point of view as they were last week, but on the 22nd a complete change occurs, which gives added impetus to most all lines of trade. The wholesale trade, especially with foreign countries, will no doubt show many gains this week or soon after. This is the week for making sales, booking orders from abroad and increasing trade at home. A good all round week for active operations and a large volume of trade. Package goods of many kinds should be in demand to a greater extent than usual. Railroads should have an extra run of passengers, as well as freight traffic. It is a traveling period. A time for pleasure seeking. Ocean steamers will be loaded much heavier with human freight.

Speculation in stocks will be the chief attraction this week. Railroad, Sugar and Gas stocks appear to be in the lead. Sugar especially should be an active mover.

HEALTH.—Again we have a health wave to report, and if this keeps up the medicos will have to do as the bankers did in Kansas—go to farming. This is a remarkable year for health and happiness.

CHILDREN.—A very good figure of the heavens appears this week for the new eaters who come among us crying for milk. They will be very fine and select characters. Rather too nice for ordinary pursuits; given to traveling and suited to the commission business, importing and exporting lines, and positions of trust in connection with governments in foreign lands. People should have all the babies they want with such a horoscope as this.

MARRIAGE.—A good time the first two days of the week. A fair time the balance of the week.

WEATHER.—There seems to be nothing in the way of a calm and beautiful spell of weather.

5th Month, 31 Days—MAY 27.—Spring, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Leo on the 25th.

Venus enters Cancer on the 31st.

Moon—First quarter the 24th in Leo.

Mercury, Venus, Mars, Neptune rule the night.

Jupiter, Saturn and Uranus rule the day.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—If people could understand more clearly the importance of these planetary changes and make it popular to move in business matters in harmony therewith a great amount of friction and worry, losses and failures might be avoided. The discouragement of trying to do business when there is nothing in heaven or earth favoring the movement is enough to unseat some men's reasons. The conditions for this week are about the same as they were last, and as they continue to the end of the month the period has been about eleven days' duration. This is time enough to close contracts for a year's operations in a great many lines of trade, manufactures, etc. Speculation is continuous in line with business generally. It is especially influential in the sugar and railroad lines.

HEALTH.—Far better than last week are the angles of the stars in the promotion of health. It is really invigorating to look forward to such a phenomenal run of harmony and good cheer. This is a regular Christian Science success year. Let the good work go on and let them believe they control the planets with their superior mental force if they enjoy it. It will not harm anyone.

CHILDREN.—We have a little better horoscope for health, but not quite so good for knowledge and executive ability, although this is way up above the average in this respect. It is a good time to be born.

MARRIAGE.—All the better for marriage is this favorite star chart of the times. The first and last three days are best.

WEATHER.—We may have a severe wind storm the last of this week, and we may say the conditions begin to point to a pretty dry, parchy time.

6th Month, 30 Days—JUNE 3.—Spring, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Virgo the 30th.

Mercury enters Libra the 6th.

Moon full on the 2nd in Sagittarius.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—June 3d. The general trade conditions with foreign lands continues nearly as good this as it was last week. There is a little less to favor nearby dealing, and a general reduction in the volume of business will undoubtedly be noticed by close observers. This is quite a book or literary week. These lines should show improvement. Telegraph lines should be affected. That is, electrical lines and manufactures of this nature. Invention and patent rights will find a more easy sale. New things will be sought for in this direction. Those having valuable patents, which have never been utilized or given a trial, will do well to make a note of this period so favorable to their productions. They should seek some man of means, who is a pusher in business proceedings, but not necessarily an inventor or genius. It needs straight business principles back of every invention to make it win. Get a business man to work your patents to the front. Speculation very choppy, with a narrow trade and range of figures. Western Union stock and other telegraph stocks should take the lead. Wire should have an inning this week and make quite an interesting record.

HEALTH.—We have somewhat of a trying time this week for those subject to rheumatic attacks, but it is of short duration, and even though nothing is attempted in the way of treatment, all ordinary afflictions of this kind will pass away quickly. A little fasting will be good a week or so before this time sets in.

CHILDREN.—Inventors, stenographers, telegraphers, bookkeepers, correspondents, surveyors and operators in many fields of manufacture are the lines of business adaptation.

MARRIAGE.—Conditions fair for peace and harmony. First three days are favorites.

WEATHER.—Storm period the 5th, 6th and 7th. Not important.

6th Month, 30 Days—JUNE 10.—Spring, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Scorpio the 14th.

Moon—Last quarter the 9th in Pisces.

All the visible planets are evening stars. We have no morning stars in our system this week.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—The business situation changes slightly and for the better. Retail trades are more promising, tools and implements in iron and wood taking the lead.

The drug and chemical trade, paints, oils, etc., glass and ornamental tile. These things are due to receive some impetus in the way of activity. This is not a striking figure for these things, but sufficient to cause more than the usual activity.

Speculative lines will lag some unless it be iron and steel stocks. These should be fairly active, though not rangy in prices. If anything they should gain a few points ere the week is passed. Wire goods, cordage and ship chandlery should respond in price and activity under this figure. Edge tools co-ordinate to this vibration also. Wheeled vehicles are a part of the same class. Farm machinery

HEALTH.—Cancerous afflictions are the worst of the interferences with health. It is quite a severe time for this malady. A trip to the woods, among the pines, hemlock, balsam and spruce; these are the reservoirs of the healing gums which restore tissue, heal abrasions, create new liquids and give cellular expansion to every part of the system.

CHILDREN.—Very diplomatic, aristocratic and genteel personages will develop from the births of this period. They will be assayers, surveyors and dealers in commercial paper, stocks, bonds, etc. Some commission merchants.

MARRIAGE.—A time when great deference will be shown one another. Let the lady name the day. Tuesday WEATHER.—There is little to cause much disturbance in the elements. It will be quite dry over large areas by this time. Water will be needed badly in many places.

6th Month, 30 Days—JUNE 17.—Spring, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Earth enters Capricornus the 22nd.

Venus enters Leo the 19th.

Moon new on the 15th in Gemini.

We have no morning stars.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—June 17th. Scarcely any change from the conditions of the two previous weeks have been brought about as yet. Things may drag a little this week, or at least the first part thereof. The 22nd a very striking change comes on, which it will be well to prepare for. It means a wild time. Not in the way wild times are looked for generally, but one of those wild times which results from a collapse of many large institutions or firms. This is the beginning of a period of failures, probably the worst for many years. Banks will no doubt furnish a long list of such calamities. Many large corporations will suddenly wake up to the fact that stock securities are not always what they seem. This is a period of struggle. Look out for it. Remember this is merely the starting of the vibration. The worst is ahead of us. Governments will quake under this and capital and labor will meet a climax in their relations. Unexpected defeats in battle will make the time historical to future generations. Building and loan institutions and many inflated stock companies will be called to account. Money will be tight, people will be in fear, and a general reign of unrest will set in.

HEALTH.—Very depressing conditions of a mental nature principally. Nothing more serious than this is shown.

CHILDREN.—This planet is not so bad to be born under, as it appears in other directions. It is a lawyers' developer. Law and medicine are the important lines.

MARRIAGE.—There should be no such contracts this week.

WEATHER.—Very hot, dry, parchy, and blighting to all vegetation. No serious storms except hot winds.

6th Month, 30 Days—JUNE 24.—Spring, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Sagittarius the 24th.

Mars enters Scorpio the 29th.

Moon—First quarter the 23rd in Virgo.

Neptune is morning star.

All the others evening stars.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—The crashy times are evolving rapidly. They show a continued tendency toward failures and general depression. Money becomes closer and scarcer. Those who have it hide it and fear will prevent a free circulation of it. Look to your holdings and see if they are backed up by real or fictitious promises or values.

The affliction to the business world is quite severe at this time, and the bright and promising period we had a few weeks ago will be out of sight for some little time. A little change for the better will be brought about the last of this week and month, and enough of a change will result to check the tendency toward failures and tight money. It looks bad for bankers and money manipulators generally.

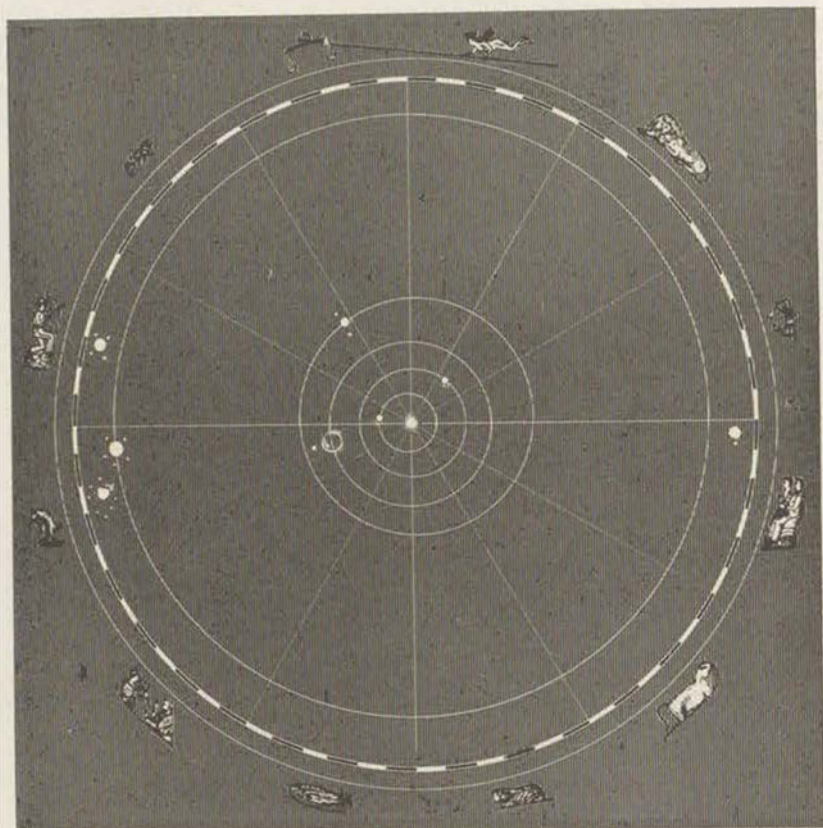

Speculation will be at a low ebb all the week; very little trading comparatively for this season of the year. Prices of many stocks will decline, and cereals will also sag and become dormant. There is little to show favorable returns.

HEALTH.—The health wave is about the same as that of last week, a little worse if any change at all. Rheumatic ailments will be more prevalent and this with the mental disturbances is affliction enough to make a note of.

CHILDREN.—This slight change in the planetary positions is productive of better business characters, and contractors of weight and influence will be the adaptation best suited to the figure. Bridge, railroad and construction work generally.

MARRIAGE.—Nothing to say for this ceremony. Better wait awhile.

WEATHER.—Still inclined to dryness, but as some strong winds are due, light showers will no doubt develop. They will not amount to much however.

7th Month, 31 Days—JULY 1.—Summer, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Capricornus the 5th.

Venus enters Virgo the 7th.

Moon full the 1st in Capricornus.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—July 1st we start into the last half of the year, and the business world is still under somewhat of a ban, which will prevent much headway toward the development of enthusiasm, such as is needed to make good times. Stagnation seems to be the word that fits the case, but this is not for long and need cause no alarm. Just recognize the law and it will be easy to bear whatever comes. We cannot set aside the law of these periodicities. They come and go, and when man sees the point he no longer worries over the trifling things that beset his path during these transits. Speculation is still on the quiet, and a general, gradual shrinkage of values must necessarily result. It is a good time to be out of the market if quick returns are being looked for.

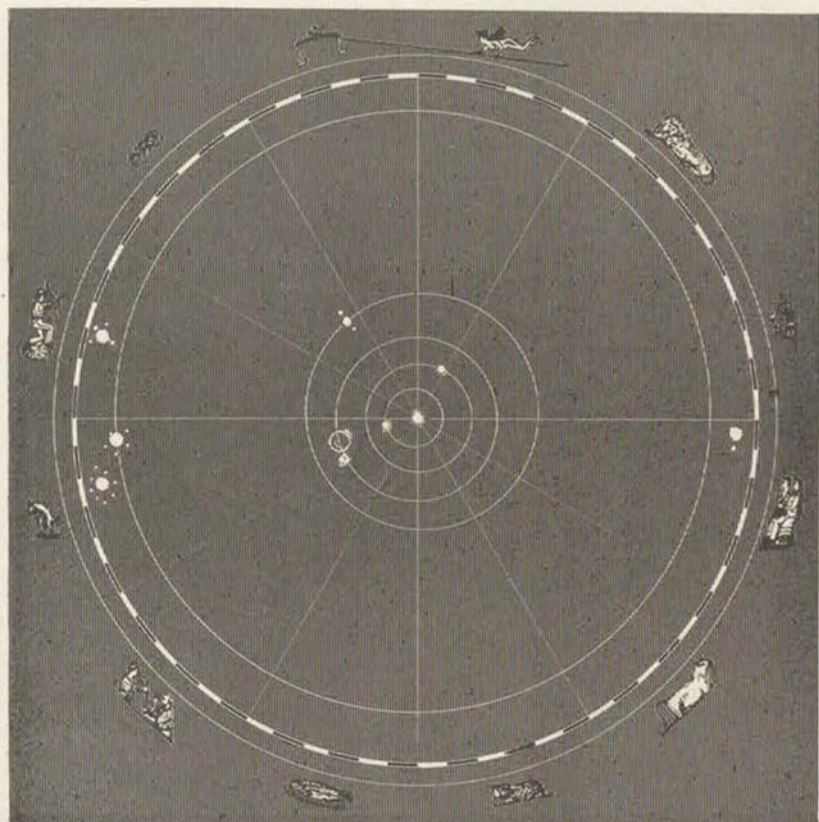

HEALTH.—The health vibrations are just about normal. It appears to be a severe season on cancers and head difficulties. Do not be negligent in keeping the pores of the system open at this time. Circulation is what one needs, and a steam bath, or sufficient exercise to produce extreme perspiration is necessary to relief.

CHILDREN.—Contractors, builders, jobbers, etc. These are the lines of business to which the male element of the new comers may turn to with profit. It is not the best horoscope for wealth, yet the day and the hour most favorable will produce heavyweights in these lines.

MARRIAGE.—Just fairly good for unions after Tuesday.

WEATHER.—A storm period is due about Tuesday, and it will be the wind-up of the wave started last week. This may show up much worse than we predict. It is a complicated weather condition.

7th Month, 31 Days—JULY 8.—Summer, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Moon—Last quarter the 8th in Aries.
Neptune is the star of the morning.

The others except Mercury are evening stars. Mercury in conjunction with the earth is in the light of the sun.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—July 8th we have quite a marked change in the business sphere, by reason of Mercury's making a triple conjunction with the earth, Jupiter and Saturn in the sign Capricornus. This gives us a "quad" or quartette in the first sign of the quarter of labor. This being a mental sign it means a stimulation of thought and an increase in activities all through the business world. This is not a very great power that produces this change, but it is favorable rather than otherwise, and people will make an attempt to accomplish something, and this means an impetus to business. Speculation will respond to this first and to a greater extent than general mercantile lines. It is a time for a see-saw, choppy market. Quick and rangy breaks and as sudden reactions. Play fast on this if you expect to win the prize money.

People are natural gamblers, and for this reason alone we give a few suggestions along these lines. If a person knows what he wants to do and is reasonably sane who shall speak against his exercising the freedom with which Nature endowed him?

CHILDREN of this date will be speculators, and what are you going to do about it? God will make them that way, and who is there to oppose the plan? This is a fair horoscope for law and the ministry. What is it that makes lawyers and ministers vibrate to the same or similar conditions?

MARRIAGE.—There is not one word to say that is favorable to this bond.

WEATHER.—A stormy week, with frequent showers; quite windy; whirl winds will be numerous, but probably of little force. Not a dangerous time.

7th Month, 31 Days—JULY 15.—Summer, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Aquarius the 15th.

Moon new on the 15th in Cancer.

Mercury, Venus, Mars and Neptune rule the day. Jupiter, Saturn and Venus the night.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—July 15. We are now in about the same condition we were two weeks ago. A little better, if any difference at all. There will be a better feeling in trade circles, perhaps from getting used to the spell that has fallen over the world of traffic. Failures will no doubt be frequent, owing to the long run of this discouraging wave. Money will continue close and interest will advance. This in a way will be a boon to those who are in a position to take advantage of other people's shortages. Is it right and just that these things shall be? It is.

Speculation will lag and prices will probably be quite stationary all the week. Agricultural interests will be the most interesting and probably the more profitable in the staple lines on account of this tight squeeze in the monetary situation. It will cause buyers to hold off and thus give an opportunity to trade later under better price vibrations.

HEALTH.—Very good lines point toward the health center at this time, and there is little to fear, aside from the head difficulties heretofore mentioned. It is remarkable how well the planets balance up on health lines.

CHILDREN.—Farmers, cattlemen, horsemen, breeders and contractors of various kinds will come into mortal life during this week. It is a strong horoscope for cattle and horse dealing and general farming.

MARRIAGE.—Fair for marriage, but not an important figure. The vibration is homelike and this is good.

WEATHER.—Calm and pleasant after Monday or Tuesday. We should have general showers the first of the week.

7th Month, 31 Days—JULY 22.—Summer, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Earth enters Aquarius on the 23rd.
Mercury enters Pisces on the 24th.
Venus enters Libra on the 26th.
Moon—First quarter the 22nd in Libra.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—The business situation this Monday, July 22, is in the waves of a complete change and by Wednesday will be well under the vibration of the planet Mars, the god of war and politics. This change will cause considerable excitement in many directions. It is a striking time when the feelings of the people will be much wrought up and many dissensions will arise, but they will not amount to much in the way of great and lasting disturbances. People will overstep the bounds of propriety and clash in minor ways for three or four days and then settle down to good generalship. Keep a closed mouth and don't let argument lead you into battle. This is the motto of the times.

Speculation will be on edge, and unexpected movements will mark this period as out of the ordinary. Iron and steel lead in this agitation and fluctuation. Some sharp turns are due. Remember the dates, 23rd, 24th, 25th, 26th of July. General business should improve some under this agitation.

HEALTH.—This is a heart disturber and paralyzer of the nervous system. The sudden and peculiar changes in the planetary currents make it severe upon sensitive natures whose co-ordination is in line therewith. A personal horoscope is necessary to a complete illustration as relates to an individual.

CHILDREN.—Very eccentric and peculiar characters will be born the first few days, and after that strong military people. The first ones will be changeable and inclined to dabble in many things.

MARRIAGE.—This is a little too erratic for harmonious unions. There is a better period ahead.

WEATHER.—Sudden changes are due in the temperature. Disagreeable winds, rain and probably severe hail storms; danger on the water.

8th Month, 31 Days—AUGUST 5.—Summer, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury entered Aries on the 31st. Mercury entered Taurus on the 6th. Moon full on the 31st in Aquarius. Mercury and Neptune morning stars. The balance are evening stars. And they sing together the song of the eternal way.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—August 5th. We are in the cutting, keen and critical embrace of Mercury and Mars. Look out for war. Guard your speech, keep cool and press business in the hardware, drug and chemical lines. Wire and rails, pig iron, castings, edge tools, gunnery and all implements of war and sausage making should now have an inuing in a business way. Doctors, especially surgeons, will have a week of business at least, even though few are sick. A punch in the ribs is better for a physician than a fit of sickness.

Speculation will be at high-tide so far as activity goes. Conditions are choppy, sharp, quite rangy and suited to money making for those who vibrate this way. Iron and steel are leaders, but mining stocks should be affected by this keen-edged combination to quite an extent, and iron mining stocks seem to have favors

HEALTH.—Nervous irritations and headaches are the worst things we can mention for this time. There is nothing serious in these ailments, and a little good quieting magnetism from a strongly magnetic character will fix the nerves, and a good sweating by exercise will throw off the headache. The stomach will not be the seat of these special head difficulties, so it is useless to attempt to reach them through this function.

CHILDREN.—Iron workers, machinists, accountants and architects. Gifted characters in all matters requiring art in details. High tempered they will surely be, but good withal.

MARRIAGE.—Rather of a highflyer for lovers. Too warm a combination for peace.

WEATHER.—Showers the first of the week, followed by the hottest spell of the season. It will be very hot for August even.

8th Month, 31 Days—AUGUST 12.—Summer, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury entered Gemini the 11th.

Mercury entered Cancer the 16th.

Venus enters Scorpio the 14th.

Moon—Last quarter the 7th in Taurus.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—August 12th. We are again under the Mars vibration, and the gods of war will be in good feeling for encounters. This is only a three-day period, but interesting as a study for those who watch the periodic changes and not the effect upon various characters whom they know. Children especially, being very sensitive to planetary translation, are good subjects for this phase of the study.

Wednesday we have a more even and agreeable influence, and this will enhance the cause of trade and make people feel more confident and encourage them to press forward much harder in all lines.

Speculation will not be so exciting, and probably the effect on values will be to depress rather than stimulate. It is a better vibration for general trade than for speculative dealing. It is a period for labor movements and new undertakings in this direction. It is the forerunner of something near at hand which will disturb the peace and quiet of the community.

HEALTH.—A rheumatic period, though not a serious one. Nothing in the way of general good health. The influential planets are still moving in harmony with the anatomical circulation, so no function is being upset or thrown out of balance.

CHILDREN.—Children born at this time will be quite healthy and free from serious afflictions. They will have some rheumatism, but nothing serious. It is a good scope in this respect. They will make good retail merchants, druggists and hardware dealers.

MARRIAGE.—This is fairly good for marriage; the last three days being by far the best.

WEATHER.—The effect of the planets upon our atmosphere as an atmosphere, and this means a big thing, will be to produce quite strong whirlwinds.

8th Month, 31 Days—AUGUST 19.—Summer, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Leo the 20th.
Earth enters Pisces the 23rd.
Moon new the 14th in Leo.
Mercury and Neptune morning stars.
Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and Uranus are evening stars.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—A much better condition confronts us this Monday morning, August the 19th. It means much to the business man, as life and activity will permeate his anatomy, and he will open up his purse with a feeling that he would like to spend some money. The tightness in money matters which set in some time before will let up and quite a free and easy time will take its place. This comes at a favorable season for the fall openings near at hand. Merchants who have been scared from laying in good stocks will need more goods at once, and this will set the wheels of commerce going at a good old pace.

Speculation will be "in it" again this week with all that the most excitable natures could wish for. The range of business will be rather smaller. That is, trades will be small, as timidity will be felt at first as a result of the long period of unfavorable influences. Confidence will come back under this figure ere it is entirely past, and larger trading may be expected to develop soon.

HEALTH.—Nervous disorders will be stirred up some and loss of energy will follow any kind of stimulants taken at this time. Far better is it to keep the system calm and free from excitants. Plenty of outdoor exercise is much needed at this time.

CHILDREN.—This is a very good horoscope to be born under for intellect, knowledge and the study of language; but as a business promoter the line of architecture and building is fair, while the mercantile trade is quite good.

MARRIAGE.—A good time to marry. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday are specially favorable days.

WEATHER.—Probably hot, dry and parching, hot winds, sand storms and a generally dusty period.

8th Month, 31 Days—AUGUST 26.—Summer, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Virgo the 26th.

Mars enters Sagittarius the 29th.

Moon—First quarter the 22nd in Sagittarius.

Moon full on the 29th in Pisces.

Neptune is morning star. All the others, except Mercury, are evening stars. Mercury is nil.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—August the 26th. Quite a marked change appears in the business outlook. We are now under Mercury, Uranus and Neptune, which shows a stimulus in relation to foreign trade, railroad traffic, commission sales and general shipping.

Speculation, therefore, in stocks and bonds, especially railroad stocks, should respond to this wave, and even though prices drop, there should be more trading in these things. Some large purchases are due at this time. Electrical lines will be stimulated, and wire of all kinds will take a new twist on itself and begin to line up with better demand. Western Electric and other exchange or listed stocks will play a larger part in speculative ways.

HEALTH.—We now have a more striking period for rheumatic attacks. This is a very sharp and effective combination in relation to this particular ailment. It will be well to fast quite a little for ten days previous to this time. This will enable the system to clear itself of much that aggravates this affliction, thus enabling one to reduce the effect to the minimum. Drink plenty of good fresh water and do not fail to take plenty of exercise.

CHILDREN.—Bookkeepers, stenographers, typewriters, telegraph operators and newspaper people will be the offspring adaptations. They will be geniuses, everyone of them. Cartoonists among them also. Very good mathematicians.

MARRIAGE.—Rather an indifferent combination for unions. A little too chilly. A better time ahead.

WEATHER.—Quite a time for storms of wind and rain the first days of this week, and again the last two days. The latter the most severe. Quite a dangerous time on the water.

9th Month, 30 Days—SEPTEMBER 2.—Summer, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Libra the 2nd.

Venus entered Sagittarius the 1st.

Moon—Last quarter the 4th in Taurus.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—September 2nd. The season opens for fall trade and under quite a favorable planetary showing. It is a warlike figure and means a reckless spilling of blood among mankind. It is a physical agitator all the way through; but as business is purely a physical proposition this is a favorable period for general trade. This is strikingly favorable for jobbers and building lines generally.

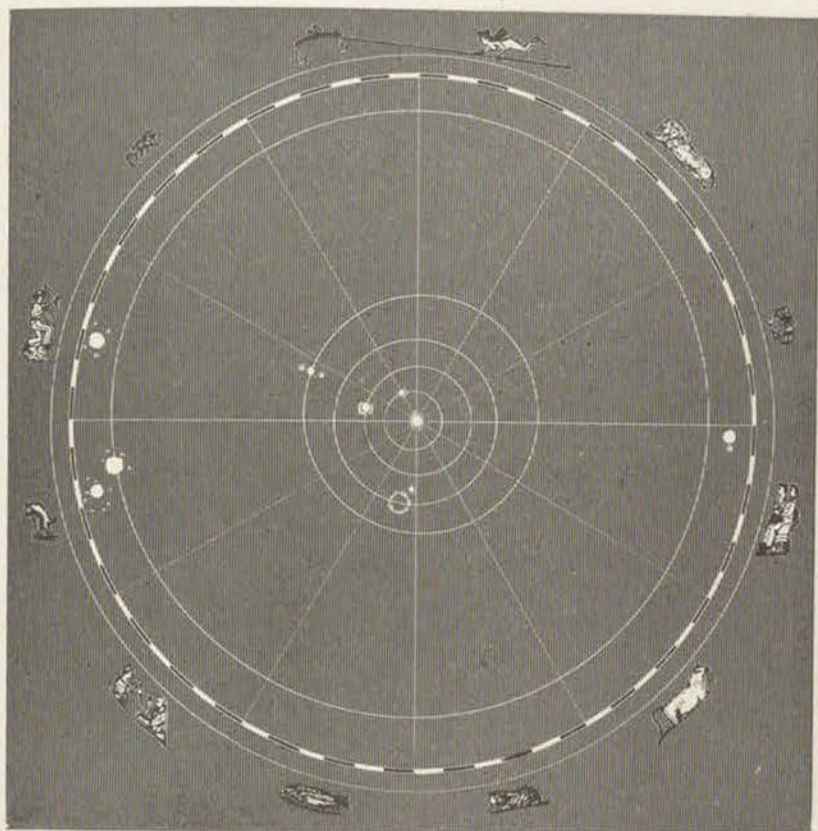

Speculation will run in minerals, oils, sugar and things that relate to the soil direct. This does not include animal products, yet these may be influenced by the demand the other activities create, but not directly. Paints, dyes and by-products will be speculative values this week, and the time is ripe for some corners in these lines. Linseed is one of them. Zinc also is in the deal.

HEALTH.—There is some improvement in the change relative to rheumatism, still it inclines that way just the same. The stomach is under sensitive currents, but not in a way for evil results worth mentioning.

CHILDREN.—General traders, jobbers, contractors, mechanics and operators in the lines referred to above. Merchandising will attract the greater portion of them. Dealers in decorative tiles, paper, dyes, paints, oils and co-ordinate lines. Instruct them accordingly; have a personal horoscope made to determine just the proper line according to date of birth, for slight changes make quite a difference.

MARRIAGE.—A very fair period for this season. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday are best, but let the lady decide.

WEATHER.—A storm period of quite a lively nature is due. Along about this time we should experience earthquake shocks. Volcanoes should belch forth and strike terror to the surrounding country.

9th Month, 30 Days—SEPTEMBER 9.—Summer, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Scorpio the 10th.

Moon new on the 12th in Virgo.

Neptune is the star of the morning.

All the others are evening stars.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—September 9th. There is scarcely any change since last week in the business situation. If any change, it is in favor of the wholesale trade rather than retail lines. Ladies' apparel will be in greater demand comparatively than men's. Staple goods rather than fancy will lead. A good time to sell corsets and tight-fitting garments of all kinds. People will feel that they needs must have something to brace them up. The tendency is to bind and girdle the body. This may seem strange to the student of the law, but there is a law book of tight lacing that tells a tale unheard by man or woman. Therefore, when the vibration is right it is much easier to press sales in lines of wearing apparel than at other times. In recognizing this law of cause and effect we make it a point to bring up the co-ordinations as they appear from time to time, and show, if possible, the way to a deeper knowledge of life and things.

Speculation still continues about the same as last week. The movements should be quite rangy and quite a large trade transacted. The markets will no doubt be much affected by foreign demand. Reports from other lands will be much more influential this week than they are ordinarily.

HEALTH.—Good health should reign supreme this week. The rheumatic vibration is nearly run out, and the general life currents are under greater stimulation. Nothing serious in sight.

CHILDREN.—The characteristics of the young of this week will be practically the same as those of last week. The days of each making the variations.

MARRIAGE.—A good time for unions. Let the marriage feast be placed.

WEATHER.—This will probably be quite a cool time for September, but pleasant. Winds high and effective. Danger on the seas.

9th Month, 30 Days—SEPTEMBER 16.—Summer, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Sagittarius the 20th.

Venus enters Capricornus the 19th.

Moon—First quarter the 20th in Sagittarius.

The planets all rule the day.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—The real changes for this week of the 16th come about Thursday, when very marked changes take place and usher in a new wave that means much to warring factions of every kind. It is a severe period to say the least, and we may expect some hard knocks and explosive demonstrations and not be disappointed. The physical man will run riot and cause much bloodshed. Keep this in mind and watch the columns of the daily crime calendar. Blood will flow in many lands from this primal agitation of the grosser propensities of the animal man. War will be very hot and death dealing while this lasts. Labor strikes are very apt to appear and cause great anxiety among the people. It is a time of crisis in the affairs of a Christian (?) nation.

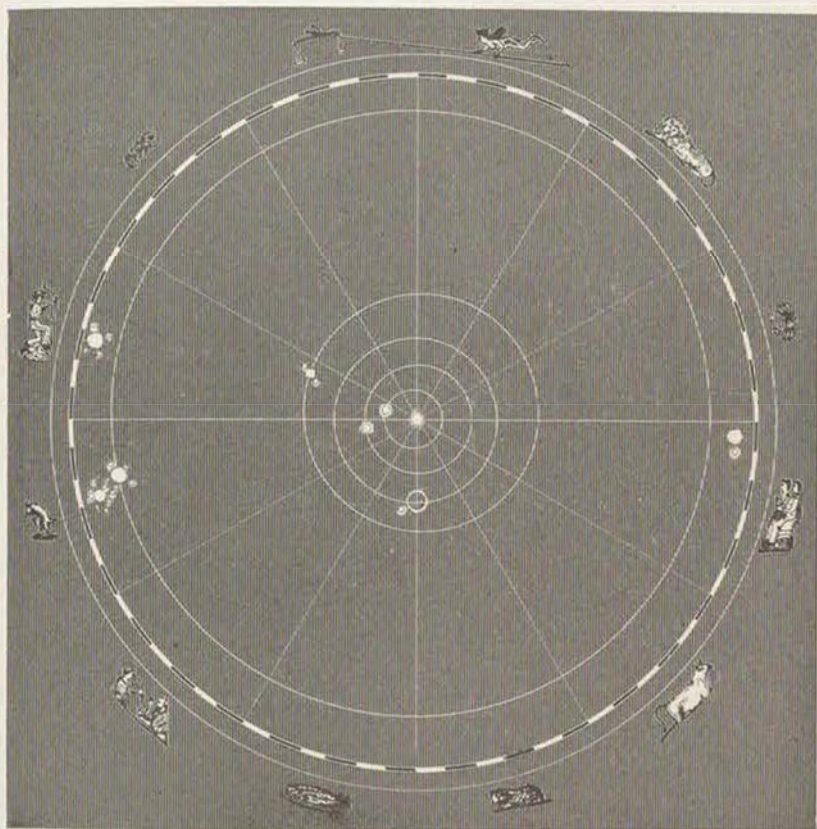

Business will be uncertain and probably paralyzed in many lines.

Speculation will be furious in appearance to the general beholder. Prices will stagger the most hardened trader. The day of judgment will seem to be at hand with many who dwell in comparative peace.

Lookout for thieves and pickpockets. This is a planetary combination that tests the souls of men to the uttermost.

Strikes in the iron and steel lines are due about this time. Severe measures will be used to coerce people and make them yield or suffer severe hardship. This is the worst week of the year for critical influences. This will start under this current and culminate later.

THE WEATHER.—This being the time of the animal equinoctial it will be a most disastrous elemental shake-up. The winds will be terrific. Tornadoes, cyclones, tidal waves, hurricanes, volcanic eruptions and earthquakes. It is just the right time for severity in these things.

9th Month, 30 Days—SEPTEMBER 23.—Summer, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

The earth enters Aries the 23rd.
Moon—Full on the 27th, in Aries.
Triple conjunction of planets in Sagittarius and Capricornus.
Venus is the ruling planet of the week.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—A very decided change for the better is brought about this Monday morning, the 23rd. It may not produce much change until about Tuesday or Wednesday, but sufficient to give relief to the severity of the lines just passing.

It is such an extreme change on the side of the good that the world will wonder what could have happened. Many who prayed Sunday for a special dispensation will reckon it as divine response to prayer. Others equally deluded will give divers reasons, while those who read the law will give the facts and wake many from the nightmare of superstition which has held them so long.

Business will be revived and set to booming. Many failures being due, some may yield this week as a result of the previous periods' culminating influences.

Speculation will be more interesting by reason of greater confidence and prices should advance even though the currents are vitally angular and the movement should be quite rangy.

HEALTH.—This is a good week for the promotion of harmony throughout the system. The effect of the mental upon the physical will be all-powerful and the healing art by this method will score victories. The head is the point or section affected most. Some apoplectic tendency.

CHILDREN.—Very fine characters with a great deal of ability in business lines. Merchants, wholesale and retail. Good manufacturers' agents. Heavy weight men in these commission and semi-commission lines.

MARRIAGE.—No good.

WEATHER.—Rather of a stormy week, but not quite so serious a time as the week just past. Danger in traveling. Accidents numerous.

10th Month, 31 Days—OCTOBER 7.—Autumn, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Capricornus on the 1st.

Moon—Last quarter the 4th in Cancer.

Mercury the ruler of the week.

All are evening stars but Neptune.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—The 7 of October the business world is under greater combinations than we usually find in figures of the heavens. We have a "quad" conjunction in the sign Capricornus which means that things will be very lively all the week. Business in many branches should show remarkable gains as a result. Dun's and Bradstreet's will so report the situation after it is all over.

We state it a year or more in advance, in order that people may take advantage of it and double their sales over what would otherwise be done by those who heed not these warnings. To know these periods in advance means that a business man may be a much larger dealer if he chooses to "work while the sun shines."

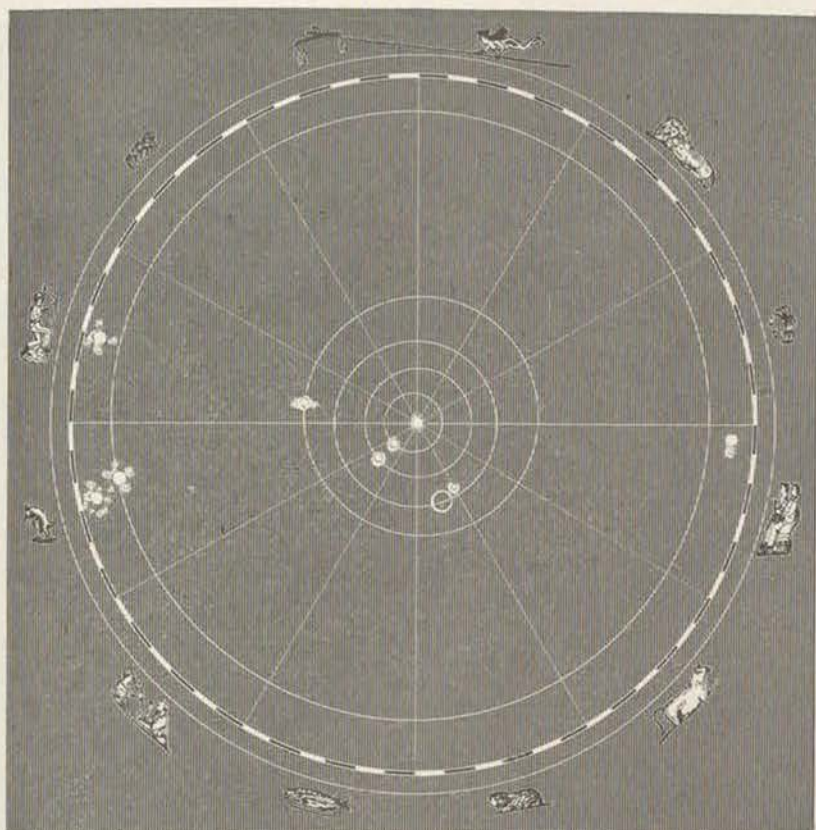

Speculation will be all that the wildest dreamer may wish for, and a great movement is sure to develop along with this stirring time. Animal products will no doubt lead in volume of trading. Wheat should have a good inning and sugar will be a sweet thing to invest in.

HEALTH.—Look out for extreme effects upon the center of reason. The head will be under an intense strain at this time.

CHILDREN.—Contractors, builders, commission merchants, speculators and commercial salesmen. The girls will make good saleswomen and teachers. All will be extremely clever and bright. All will be quite musical as well as artistic. They will live more in a month than some do in a year or five years.

MARRIAGE.—Very little to say in favor of unions, though not by any means the worst time.

WEATHER.—The elements will be much wrought up and very lively times may be looked for. Wet time. Nasty time. Dangerous time.

10th Month, 31 Days—OCTOBER 13.—Autumn, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Aquarius the 11th.

Venus enters Aquarius the 10th.

Moon—New on the 11th in Libra.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—October 1. Conditions are changeable the first three days of the week. The effect on animals and products therefrom will be more noticeable than in other lines. A great deal of activity is shown and large trading will result. This means a continued good time for business. This is the kind of a time we might look for corners on liquids of various kinds. Oils of various kinds and possibly lard which is closely allied to oils. Linseed may be the right one. The figure looks very much as if some scheme of this kind would develop about this time. These oily productions should respond freely to the move that is on and business in directions in which they are utilized should show considerably more activity than usual at this season.

Speculation will be very uncertain, though very active. Prices will fluctuate, but on the whole should show decline; perhaps a very marked decline. While there is strength in the figure and a great deal to withstand the powers that hold balances, still the chances for a break of considerable proportions is quite possible if not probable. It is a good time to have trades and investments well protected.

HEALTH.—Very bad on the head and danger of over excitement, apoplexy and brain fevers. Keep the head cool. Apply cold water bandages. Calm yourself. Don't let the excitement of the times upset your reasoning faculties.

CHILDREN.—We have some lawyers this week. Very good ones too. Teachers and artists. Cartoonists, sculptors and instrumentalists. Opera singers, capable thinkers and speakers. Revolutionary tendencies in thought and speech.

MARRIAGE.—* * * * *

WEATHER.—Like marriage the weather will be bad. Quite a storm is due this week. Not so dangerous, however, as those recently past.

10th Month, 31 Days—OCTOBER 20.—Autumn, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Pisces the 20th.

Mars enters Capricornus the 21st.

Moon—First quarter the 20th in Capricornus.

Jupiter, the planet of wealth, rules the week's doings.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—October the 6th we settle down to a calm, peaceful and good business week. It is productive of good to the business world in general, hence, the good time continues and we may take hold of whatever we have to do, feeling that trade will be generally well supported. Wholesale lines will flourish best and jobbing, contracting and huge enterprises will be entered into under much better forces than for some time past. Labor and capital will begin to come more closely together and, we may say, labor will be benefited very much by the concessions of the times. Money may be tight as the saying goes, but still business will move with a steady and certain meaning for good. Labor will play a strong card in the coming elections. The strongest for many years, if not the strongest that ever was played. We believe the latter will be true when it is over.

Speculation will be mild though some heavy dealing will be indulged in, in the line of animal products. Hams and shoulders take the lead.

HEALTH.—Everything points to a better period for health. The stomach and heart are the weakest sections now and these need a little easier treatment at meal time. Don't eat so much at one time. Eat four or five times a day if necessary, which it is not, but take the hint and curtail the eating if your stomach is feeling badly.

CHILDREN.—Very heavy minded bosses in large undertakings. Big money made at times, and dropped again in a single day. Plungers in business proceedings.

MARRIAGE.—There is little to be said relative to marriage. It is just a fair time.

WEATHER.—Quite calm and pleasant weather should prevail nearly all the week; slight disturbances only.

10th Month, 31 Days—OCTOBER 27.—Autumn, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Aries on the 27th.

Venus enters Pisces on the 28th.

Earth enters Taurus on the 24th.

Moon—Full the 26th in Taurus.

Mars is the ruling planet Monday and Tuesday. Then Venus rules until Saturday, when Mercury leads the way.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—October 24 So many very striking changes occur this week we may look for an unsettled business vibration. It looks a little bad for the man of money. It will be a tight and squeezing period. Many will suffer for immediate help in a financial way. Large concerns will feel this heavily. Banks will be very careful and exacting. There will be trouble in the air.

In labor circles there will be much excitement and the bosses will be rampant with demands and under favorable lines for success in securing what they seek. Labor will be a very great power at this time. There will be some very interesting features of the labor and capital problem in the elections near at hand. This is an especially favorable time for preparations on a large scale to be culminated at the polls. The people can be influenced readily and the price of votes will be accepted by a larger number than usual, probably ever before. People will be easy to bamboozle and it takes the man of American nativity to watch this time and use every means at his command to see that this election does not give too much power over to an element foreign to the aim and policy of this republic. Let the American citizen show his colors at this election. The flag will need his protection.

Speculation will be of little moment and business generally will lag.

HEALTH.—The week ends up with severe nervous disorders. Fevers are due the first few days.

CHILDREN.—Easy going Venus natures, that won't care a — what happens.

MARRIAGE.—Very mild time, but nothing in the way that is serious.

WEATHER.—A storm period is due about Sunday next. Very disagreeable.

11th Month, 30 Days—NOVEMBER 4.—Autumn, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Taurus the 2nd.

Moon—Last quarter the 3rd in Leo.

Mercury is ruling planet.

Venus is the beautiful star in the west at 6 p. m.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—November 4th starts in under rather weak conditions for business and the week may be put down as generally unfavorable to trade. A great many blunders will be noticed in business proceedings at this time. People will do things that they would not think of doing ordinarily. It is a period for mistakes of various kinds. Errors, false steps and petty annoyances. Unsatisfactory correspondence. Contentions by mail.

Speculation will be erratic but there should be movements in prices sufficient to make it interesting to the quick mover in these doings. Mineral stocks or mining stocks, lead, zinc and copper will respond to this condition. Liquid goods will be in greater demand.

HEALTH.—This is rather of a bad time for harmonious vibrations, so we may look for ill feelings and many disagreeable sensations and experiences. This is not the Christian Science way of looking at it, but we believe the truth alone will make people free from the errors of life quicker than anything else.

Remember, you need not be disturbed by the planetary conditions of this time, if you keep your system in proper order for some time previous thereto. It is merely an irritating wave which will strike hard upon those who do not understand how to ward it off. By knowing in advance when it will make its presence felt, one may meet it and pass through with but slight effect.

CHILDREN.—Very active, impulsive, literary natures. Highly sensitive and high tempered. They will develop early in life.

MARRIAGE.—Not a good time, but the last day of the week is fair.

WEATHER.—Probably a wet week; snow and rain and disagreeable winds. Very shifting and changeable.

11th Month, 30 Days—NOVEMBER 11.—Autumn, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury entered Gemini the 7th.

Mercury enters Cancer the 12th.

Venus enters Aries on the 16th.

Moon—New the 11th in Scorpio.

Venus rules Monday. Mercury rules Tuesday and the balance of the week.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—November the 11th the business world is under the very mildest, slowest and uneventful planetary wave. Calmness and indifference mark the features of the time. It is not against trade particularly, but simply an easy going spell when there will be little to stimulate movements of any kind.

This simply means that things will seem to lag all the week.

Speculation will be mild as well, although it is an easy time to manipulate trading and cause people to become tangled in a way to drop their little "pile."

HEALTH.—It being a very mild time many will feel a relaxation come over them and they will notice that they can rest much easier and this means an improvement to large numbers who are overworked and unduly wrought up with the burdens of life. A little good magnetic treatment will be found very beneficial at this time. It will stimulate in a mild way and be productive of much good in all suffering caused by overwork and nervous exhaustion.

CHILDREN.—We wish to call especial attention to the birth figure for this week. It is one which prospective parents should observe closely.

Children of this time will not have much vitality, hence, will never be strong and capable workers like others. They should be given the easy places in life as much as possible. They will be bright and capable so far as their physical strength will carry them and here they stop.

MARRIAGE.—Nothing in the way of a harmonious time. Let the bells ring out.

WEATHER.—The elements will be shaken up about the middle of the week, but generally, it is not an important period in this line.

11th Month, 30 Days—NOVEMBER 18.—Autumn, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury entered Leo on the 17th.

Mercury enters Virgo on the 23rd.

Earth enters Gemini the 23rd.

Moon—First quarter the 19th in Aquarius.

Mercury is the ruling planet.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—November 18th we enter a new atmosphere in relation to business. It is the beginning of a better time for trade in nearly all lines. The regular fall business which has been looked for will now open up and merchants will feel a new vibration creeping over them. This is especially favorable to retail lines. The wholesale trade will lag for a while yet, but its period is sure to come round.

Speculation will have a new gait this week and a very fluctuating market it will be. Buy on the breaks and sell on the bulges, is the motto for the trader at this time.

This was the motto of the fellow who figured out just how to get rich in speculation, but it did not work all the time. This week is a time when it will fit the case very closely.

As the writer is not a speculator these conditions are stated from an unbiased standpoint. Let him who will do these things; our business is to write the meanings of the law that all may recognize it.

HEALTH.—This is very good for health. An excellent time to build up the system. A period when medicine will seem to do wonders. Doctors everywhere take notice! Now is the time to make a hit by performing some wonderful cures. Get your names in the paper while you have a chance.

CHILDREN.—Secretaries, private clerks and special detail people for office work. Clerks and operators of various kinds, some heavy weights in business, but only now and then one. They will also make news reporters.

MARRIAGE.—Just a fair time.

WEATHER.—A storm period about Friday will create lively times in the atmosphere. High winds, stormy.

11th Month, 30 Days—NOVEMBER 25.—Autumn, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Libra the 29th.

Neptune enters Cancer the 26th.

Moon—Full on the 25th in Gemini.

Mercury the ruling planet up to the 29th, when Uranus takes the lead.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—November 25th we find considerable more strength in the business situation. Money will this week become much easier, people will begin to spend freely and a new wave of prosperity will sweep over the land. Toys and novelties will have a larger run this season than usual. It will be a gala time for the young.

It is an especially good time for the retail trade. A much better period than one would think possible after what we have passed through during the last six weeks. Merchants will make no mistake by having a good stock on hand at this time. Remember, we say: money will be free and easy. This means a circulation out of the ordinary in connection with trade.

Speculation will have a fine inning. Some heavy deals are due this week.

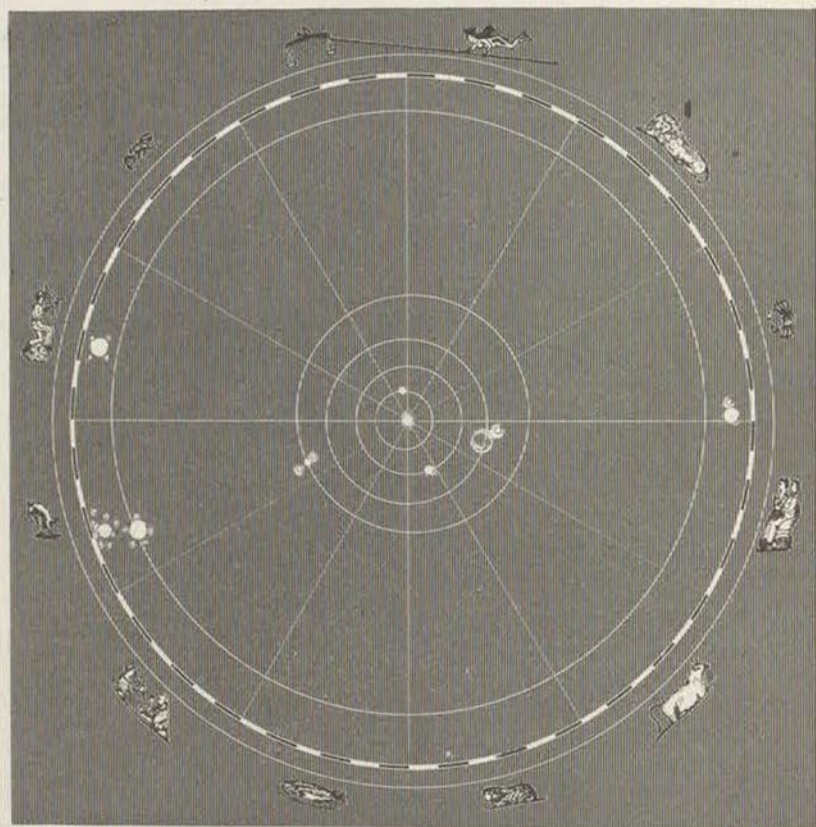

Plunging will characterize the operations of men in this particular field of business. We may look for some sharp trading and a corner or two in leading options will be in line with the planetary currents.

HEALTH.—High vibrations will necessarily raise one up physically and as this is what we will get this week, people should make it a point to respond by special effort, if necessary, or if badly afflicted. Now is the time for breathing exercises, deep breathing and long. No serious ailments are shown, unless it be cancers.

CHILDREN.—Inventors of a superior type. Mystical and peculiar natures never to be understood. Let them alone. They will outshine you all as they develop and reach their majorities. Don't give them too much learning. Let knowledge and wisdom develop within them.

MARRIAGE.—All right. Now is the time.

WEATHER.—Storm period due the latter part of the week. Great danger on the high seas this week.

12th Month, 31 Days—DECEMBER 2.—Autumn, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Scorpio the 7th.
 Venus enters Taurus the 4th.
 Moon—Last quarter the 2nd in Virgo.
 Uranus is the ruling planet of the week.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—December 2nd we are in a prosperous business swim. Everything points to an important business period. The closing month of the year is a good one. People will have what they want regardless of the cost. Extravagance in many directions will mark the times as something to be remembered. This is probably the best retail period for this season of the year, which is always good, that merchants have had in many years.

Speculation will be at a high standard and prices should take a stride upward, recovering the depressions of previous weeks, making new figures of an interesting kind to traders. Everything is ripe for a great run on some of the leading options. Stocks and bonds will no doubt lead the way for the larger movements. Cereals, though being less affected, should make extreme points as well. A regular professional period for speculation is now on.

HEALTH.—Good health abounds all the week. A stimulation is on that will cause the majority to forget that they have been, or are at this time, ailing. The desire to do something overshadows all other feelings.

CHILDREN.—Some great characters will be borne in upon us this week, and they will need no guardians. They will be children of Nature, doing as they please regardless. Don't bother them with childish notions.

MARRIAGE.—Something of a high-flyer, but fairly good for the times.

WEATHER.—Clear, cold and bracing, most of the week. A storm period is due about the 5th. Not serious.

12th Month, 31 Days—DECEMBER 9.—Autumn, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mars enters Aquarius the 11th.
Moon—New on the 10th in Sagittarius.
Uranus still rules the week's doings.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—December 9th the business world is still booming under very much the same conditions which prevailed all last week. Trade should be well in motion by this time and make this the heaviest week's business of the year.

We should have some religious excitement at this time. Something due at the throne of grace. (?) It is a "high roller" in this respect. May be a scheme to tax church property or some movement toward an equitable adjustment of church and state. Special legislation will be cooked up during this reign of higher promptings. The mind of man will soar and evolve some new propositions for the laity to deliberate upon. New schemes of various kinds will be launched. Preparations for the new year will be on a large scale. It means good to the people.

Speculation about the same as last week. An excellent time to make and lose on a large scale.

HEALTH.—Still we have good conditions for improvement in health. Better than last week.

CHILDREN.—The same smart set will continue to increase in numbers and they will be more intense this week. A little too intense for practical application outside of invention and literary pursuits.

MARRIAGE.—Too much of a good thing this week. It is overbalanced in respect to unions.

WEATHER.—Quite an intense storm period is due this week. Probably begin Monday.

12th Month, 31 Days—DECEMBER 16.—Autumn, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Sagittarius the 18th.
Earth enters Cancer the 22nd.
Moon—First quarter the 18th in Pisces.

Mercury succeeds Uranus as ruler on the 18th. Neptune succeeds Mercury on the 22nd.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—Christmas week being the rush time we need only say that it is phenomenally so this year. The sudden and important changes in the positions and aspects of the planets which take place this week would, at any other time, mean much more to the business world, but at such a time as Christmas the force of the previous two weeks will sweep all before it, culminating in a grand rush in the marts of trade.

Speculation will be affected quite materially, however, by these changes. It will be a lively time. Great excitement, but a curtailing of volume in deals, with possibly an increase in the number of operators. Large numbers will dabble in a small way. Some fear is shown and great care will be exercised in placing money.

Some large deals in newspaper circles are apt to develop this week.

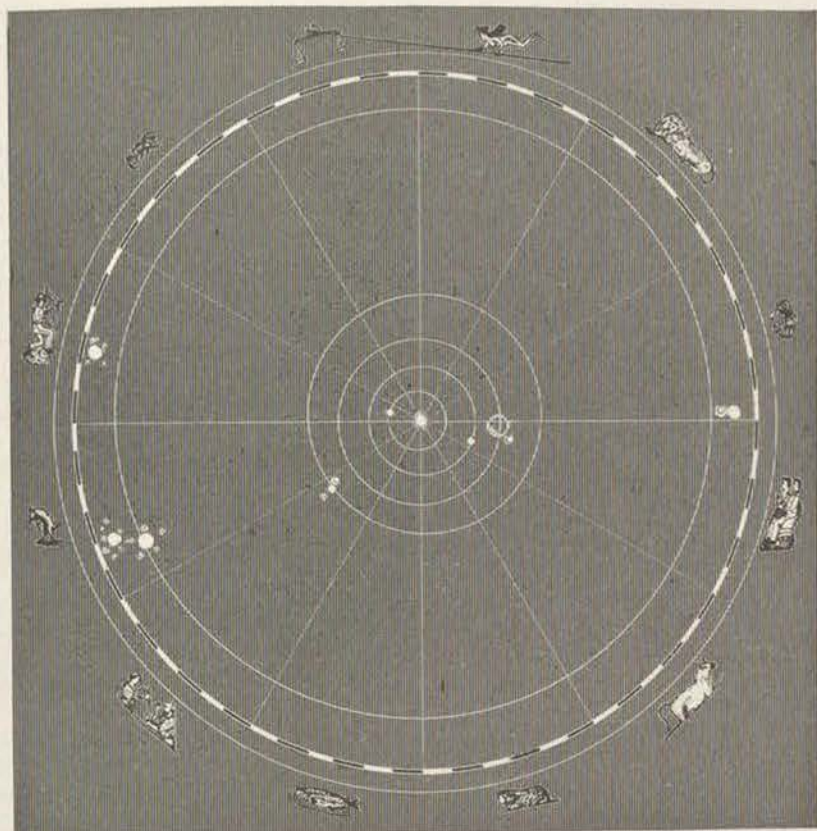

HEALTH.—Abundantly prolific are the waves of health that will roll in upon us all this week. The intensity of the situation means greater vitality to the masses, and all, no matter what they are afflicted with, will take a few steps, at least, toward better health.

CHILDREN.—Literary people exclusively, natural geniuses in newspaper lines and book productions.

MARRIAGE.—Not very good, nor yet very bad. Better than next week, so close the deal at once.

WEATHER.—A stormy time. Danger on the waters. Fires and much suffering therefrom.

12th Month, 31 Days—DECEMBER 23.—Autumn, 1901.

PLANETARY CHANGES.

Mercury enters Capricornus the 29th.
 Earth enters Cancer the 23rd.
 Venus enters Gemini the 23rd.
 Moon—Full on the 24th in Cancer.
 Neptune is ruling planet.
 Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and Neptune are evening stars.
 Mercury and Uranus nil.
 There are no planetary morning stars.

DELINEATION.

BUSINESS.—The last week of the year winds up under very large powers and they show that conditions are much better than they were when the year began. It is a favorable ending for a bad beginning. It is well to have the year end up satisfactorily to the great majority. This is a strong figure, but one of thought and contemplation rather than business activity. It is the time for adjusting the mental faculties to the new education which begins in earnest January 1st. A new thought wave is to sweep over the entire earth, beginning on the above date. Prepare your minds for this important change in the policies of the people.

A new era is about to begin. It is one having an extended period. It means wonderful changes and new methods. Broad, liberal and all inclusive systems of education and religion.

CHILDREN.—Great statesmen will be born this week; men and women of great force of character, and giants in governmental strength. They will develop slowly. Do not overtax them in early life. They need time.

MARRIAGE.—Christmas and New Year's between time is all right for marriage. A dignified co-ordination.

WEATHER.—The weather will be calm and cold until about Saturday, when storms will be stirred up. Quite a stormy time at the end of the year.

FARMERS' GUIDE.

Seeding, Surgery, Etc.

Classification of Products.

No. 1.

Wheat, rye, barley, rice, oats, cabbage, top onions, asparagus, celery, and all products culminating at the top end of the stalk should be sown or planted this year as follows:

January 25th, 26th, 27th.

February 22d, 23d, 24th.

March 20th, 21st, 22d and up to 28th. The 20th of March is an excellent time this year for sowing or planting any of the above list. Oats will do fully as well sown the 22d-23d.

April 17th to 25th, the 17th by far the best, for wheat. Oats three days later. Buckwheat a little later still, about the 23d.

May 15th to 24th. Not so good a period as that in April, but good for May-time seeding.

June 12th to 18th. Cabbages set the 18th will be very large. Extremely large but not so hard as those set the 12th, which will be smaller but very compact.

July 7th to 15th. Not a good period. Stalks will be small and very little fruitage will develop.

August 4th to 12th. For fall seeding, the last half of this period will be the best. The 4th is not a very good day for wheat.

September 1st to 10th. The best period for this year and season.

Note.—The first days mentioned are the best, the last two days come next, and the days between are just fair. With a large amount of work to do a farmer cannot afford to work a day or two and then remain idle until two or three days more show up favorable lines. The seeding should be done, however, during the periods given if good crops are to be produced.

List No. 2.

Corn, peas, beans, berries, and all products whose fruitage comes to maturity on the body of the stalk should be sown or planted as follows this year:

January 2d, 3d, 4th, 30th and 31st.

February 1st, 28th.

March 1st, 2d, 26th, 27th, 28th.

April 22d, 23d, 24th.

May 22d, 23d.

June 18th, 19th, 20th.

July 14th, 15th, 16th.

August 11th, 12th, 13th.

September 8th, 9th, 10th.

We give the three best days for these products and will add that five days later will be a fairly good time for the same seeding. The dates between these are just ordinary, and ordinary crops will result from such seeding.

List No. 3.

Potatoes, beets, carrots, parsnips, and all roots or products, the seed of which matures under ground, should be sown or planted as follows:

January 22d, 23d, 24th.

February 20th, 21st, 22d.

March 16th, 17th, 18th.

April 14th, 15th, 16th. The best time.

May 11th, 12th, 13th. A good time.

June 8th, 9th, 10th.

July 5th, 6th, 7th.

August 2d, 3d, 31st.

September 1st and 30th.

October 23d, 24th.

THIS YEAR'S RESULTS.

There is considerable danger of the wheat crop being blighted this year by a shrinkage of the kernal and by insects. It looks very much like a weevil affliction.

Oats will fare better than wheat, especially where the climate admits of seeding in the latter part of February.

Wheat sown this same month will yield better than if sown later.

A part of the country, therefore, is favored, and this makes us feel safe regarding our bread for next winter.

In warm climates, roots planted or the seed sown the middle of March will give a prolific yield with fine flavors and clean, healthy surfaces.

GESTATION.

The propagation of all life results from the copulation of the sexes. The gestatory periods vary in different species according to the vibrations and angularities of the forces which polarize and become acting centers until driven apart by dynamic interference. The latter is the reverse action of forces or of opposing poles becoming strong enough to change the poles of the vibrating atoms thus centered, when disintegration must of necessity set in.

There are some animal species which are very much in harmony with the human. For example: The cow, whose period is 280 days, the same as the human, and for this reason cow's milk for infants is a food having a harmonious magnetic similarity to that of the mother.

The period of a mare being 336 days, although much the cleaner animal, does not have the same, or even similar condition.

The goat, 147 days, although considered by many as giving richer and better milk, does not co-ordinate with the human, hence, is undesirable animal product for the human economy.

Swine are less related, magneti-cally, to man, the period being 112 days, and while the milk of swine is not used as food, the same rule applies to the meat product as well. Beef, therefore, is by far the best meat possible to obtain for the human family.

Sheep, swine, geese, ducks, and fowls generally, are not the kind of meats that tend to elevate and up-build the race. Animal food of every name is antagonistic to the higher aspirations of the soul, and must be dispensed with altogether if one wishes to reach the desired goal.

Observe these things, for in them many secrets may be found valuable to know and understand.

Farmer's Reference Table.

Mare	336 days.
Cow	280 days.
Sheep	147 days.
Goat	147 days.
Sow	112 days.
Rabbit	30 days.
Goose Eggs.....	30 days.
Duck Eggs.....	28 days.
Turkey Eggs.....	28 days.
Pea Fowl Eggs.....	28 days.
Hen Eggs.....	21 days.

The above table shows the approximate times of each species, but as the positions, movements and culminations of planets govern these results, there are times when a variation will lengthen or shorten the period. The same applies with children, and the fact of such variance is still puzzling the learned physician and scientist. Let them study the heavenly scroll and they will learn the secret.

Grafting of fruits, etc., should be done when the moon is in Scorpio. It is in this sign about two and one-half days at a time. Once each month.

CASTRATION.

This important surgical operation should be performed when the moon is in one of the following signs: Aries, Taurus, Gemini or Capricornus, Aquarius or Pisces. The other six signs are unfavorable, and some of them mean death to the animal. (See Moon table.)

YOUTH AND AGE.

When all the world is young, my dear,
And all the world is gay,
Your praise will be on every tongue,
And swains will throng your way;
Each youth you meet will deem you sweet,

And all your charms be sung,
And life will seem a summer day
When all the world is young.

When all the world is old, my dear,
And your brown locks are gray,
No more your praises will be told,
Nor lovers round you stay;
God grant that then one true of men
Shall you as helpmate hold,
And love make sweet your winter day,
When all the world is old.

A GOVERNMENT CYCLE.

A Metallic Basis for Money.

As there is a law which controls the affairs of a world, of a people and of a nation, there is also a cycle, which is a period in the operation of this law during which a certain power has a complete expression.

In order to place a National government upon a firm foundation and make it conducive to the best interests of a people, this cyclic law of nature should be observed, for by so shaping the affairs of man that they may move in harmony with the divine plan of creation a more settled, safe and just government is possible.

As our own government now stands it is in danger of being upset or changed in policy every four years, thus keeping the people in an undecided and irritable state most of the time. No one knows what to look forward to from year to year. Political agitation is sapping the life and energy out of the people; they waste their time, money and genius in agitation and scheming for place and power in governmental affairs. It is appalling the way force, which might be utilized for good results, is wasted in political agitation and contention, producing evil on every hand.

Let us turn for a moment to the great controlling powers of our world—the planets of our solar circle—and trace out a system as a pattern for the establishment of a sound and just government.

We find the planet Jupiter rules the system as a whole; that its power is the greatest, and that all things hinge upon this great magnetic center of energy.

We also observe that this planet Jupiter relates to property rights, interests, holdings, etc., and this shows us that such things are at the foundation of power. That is, people having property, realty or personal, or precious metals, securities or any holdings of value are more powerful, far more powerful, than those who do not have valued possessions.

Now there is a difference in the power of individuals or peoples, according to the nature of the holdings with which they co-ordinate and become attached. Real estate gives the greatest governmental power to an individual. Metals come next, cattle third and the list runs out with the beggar or tramp, who has no holdings of any kind.

Now, having shown how property is the basis of power in governmental affairs, it stands to reason that men of property and wealth are by nature the most influential in controlling people, hence they are better characters for positions of trust, law making and as directors of the movements of state and national procedure.

In short, the men of wealth have a constructive and accumulative magnetism, and they are very much better constituted for the maintenance of a good and stable government than those of little means and others who are classed as laborers, mechanics, etc.

The laboring people as a class, therefore, can never give the nation nearly as good a system of government as the men of means.

This is in the nature of life, much as we may wish it otherwise, and we simply have to bow to the divine will and say it is all right. Let it be so.

Jupiter people, therefore, are the builders and sustainers of governments, and this leads us to the cyclic law which should guide the periods of change so far as rulers or leaders are concerned. The President of the country should be elected under this planet, beginning in 1904 for a period of about twelve years, when the cycle is completed and a new one begins.

Under this rule we would have sufficient time to settle our minds on the political situation, get down to some steady work in a business way and feel that life is really worth living.

There is no one thing that will give relief to the great mass of humanity so quickly and permanently as the adjustment of our governmental policy to the power and movement of this great beneficent planet Jupiter.

Money or property rules the world, and it always will. Why not adjust to the eternal nature of law, the same to-day, yesterday and forever, and bring about the desired equilibrium of the energies of the whole.

This is one of the propositions which the science of the planets presents to the American citizen.

THE GOLD STANDARD.

The gold standard is, according to the law of the planets, the only just standard if we are to have a metallic base for our monetary system. It should ever remain as a base and should not be coined and circulated, but simply held as a center of power, and scrip as well as serviceable metal used as a circulating medium. All money should have the one backing, whatever it may be, and there should be but the one product at the base.

The double standard is a means of war between the elements in the very nature of the case. It cannot be otherwise. Silver is an admirable product for fractional money and far preferable to gold as a circulating medium, but as a base for the issue of all money gold is far preferable to silver or any other metal. More of it in value according to bulk and weight gives it this desirable feature. Let it be the standard and settle the matter for twelve years at least.

Gold co-ordinates more closely with the sun, which is the central power of our system. It is heavier than silver, hence relates to the base or foundation of things. It is precious because of its scarcity, beauty and fineness. Not being hard enough to be serviceable as money, it should be held in bars, bricks, etc., for easy handling between nations and peoples generally. It should not be coined at all, but simply held as the visible head and body of our financial system. People must have a visible head, otherwise it would not be necessary in connection with our circulating medium at all. The combined resources of the land or country under a just system of taxation is the true basis for money. But so long as a visible, and we may say, a personal head is necessary to the people the gold standard alone supplies the head as no other one thing can. It is all sufficient in and of itself.

COMPARATIVE RELIGIONS

And the New Worship.

BRAHMINISM.

Brahminism is the most extended religion on the globe. It is estimated that over half of the people of the whole world are Brahmins.

To them the breath of life which entereth into the newly created or evolved being is the Creator speaking or projecting his life into human form.

They worship this involution of spiritual life as a great blessing from the Creator, with whom they are in association at all times and in all places, according as the consciousness of the Divinity and sacredness of life is awakened in each individual.

Their religious teachings therefore tend toward reverence for all life, and the worship of the divine creative principle. The various ceremonies and legendary tales connected with this religion are immaterial. The central idea of the learned ones is important.

Buddhism originated in India during the sixth century, B. C., was founded by Gautama, a Hindoo sage, and is practically the Brahmin religion. It was merely a movement with some new features added to the established Brahmin system. The doctrines or beliefs are about the same.

The fact that the central idea is the worship of the Creator by a recognition of the naturalness and sacredness of the life of things, has kept this religion intact for thousands of years. It has in this a basis for worship worthy the name.

The beliefs of some of the cliques or clans of this religion, relative to the transmigration of souls, and the passing of the wicked into the bodies of beasts, etc., is also accepted by many supposedly enlightened minds of this western world. These are unimportant, being merely side issues to the real religious teachings of the learned Hindoo scholar.

Lamaism is another branch of this same Brahminism, teaching that when a man dies his soul passes into the body of a child, thus continuing the incarnation of the race. Among this class the claim is made, that the soul of Jesus is incarnated among them and that they have the Saviour from which to gain the real light that leadeth to life eternal.

Religious enthusiasm with any class of people will produce distorted notions relative to life and death, and while there is a grain of truth running through these varied and peculiar beliefs, there is also a world of delusive notions which keep such religions in rather a bad light before the western scientific and progressive world.

CONFUCIANISM.

In China Confucianism, which has so many followers, and is, practically, the leading educational system of the empire, is a very practical cult in a religious sense, and being free from theoretical and speculative statement relative to the hidden and mysterious in nature, it serves as a practical religion and tends to enhance the worship of things nearest and dearest. Reverence for ancestry is a natural result.

Images, idols, symbols of various things, conditions and qualities in this world of phenomena are the outcome of the desire in man to carve in wood and stone; to express his ideas in artistic creations.

Compare the carvings representing the Chinese gods with the Christian's God, and what do we find?

In the former a character representation of a great being, with power to accomplish anything he undertakes. A live and ever-potent factor in the affairs of the people.

The Christian God is represented as a cut, bruised and bleeding man, who was overpowered by his enemies, common men of the street, the rabble, and put to death. The look of agony, remorse and failure in his countenance depicting his inability to cope with the minds of the common and weakest of the race.

In either case the representations are obnoxious to look upon, yet the Chinese Joss does not depict failure in any sense. He often wears the most extended smile and apparently is ready to offer the glad hand to all comers, while sorrow and pity, suffering and misery, and all that goes to make one downcast and forsaken is shown in the Christian Saviour.

DEISTS.

Deists believe in one God, an infinite, eternal, omnipotent Deity, but claim that nature and reason are his only manifestations to man.

This is certainly a religion to be commended. There is little in it to entangle the mind and reason and it appeals to the rational man as being all that is required in the way of a belief.

JEWISH.

Jews, or Israelites, descendants from Abraham, have one of the very old systems of religion and their belief is practically: belief in God as the Creator, Governor and Maker of all things; the Eternal; in him as one; and that he alone has been, is and ever shall be their God; that he is not corporeal and there is no bodily essence to be compared to him; that he is first and last, that nothing was before him nor shall be after, and that he shall abide forever; that he alone is to be worshipped. The prophet Moses is considered the chief of all the prophets.

Here is a religion that will stand upon its own merits till time shall be no more. It has a foundation—a basis in truth. It deals with a God that is all inclusive and perfect and is to remain forever. There is no second coming so far as God is concerned as believed in by Christians. Prophets may come in droves and not upset this old rock of the ages.

MOHAMMEDANISM.

Mohammedanism started in Persia in the sixth century by Mahomet, who taught that true religion remains the same throughout all ages of the world, though it varies in form of worship according to the condition of the people; when corrupt, Prophets appear to teach and encourage people to seek the better way; that thousands of such teachers have been sent for this purpose, and that he himself was the last of these. Of course, the last one up to his time. They teach that the records of the Bible have been changed and corrupted to such an extent that the only safe guide is the Koran. They have various rules of practice and belief, differing somewhat from other forms, as Mahomet stated, but the foundation principles of the system are good and will stand with the Jewish religion as founded upon a rock.

CHRISTIANITY. WITH SEVERAL HUNDRED SECTS.

We now come to the doctrine of Christianity, which teaches salvation through faith in Jesus as the one only begotten son of God, conceived by the Virgin Mary through the Holy Ghost and delivered in an unnatural manner through the side of the belly instead of the regular birth channel; that he was sent by God Almighty as a Saviour to redeem the world, etc., etc., etc., and he is a part of the God-head, therefore is God.

It is not necessary to go into further details on any of these religions, as we merely wish to present the fundamental idea of each with a view to showing which are the more firmly rooted in the abiding truths of Nature and God.

In all but the Christian religion we find a rational, reasonable and sensible basis for religious contemplation. There is nothing stated that does not appeal at once to every rational thinker as a substantial foundation for building up and carrying forward a system of teaching which cannot be questioned or gainsaid.

The Buddhist and the Jew make the clearest statements as to the basic belief or doctrine. These claims are in harmony with reason and common sense. They do not declare themselves in a way that gives rise to unbelief. They appeal at once and very strongly to the rational reasoning and worshipful nature.

Compare this with the declarations of Christianity which for eighteen hundred years have been a bone of contention among the people, and is to-day the subject of greater dissensions than any other one thing. Christianity does not and never did appeal to a man's reason. It never will. It is the most foolish concoction of unreasonableness that could be offered to the world.

THE GREAT QUESTION.

The great question before the world is: which is to become the greater; the Christian, the Jewish, the Buddhist, or Brahmin religion? Which will stand the test of science and reason as the years go on and finally become the principal and dominant religion of the world?

It certainly cannot be Christianity. Jesus may take his place along with other teachers who have come and gone, teaching the people great truths of nature and of God, and thus become in the minds of future generations an historical character of note, but the Christianity which has grown up in his name can never stand the test of time, for the light of reason and common sense is fast displacing its false claims and restoring the people to the truth from which Christianity has led them.

The God-head as claimed by Christianity is a "ragman's dream." There is no truth in it. God does not personify his life and power as claimed. There are no conceptions such as is claimed for Mary, the mother of Jesus. It is a lie upon the face and upon the back of it. How is this going to stand the test of time, of science, of reason, and of the love of humanity for all that is good and true and divine in this great universe?

Christianity, therefore, is in danger. Brahminism, Buddhism, the teachings of Moses, and those having similar foundation principles, need have no fear of the encroachments of Christianity, for Christianity is being sifted, grated, cut up one side and down the other until there is little strength left in the fabric which keeps its true inwardness covered. Its own people will finish it ere it can make a stand sufficient to disturb, to any great extent, any religion based upon reason, common sense and the demonstrable truths of Nature.

THE NEW RELIGION.

The coming system of religion must appeal to the analytical mind, to the man of science, as well as to those who are naturally inclined to question and doubt any system of thought or faith that is promulgated. Everything in the nature of dogmas that do not stand this test, will, sooner or later, be ridiculed out of existence.

This is as it should be, for anything that can be disturbed by ridicule is not desirable in a system of religion. Truth can never be displaced by ridicule. It becomes the stronger as it is attacked and maligned. Truth invites investigation. It says to man, "analyze me, compare me with all other things, test me in every way your genius inspires and if you think you find me faulty, lay me aside, for you are not yet ready to receive and know me."

This must be the stand taken by the New Religion. It might be called the Religion of Science, but we prefer to name it

THE RELIGION OF NATURE.

This title is all-inclusive, while "The Religion of Science," is narrow and limited to man's scientific, or rather, material demonstrations. That is, it would mean this to the world.

"The Religion of Nature" pertains to all that man knows or ever can know. It is without limit and may justly be accounted the worship of God through all nature.

The nearest thing, if not the same thing, is the doctrine or creed of the Pantheist. Here it is:

"Panthéists believe that our solar system is part of a stupendous whole which constitutes the Universe; that the Universe and the laws that govern it are all one—NATURE—which is the only Supreme Being. They believe that everything is God, and that man's whole duty lies in producing the highest possible enjoyment to himself and others while he lives."

The "Panthéist" and the "Deist" come the nearest to having the creed of the future of any and all the hundreds of sects of Christendom or any of the ancient systems. The new religion will teach the worship of Nature and through her revelations build up a system of science and philosophy which the cycles of time can not destroy.

Can any one question for a moment that Spencer, Huxley, Darwin or any other naturalists or scientists were not worshipers at the shrine of nature?

It is Nature Worship which has given us all of the inventions, all of the improvements, all of the advancement the world has ever had. Religions have simply stood in the way and shouted: "Heresy."

Therefore, we say, the religion of the future, that which is to abide in the hearts and minds of future generations is to be the worship of Nature, which is the only God.

The writer never having been burdened with any of the so-called religious thought, worships at this shrine eternal—Nature—and Lo! he finds the world and the Universe about him a dream of simplicity, a divine plan of creation, a perfect manifestation of an all-wise, an all-powerful Deity.

BUDDHIST BETTER THAN CHRISTIAN, BIPIN CHANDRA PAL TELLS BOSTON.

Boston, May 25.—Bipin Chandra Pal, addressing the Moral Education Society in Tremont Temple, gloried in his heathenism.

"I am not ashamed," he said, "of appearing before you as a heathen. Heathen means one who is not a Christian, and I am not ashamed of confessing that I am not a Christian. If I had any doubt on the subject when I left India, my two years' residence in Christian England and Christian America, and the closest study of the religion in the fogs and mists of London and on the streets of Chicago, Boston and New York, in Piccadilly and other places, have removed every bit of doubt. I am prouder than ever of being a heathen, as distinguished from being a Christian.

"Buddhism does not exist in India, and has not existed there for centuries. Ignorance is faith in many quarters, and I will not disturb that faith. If my origin is sin, it is mockery—cruel mockery—to tell me to rise above it or to go beyond it. We are born in God. Every drop of blood that pulsates in my veins is of God and from God. The light of my eye is the light of God. If God is not in my heart and in your heart He is nowhere. 'The kingdom of God is in the heart.'

"That the heathen Hindu is impracticable is to be found in the fact that a few English soldiers lord it over 300,000,000 of them. We may be impracticable so far as grabbing land and gold is concerned, but we claim to be far beyond Christian civilization in matters of ethics. If you want to control the nerves you must control the appetites for eating and drinking. If you want to control the mind you must control the body. So we say to our children, eat not the things that will destroy the nerves. We say, first of all, a sane body, for in a sane body only can a sane mind dwell.

"When a beggar comes to our door in India we do not send for a policeman and turn the beggar over to him, while we return to the enjoyment of our leg of mutton and strawberry shortcake, happy in the contemplation that we have done our Christian duty in sending a hungry man to jail. But even a little child will take a handful of rice or a couple of potatoes or a mango and give them to the beggar. We teach kindness by actions, not by pictures or a Sunday school lesson."

A wise man never goes the people's way; but, as the planets still move contrary to the world's motion, so doth he to opinion.—Ben Jonson.

I once had faith. But when I came to know something, as soon as I began to reason, which occurred early in life, at the age of thirteen, I found my faith attacked and that it staggered. . . . It is said that I am a papist. I am nothing.—Napoleon Bonaparte.

It is time that nations should be rational and not be governed like animals for the pleasure of their riders.—Paine.

Christianity, like all other religions, has been powerless to resist the ceaseless tendency in nature and in man to change. In practice, Christianity to-day is the very antithesis of what it was in the time of Jesus.—Arthur B. Moss.

It would be no overstatement to say that for nearly six hundred years the priests of the Galilean miracle-monger persuaded a plurality of the Caucasian nations to risk their lives in defense of dogmas the mere profession of which would start a modern Christian on a galloping trip to the next lunatic asylum.—Professor Oswald.

Men have become accustomed to think that Christianity means goodness, whereas all that we prize as good existed and was recognized in the world long before Jesus was born.—Robert C. Adams.

The Bible story of creation and the Persian and Hindoo and Greek legends are but the best guesses of an ignorant people, eager to explain the universe.—Arthur B. Moss.

Every man should endeavor to belong to himself.—Ingersoll.

The suppression of science has retarded the progress of mankind by a full thousand years.—Oswald.

All we know or can know of matter is the mode in which it affects our states of consciousness.—John Wilson.

Take away reason and all religions are alike true. As the sight being removed all things are of one color.—Henry More.

Christianity has driven more men and women crazy than all other religions combined. Hundreds and thousands and millions have lost their reason contemplating the monstrous falsehoods of Christianity.—Ingersoll.

What a picture is presented by the church! A few in life's last storm are to be saved; and the saved, when they reach shore, are to look back with joy upon the great ship going down to the eternal depths! This is what I call the unutterable meanness of orthodox Christianity.—Ingersoll.

Nature is seen to do all things spontaneously of herself, without the intermeddling of the gods.—Lucretius.

The phrases men are accustomed to repeat incessantly end by becoming convictions, and ossify the organs of intelligence.—Goethe.

Truth is truth, because it is truth, not because anybody says it is truth; and if it be truth, it will stand any and all tests.—D. G. Thompson.

Man ought to have pride or shame enough to blush at being . . . imposed upon, and when he feels his proper character he will.—Paine.

The Bible shows that the primitive man's guesses at the riddle of existence, however natural to an ignorant age, and however useful as a working hypothesis to the simple patriarchs and peasants of those far-off times, were pregnant with all sorts of errors, which it has taken many centuries to correct.—Arthur B. Moss.

There is no counting with certainty on the justice of men who are capable of fashioning and worshipping an unjust divinity; nor on their humanity so long as they incorporate inhuman motives in their most sacred dogmas; nor on their reasonableness while they rigorously decline to accept reason as a test of truth.—John Morley.

In this planet of ours Nature has not trusted our welfare to the whims of tricky spooks, but has endowed our own minds with the faculty of ascertaining and improving the conditions of that welfare; and the time can not come too soon when well-directed labor shall be recognized as the only prayer ever answered to the inhabitants of this earth.—Professor Oswald's Bible of Nature.

The more confident you are on just grounds of being in the right, the more fearlessly ready should you be to hear all that can be urged on the other side.—Whateley.

We live in the midst of religious machinery. Many mechanics at piety, often only apprentices and slow to learn, are turning the various ecclesiastical mills, and the creak of the motion is thought the voice of God.—Theodore Parker.

No invaders ever found patriots so desperate as a man who attacks a prejudice finds the peaceful possessors of its realm. Error lives in the hearts of its subjects; it is the most venerated and beloved of monarchs.—Lord Lytton.

O place! O form! How often dost thou with thy case, thy habit, wrench awe from fools, and tie the wiser souls to thy false seeming!—Shakespeare.

Our opinions are but running streams, flowing in various ways, but truth and justice are ever the same and permanent, and our opinions break about them as the waves round a rock, while they stand firm forever.—Fortnightly Review.

Beware of a nominal acquiescence in certain alleged truths, because you have been taught them in your infancy, or because they are the established opinions of those with whom you are connected. . . . It is the part of a well-regulated mind not only to know the truths, but to know the grounds on which they are believed to be true.—Abercrombie.

Do not inquire if a man be a heretic, if he be a Quaker, a Jew, or a heathen; but if he be a virtuous man, if he love liberty and truth, if he wish the happiness and peace of the human kind. If a man be ever so much a believer, and love not these things, he is a heartless hypocrite, a rascal and a knave.—Shelley.

Those abuses of the freedom of speech are the exercises of liberty. They ought to be repressed, but to whom dare we commit the care of doing it? An evil magistrate, intrusted with power to punish for words, would be armed with a weapon the most destructive and terrible. Under pretense of pruning off the exuberant branches he would be apt to destroy the tree.—Benjamin Franklin.

Piety and conformity to them that like,
Peace, obesity, allegiance, to them that like,
I am he who tauntingly compels men, women, nations,
Crying, leap from your seats and contend for your lives!
—Walt Whitman.

I found Christians all at variance about these doctrines, unable to agree as to what the revelation of God really revealed. I found that many scholars doubted the genuineness and authenticity of the gospels, and all the probabilities seemed to me to be on their side. The Dutch school of criticism gave a satisfactory explanation of the Bible as a compilation of Hebrew literature. Science, humanity and reason were opposed to tradition, and I gave up tradition.—Robert C. Adams.

Turning to the New Testament morality, we may attack it in various ways; we may argue that the better part of it is not new, and therefore cannot be regarded as especially inspired, or that it leaves out of account many virtues necessary to the well-being of families and states, or we may contend that much of it is harmful, and much of it unpracticable.—Annie Besant.

It has been contended for many years that the Ten Commandments are the foundation of all ideas of justice and of law. Eminent jurists have bowed to popular prejudice, and deformed their works by statements to the effect that the Mosaic laws are the fountains from which sprang all ideas of right and wrong. Nothing can be more stupidly false than such assertions. Thousands of years before Moses was born the Egyptians had a code of laws. They had laws against blasphemy, murder, adultery, larceny, perjury, laws for the collection of debts, the enforcement of contracts, the ascertainment of damages, the redemption of property pawned, and upon nearly every subject of human interest. The Egyptian code was far better than the Mosaic.—Ingersoll.

As knowledge and wisdom increase, all theological contrivances lose their credit and efficacy.—Abner Kneeland.

Sanitary authorities have in half a century done far more to reduce the rate of disease and death than has been done in fifteen hundred years by all the fetiches which theological reasoning could devise or ecclesiastical power enforce.—Prof. A. D. White.

The great opponent to progress is conservatism; in other words, the great adversary of invention is imitation.—Poe.

When science is led by the hand of power it will produce great and happy effects upon the well-being of society.—Napoleon Bonaparte.

We know now that the Bible cannot be used as the foundation of government. It is capable of too many meanings. Nobody can find out exactly what it upholds, what it permits, what it denounces, what it denies.—Ingersoll.

In society he is not the best member who can bring about the most good, but he that can accomplish it with the least admixture of concomitant ill. For let no man presume to think that he can devise any plan of extensive good, unalloyed and unadulterated with evil.—Colton.

If the Bible does not teach it (the doctrine of hell), then God's word has misled his people for eighteen centuries, and the Holy Ghost has been "leading into all" error, and it is not a safe guide, for the next generation may prove it spoke falsely to us about something else.—Robert C. Adams.

It is a fact that has long been placed beyond all doubt that morality and the church; nay, morality and religion, are things perfectly independent of each other, and that the most efficient agencies of morality in the world are education, training, prosperity and freedom.—Buchner.

In every large town all friends of humanity should unite for the enforcement of Sunday freedom and spare no pains to brand the Sabbath bigots as enemies of the human race.—Oswald.

Bravas to all impulses sending sane children to the next age! But damn that which spends itself with no thought of the stain, pains, dismay, feebleness, it is bequeathing.—Walt Whitman.

Men of letters, who have rendered the most service to the small number of thinking beings scattered over the earth, are isolated scholars, true sages shut up in their closets, who have neither publicly disputed in the universities, nor said things by halves in the academies, and such have almost all been persecuted. Our miserable race is so created, that those who walk in the beaten path always throw stones at those who would show them a new one.—Voltaire.

The enlightened reason of man is the only interpreter of Nature's laws, and physical theories handed down from remote antiquity have simply no claim whatever upon our acceptance in the present day.—Professor Youmans.

The clergy found it necessary to preserve the Sabbath for their own uses, and for that reason endeavored to impress the people with the enormity of its violation, and for that purpose gave instances of people being drowned and suddenly struck dead for working or amusing themselves on that day. The clergy have objected to any other places of amusement except their own, being opened on that day. They wished to compel people either to go to church or stay at home.—Ingersoll.

Let one take up the Bible as he does any modern book and judge of its contents according to the impression made upon his faculties, and it seems impossible not to reject its claim to be the infallibly inspired word of God, and perceive it to be a compilation of Hebrew traditions and poetry made by men in darker ages than the present.—R. C. Adams.

It is often said that if the fears of hell-fire were suddenly removed, men would abandon themselves without restraint to their propensities and appetites; recklessness and despair would take possession of the human race, and society would be dissolved. But I believe that the fears of hell-fire have scarcely any power upon earth at all, and that when they do act upon the human mind it is to make it pious, not to make it good.—Reade.

This doctrine, that sins can be forgiven, and the consequences of them averted, has in all ages been a fertile source of mischief. Perhaps few of our intellectual errors have fructified in a vaster harvest of evil, or operated more powerfully to impede the moral progress of our race. . . . It has encouraged millions, feeling what a safety was in store for them in ultimate resort, to persevere in their career of folly or crime, to ignore or despise those natural laws which God has laid down to be the guides and beacons of our conduct, to continue to do "that which was pleasant in their own eyes," convinced that nothing was irrevocable, that however dearly they might have to pay for reintegration, repentance could at any time redeem their punishment and undo the past. The doctrine has been noxious in exact ratio to the baldness and nakedness with which it has been propounded. In the Catholic Church of the middle ages we see it perhaps in its worst form, when pardon was sold, bargained for, rated at a fixed price.—Greg.

Genuine belief is always manifested in corresponding action. Belief in the existence of a pitfall, the approach of an avalanche, or the presence of a wild beast, is always eagerly communicated to others. Men will not allow others to go into danger without warning and without deep concern for their welfare. Judged by this rule, how many really believe the doctrine of everlasting punishment? If men all around us are going down to an eternal hell, and Christians believe it and know of an easy way of escape, would they so seldom vary their lives of business and pleasure by a word to the impenitent? Would they be able to live contentedly in a round of diversion, music, embroidery, and cigar-smoking, while their neighbors are dropping into ceaseless doom, where "the smoke of their torment ascendeth up forever and ever?" Would ministers of churches only make vague allusions to the dread dogma, and leave the preaching of terror to evangelists, without charge of societies, who are not imperiled by the dissent of parishioners? It is seldom preached now in city churches, and ministers' minds are everywhere perplexed in the effort to reconcile revelation with good taste.—R. C. Adams.

The history of the Christian church, from the beginning to the present day, presents little else than a history of disgraceful quarrels of the most rancorous description, and a series of falsehoods unexampled in all the other pages of history. Pious frauds consecrated by the highest authority; false gospels, false documents, interpolations of ancient authors for the purpose of deception, false saints, false relics, false miracles, forged acts of councils, false decretals, false donations, false revelations, specters, and apparitions, preternatural communications, miraculous cures, and supernatural revivals and outpourings of the spirit upon ignorant men and hysterical women, supported by the testimony of ancient fathers of the church, pontiffs, bishops, doctors, and holy men of the most popular sanctity, belonging to all manner of conflicting sects, and agreeing in nothing but the common duty of religious lying, forging, and inventing, to serve the interest of the priesthood, and promote the common cause of public deception.—Abner Kneeland.

I do not believe that the Bible, when properly understood, is, or ever has been, a comfort to any human being. Surely, no good man can be comforted by reading a book in which he finds that a large majority of mankind have been sentenced to eternal fire.—Ingersoll.

One fact must be familiar to all those who have any experience of human nature. A sincerely religious man is often an exceedingly bad man. Piety and vice frequently live together in the same dwelling, occupying different chambers, but remaining always on the most amicable terms.—Reade.

When the voice of authority is no longer raised to stifle intellectual inquiry, science will cease altogether to wear a negative aspect and will gain universal recognition as the great constructor of whatever is sound in knowledge or of practical value in life; while religion will embrace the emotions and convictions that come to man from the contemplation of the all comprehending universe and its Transcendent Cause.—Professor Youmans.

Notwithstanding there may be much good obtained from a knowledge of the Scriptures; notwithstanding they are venerable for their antiquity, and curious for much of what they contain, yet, after all, I ask of any honest and well-meaning parent, how he can justify to himself bringing up his children in reverential belief of such a book as the Bible? Is there a book in existence that contains more filth and more falsehood?—Kneeland.

Herein was seen the culmination and decline of the bull "Summis Desiderantes" (against witchcraft). It had been issued by him whom a vast majority of the Christian world believes to be infallible in his teachings to the church as regards faith and morals; yet here was a deliberate utterance in a matter of faith and morals which even children now know to be utterly untrue.—Prof. A. D. White.

Some people with whom I talk, men and women even of some originality and genius, have their scheme of the universe all cut and dried, very dry—I assure you, to hear, dry enough to burn, dry rotted and powder-post, methinks—which they set up between you and them in the shortest intercourse; an ancient and tottering frame with all its boards blown off. . . . Some, to me, seemingly very unimportant and unsubstantial things and relations, are for them everlastingly settled—as Father, Son and Holy Ghost, and the like. These are like the everlasting hills to them. But in all my wanderings I never came across the least vestige of authority for these things. They have not left so distinct a trace as the delicate flower of a remote geological period on the coal in my grate.—Thoreau.

The great misfortune of a philosopher is not perhaps being the object of the jealousy of his brother scholars, the victim of cabals, and the contempt of the powerful of the world—it is being judged by fools. Fools sometimes go very far, particularly when fanaticism is joined to folly, and folly to the spirit of vengeance. Further, the great misfortune of a philosopher is generally to hold to nothing. A citizen buys a little situation and is maintained by his fellow-citizens. If any injustice is done him he soon finds defenders. The literary man is without aid; he resembles the flying fish. If he rises a little the birds devour him; if he dives, the fishes eat him up.—Voltaire.

Every church is a kind of insurance society, and proposes, for a small premium, to keep you from eternal fire. Of course, the man who tells you that there is to be no fire, interferes with the business, and is denounced as a malicious meddler and blasphemer.—Ingersoll.

I have a higher opinion of the medical, or rather surgical, profession, than of any other. The practice of the law is too severe an ordeal for poor human nature. He who habituates himself to the distortion of truth, and to exultation at the success of injustice, will at last hardly know right from wrong. So it is with politics; a man must have a conventional conscience. Of ecclesiastics too much is expected, and they consequently become hypocrites. As to soldiers, they are cut-throats and robbers, and not the less so because they are ready to send a bullet through your head if you tell them your opinion of them. But the mission of surgeons is to benefit mankind, not to mystify or destroy them or inflame them against one another.—Napoleon Bonaparte.

Jesus said: "I say unto you, that ye resist not evil; but whoever shall smite thee on the right cheek turn to him the other also. And if any man will sue thee at law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also. And whoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain" (Matt. v., 38-41). If our ancestors had always adopted this course we should be slaves to-day. If the honest man, when robbed and smitten by the thief, should turn the other cheek, or offer his cloak when his coat had been taken, he would be positively promoting rascality.—Moss.

In the eyes of all truly competent men the question whether the universe, as we see it, is the result of regularly working forces, having a casual connection with each other and therefore capable of being understood by human reason, or whether it is the work of an automatic, incomprehensible being that admits of no recognition by the reason of man, has long since been decided in favor of the former alternative. Every item of human knowledge, every page of practical experience, every conquest of science, gives but this one answer, and makes the old theistic theory of the universe, which originated in the days when mankind was still in its first childhood, appear as a mere fable, engendered by the reverie of past ages.—Buchner.

I do not think it is scientific to say that . . . this world is only about six thousand years old, or that man has only been upon the earth for about six thousand years. If the Bible is true, Adam was the first man. The age of Adam is given, the age of his children, and the time, according to the Bible, was kept and known from Adam, so that if the Bible is true, man has only been in the world about six thousand years. In my judgment, and in the judgment of every scientific man whose judgment is worth having or quoting, man inhabited this earth for thousands of years prior to the creation of Adam. On one point the Bible is at least certain, and that is, as to the life of Adam. The genealogy is given, the pedigree is there, and it is impossible to escape the conclusion that, according to the Bible, man has only been upon this earth about six thousand years. There is no chance there to say "long periods of time," or "geological ages." There we have the years. And as to the time of the creation of man, the Bible does not tell the truth.—Ingersoll.

For my part, I long ago espoused the cause of religious liberty, not because that cause was popular, but because it was just; and I am not disposed to abandon the principles to which I have been true through my whole life in deference to a passing clamor. The day may come, and may come soon, when those who are now loudest in raising that clamor may again be, as they have formerly been, suppliants for justice. When that day arrives I will try to prevent others from oppressing them, as I now try to prevent them from oppressing others. In the mean time I shall contend against their intolerance with the same spirit with which I may hereafter have to contend for their rights.—Macaulay.

The preponderant role of the religions in past times is explained by the fact that then they were almost the only means by which men could set their intellectual and moral activity to work. They were the unique opening for all the higher aspirations of our being. At that epoch, with the exception of religion, there was no mental occupation other than coarse and material; nothing between the visionary and the most common reality. In the present day the necessary and natural middle course is found. Science, and art have spread before our eyes their domains with never-ending perspectives, where everyone can expend his surplus activity without wasting it needlessly. Science permits of disinterested research, without tolerating the wanderings of the imagination. It gives enthusiasm without delirium. It has a beauty of its own, consisting of truth.—Guyau.

The assertion of the motion of the earth was a defiance, not only of philosophy and the church, but, at the same time, of that common ignorance which passes by the name of common sense; and Physical Science threw down her glove by the hand of Galileo. It is not pleasant to think of the immediate result of the combat—to see the champion of science, old, worn and on his knees, before the cardinal inquisitor, signing his name to what he knew to be a lie. And, no doubt, the cardinals rubbed their hands as they thought how well they had silenced and discredited their adversary. But two hundred years have passed, and, however feeble or faulty her soldiers, Physical Science sits crowned and enthroned as one of the legitimate rulers of the world of thought. Charity children would now be ashamed not to know that the earth moves, while the schoolmen are forgotten; and the cardinals—well, the cardinals are, at the ecumenical council (1870), still at their old business of trying to stop the movement of the world.—Professor Huxley.

No Bible, if it is to retain its influence, should ever be translated into a language understood, or even half understood, by the people. Well the church of Rome knew this, and determinedly it resisted translation out of "the original tongues." . . . But there is one effective set-off against the evil of translating the Bible: few really read it, even after it has been translated. If you find a man here and there who has really read the Bible, he is always more or less an "Infidel." The true Christian does not read it; he only praises it. He gives it a conspicuous place in his house—in some parts of England I have seen it, large and gilt, do duty as an ornament for the window-sill; it is in his hand every Sunday at least, and I know one or two saints who carry it constantly in their pockets, and yet they know nothing of where it came from, and next to nothing of what is in it.—Saladin.

Let us now compute the immense number of slaves which fanaticism has made, whether in Asia, where uncircumcision was a mark of infamy, or in Africa, where the Christian name was a crime, or in America, where the pretext of baptism absolutely extinguished the feelings of humanity. Let us compute the thousands who have been seen to perish on scaffolds in the ages of persecution, or in civil wars by the hands of their fellow-citizens, or by their own hands, through excessive austerities and maceration. Let us survey the surface of the earth and glance at the various standards unfurled and blazing in the name of religion; in Spain against the Moors; in France against the Turks; in Hungary against the Tartars; at the numerous military orders, founded for converting Infidels at the point of the sword, and slaughtering one another at the foot of the altar they had come to defend. In a word, let us contemplate the horrors of fifteen centuries, all frequently renewed in the course of a single one; unarmed men slain at the feet of altars; kings destroyed by the dagger or by poison; a large state reduced to half its extent by the fury of its own citizens; the nation at once the most warlike and the most pacific on the face of the globe, divided in fierce hostility against itself; the sword unsheathed between the sons and the father; usurpers, tyrants, executioners, sacrilegious robbers and blood-stained parricides violating, under the influence of religion, every convention divine or human;—such is the deadly picture of fanaticism.—Voltaire.

BE CONTENT.

Said the parson, "Be content,
Pay your tithe-dues, pay your rent,
They that earthly things despise
Shall have mansions in the skies;
Though your back with toil be bent,"
Said the parson, "Be content."

Then the parson feasting went
With my lord who lives by rent;
And the parson laughed elate,
For my lord has livings great.
They that earthly things revere,
May get bishops' mansions here.

Be content! be content!
Till your dreary life is spent.
Lowly live, and lowly die,
All for mansions in the sky.
Castles here are much too rare;
All may have them—in the air.

FADS OF THE DOCTORS.

A great deal of agitation has been created among physicians and health-boards as well as among people who have, or are associated with those who have, consumption. In Boston a curious plan was proposed and we presume is being carried out to check this disease and wipe it out altogether. In all parts of the world the subject is being discussed. The question of heredity plays an important part in dealing with the subject from the medical standpoint.

The following extract from a daily paper gives the plan of the Boston crusade:

PEOPLE MUST CO-OPERATE.

Boston Board of Health Hopeful That Consumption Can Be Stamped Out—Active Crusade.

[Special to The Times-Herald.]

Boston, June 17.—Dr. Durgin of the Boston board of health, which is conducting an active crusade against consumption in this city, today spoke most hopefully of the matter. He said that if the people would co-operate with the board the disease could certainly be stamped out. Dr. Durgin said the board realizes it will be harshly criticized, but it has only the public health at heart and will enforce its new measures. A pamphlet giving careful and full instructions for the care of consumptives has been printed, and the board is distributing it as widely as possible.

An apparently highly important discovery has just been made by the bacteriological laboratory of the board. Of 260 specimens of supposed consumptive sputa collected at random more than 150 are found to contain no evidence of the disease. This would indicate that more than one-half of all supposed consumptive patients are not suffering from tuberculosis, but some other malady.

Dr. Hill, the bacteriologist, however, is not willing to say this is so. He says that if even 10 per cent of these patients are free from consumption it shows an alarming incapacity for diagnosis among physicians, and adds that probably other specimens of sputa from the 150 would reveal some bacilli.

Hereafter consumptives in Boston who cannot be isolated and cared for properly in their homes, insuring the protection of their relatives and others not afflicted, will be removed by the board of health to the Long Island hospital or to Tewksbury Almshouse. Several patients have been sent already to these institutions, but they will be treated differently from people having acute diseases like scarlet fever, typhoid fever, diphtheria or smallpox. They will be allowed to receive visitors, and life will be made as pleasant for them as the rules of the institution will permit.

The board of health is determined to do all it can do to wipe out tuberculosis in this city if possible. Some weeks ago an order was issued requiring all physicians to report all cases of consumption within their knowledge, and the board has now a pretty accurate list of all the afflicted people in the city. As rapidly as reported they will be visited by inspectors of the board, and isolation and proper care at their homes effected, or else the unfortunates must become wards in the institutions named above.

The board prefers to have the patients remain at home if it can be satisfied that they will be taken care of, and the disease conquered, and has adopted the new regulations only with the purpose of freeing Boston of them entirely.

But how are these professors to accomplish this feat, when they do not agree in their diagnoses, and when all the world has been seeking a cure for hundreds of years?

How can they treat anything of this nature until they learn the underlying law that produces the diseased condition?

How are they going to decide whether a diseased lung is an affliction of consumption or some other malady? and if some other malady, what is it?

The magnetic law of our planetary system shows conclusively the nature and intensity of all afflictions, and consumption is just as easily diagnosed and explained as any other ailment.

The polarizations of the planetary currents in the solar anatomical scale, which co-ordinates with the organism of man, at the time a person is born, producing extreme agitation of the particular function which co-ordinates with the lungs, is the primal and direct cause of what is termed consumption.

Now, if this is a natural and universal state or condition, how can it be stamped out as the Boston experimenters propose, by treating cases after they have developed to a point where the so-called tuberculosis appear.

The microbe theory would seem to be knocked out by the statements of the Doctors in the above extract. For if it is a microbe which starts the disease in the first place, how is it that questions arise as to the supposed attack being what it appears to be; that is, consumption?

The fact is there are all degrees of intensity in the primary rays or vibrations; hence, the disease becomes more acute in some people than in others. The severest cases develop the greater amount of sputum and those of lesser range of expression may show scarcely any.

TREATMENT.

In a new book, "Vibrations of Health," advertised in this number, a simple method is shown by which this disease may be treated with great success. We will suggest here, however, that diet, exercise and the open air, among the native forests, will do more for the relief of consumptives than all the remedies, isolation and special treatment possible to give.

DANGER TO OTHERS.

There is no occasion for isolating consumptives, for the disease is not contagious as claimed by the medical fraternity. A person without the primal vibration which may be aggravated into the disease can in no possible way contract the disease, so there is no danger whatever in contracting persons suffering from this dreaded affliction. Of course this will be disputed by physicians for some years to come, but those having a little knowledge of the law of being will readily see that our statement is correct.

The calamities with which the world is afflicted, are the result of the ignorance of men, and not of the interference of God.—Buckle.

We are convinced that it is contrary to all moral ideas to teach that the guilty may be pardoned because the innocent have suffered.—Robt. C. Adams.

Shut not your doors to me, proud libraries, for that which was lacking on all your well-fill'd shelves, yet needed most, I bring.—Walt Whitman.

ASTRONOMERS' OPINION OF ASTROLOGY.

By E. Walter Maunder, Fellow Royal Astronomical Society.
Tribune, Sept. 16, 1900.

"Astronomers do not care to waste time on an examination into astrology, for the reason that there is nothing in it to examine. It is simply a gross imposture, a special form of fetichism—i. e.: of the arbitrary ascription to inanimate objects of mysterious powers, entirely apart from any physical and material action. The only excuse it ever had was in the days of bygone heathendom, when the sun, moon, and planets were looked upon not as things but as beings; as gods, in fact, and were worshiped as such.

"But as compared with the English astrologer, the West African negro shows himself much the more reasonable and intelligent. The latter, if his fetich does not bring him the expected good luck, will kick or beat it and consign it to the dust heap. The former, if Venus and Mercury do not justify his anticipations, does not dream of reconsidering his notions as to their 'influences,' but goes on still blindly believing in spite of the clearest evidences against him.

"Present day astrologers can neither tell when or how the special 'influences' supposed to reside in each individual 'planet' or 'house' were determined, nor give the observations upon which primitive astrology was based. They choose to call Jupiter 'fortunate' and Saturn 'malign,' but if any one should think fit to reverse the attributes, who could contradict him?

"Astrologers ask 'whether the Egyptians, the Chaldeans, and other highly civilized races were wrong in the opinions they entertained for many thousands of years.' If modern astrologers are right, they certainly were. For the ancients recognized but seven planets, whereas there are—according to modern astrologers—nine. That is to say, in the opinion of the ancients Uranus and Neptune had no influence, for they never detected anything wrong in their calculations, as they should if these planets were potent.

"Further, can astrologers tell us now, by the 'outstanding differences' between their predictions and their fulfillments, whether there are more planets to be discovered beyond Neptune or within the orbit of Mercury?

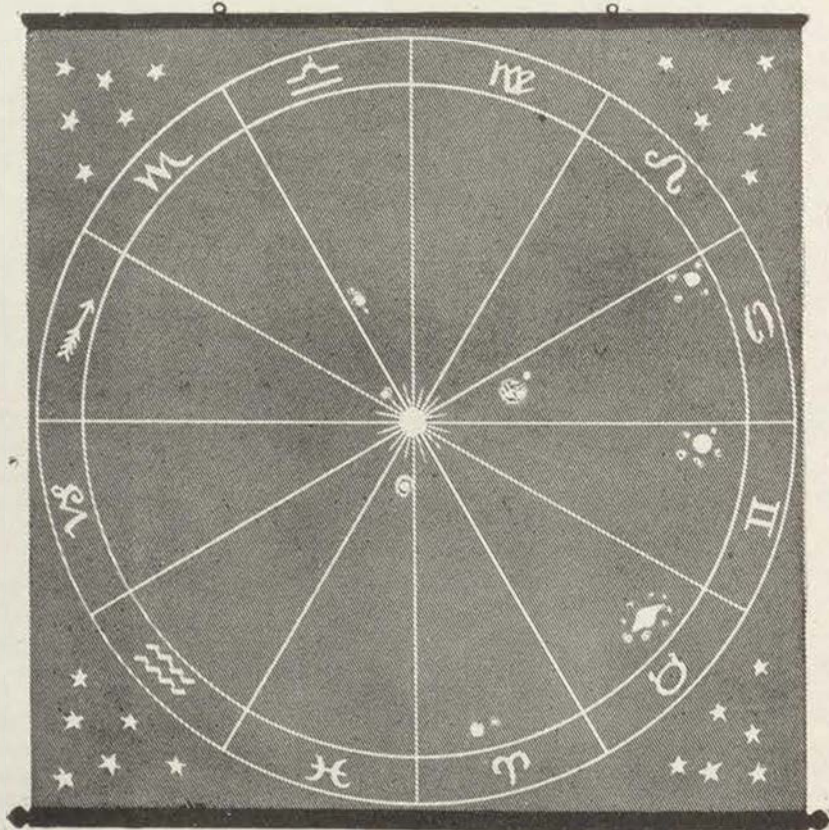

"One point more, the force of gravitation varies directly as the mass of the attracting body, and inversely as the square of the distance. Is it so with the 'astrological' or 'psychical' force of the planets? Does any astrologer know? If it does not vary according to the same law, does it vary at all for any given planet, or is it always the same for the same body whatever its distance, and equal for all the planets whatever their mass? Or if there be any differences, what is the law governing them? No astrologer can tell, yet without such knowledge astrology stands a fraud self-confessed."

Just merely to record the fact that in this age of the world, with all the boasted civilization and knowledge, scientific and otherwise, and with millions of money invested in the finest equipped astronomical observatories, there are supposedly enlightened men holding high positions in the circles of education who have not yet awakened to the fact that the occult or hidden influences of the planets are as clearly demonstrable as are the locations of the same bodies in their orbital positions for any given date.

It is surprising that people are so dense in matters occult—really surprising.

Let it be recorded that this is the astronomers' state at the beginning of the twentieth century. We suppose it will take a few more incarnations for the scales to wear off so that the light of occult science can penetrate the darkened and bewildered intellect of some minds.

HOROSCOPE OF BENJAMIN FRANKLIN.

We present the horoscope of this noted character to our readers as a study of the planetary conditions of early eighteenth century times.

Benjamin Franklin won international fame as a journalist, scientist, inventor, philosopher, author, poet, wit, statesman, diplomatist and patriot. He was born in Boston, Jan. 17, 1706, had two years of schooling, learned the printing trade, and in 1723 went to Philadelphia with only five shillings to seek his fortune. In ten years he grew to be a widely known and popular American. He published "Poor Richard's Almanac," founded the University of Pennsylvania and the first circulating library in America. He discovered the identity of lightning and electricity by means of a kite with metal tip and a conducting string. He invented the lightning rod. He induced France to aid the colonies in their struggle for independence and to furnish them arms and more than $5,000,000 in money. He served as postmaster of Philadelphia, special envoy to England, Minister Plenipotentiary to France, and thrice as president of the State of Pennsylvania. He aided in drafting the Declaration of Independence, the treaty with England ending the Revolutionary War, and the Constitution of the United States. He died in Philadelphia April 17, 1790, "the foremost American" of his time.—(Times-Herald).

Benjamin Franklin was born in the mental sign Cancer of the quarter of wisdom with the planet of Genius in conjunction with the earth in this prolific and fruitful sign.

This gave him a wonderful combination of brain power coupled with genius in the highest degree. He was a mental giant, positive, determined and fearless. These are conditions that result from a combination of Uranus and Cancer upon the earth.

He had, as supporters to this intense combination, the planet Mars in the sign Libra and also Neptune in the sign Aries, all three planets in the quadrature of birth and all mental signs. The fearlessness before mentioned is greatly enhanced by Mars, the god of war in Libra, and the ability to lead and control to a marked degree was also intensified by the same.

Neptune gave him his greatest power in connection with governments. It being in Aries, the function of the brain, it had an important influence in his relations with foreign powers. It relates to the greater distances and things afar off. Uranus, however, was the backer and promoter of his impulses, and it gave him the inventive turn of mind which made him famous throughout the world. He was not educated. He was born above ordinary teachers, a genius with his soul on fire for the love of humanity and the promotion of good to all the world.

He was a plunger. He dared to do anything, as his combination clearly shows. He was one whose path none dared to cross. He was usually right in all his deductions and conclusions, and a bad man to attempt to force in any way whatever. He had a temper that would dissipate or dissolve anything that came in contact with it. The intensity of his planetary combination was as great as we have ever figured upon. He carried everything by the genius and force of his mind.

Jupiter and Venus made him liberal to the limit. Uranus gave him the nerve to stand alone, a God among men. His heart was a large one, and he came to his death from an affliction of this organ.

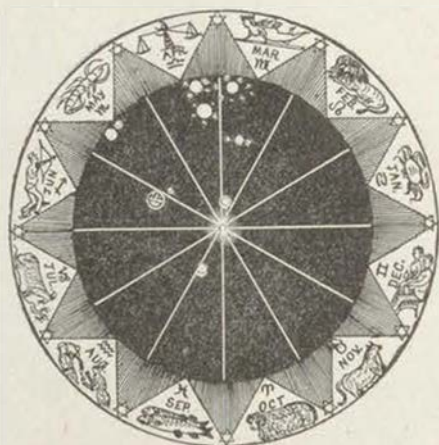

We can not say that he ever really loved any one person. He loved the world and all that's in it. He loved all people, but no one in particular. People were too small and insignificant for him to waste time on as a personal matter. He dared to meet the leaders and masters and he won victories at every turn.

When the planets are right, ye gods look out for the coming of souls who need no guardians or instructors. The advantages of education are for those who need it.

He saw the need of education and he founded a college that it might be given more abundantly.

Such were the conditions which environed this old soul of the mystical past.

RALPH WALDO EMERSON AND EDWARD BULWER-LYTTON.
DELINEATION.

They were born in the negative impressional sign Sagittarius in the quarter of business and wealth the 27th day of May, 1803. It is the sign of undertakings, ventures and daring. Lovers of nature, symbolized by the archer, were these two characters. They reveled in the scenes of the hills, mountains and valleys, and drew their inspiration to write and express their ideas and feelings in accordance with the significance of this sign of birth under favorable planetary vibration for such expression.

The Ruling Planet being Mercury, the planet of intellect, perception, speech, literary ability and composition, it is in close harmony and keeping with the law that these two characters were noted authors. However, their talents in this direction were greatly enhanced by the combination which other planets form with Mercury.

Venus, Mars and Saturn, in the same quadrature, give a wide range of thought, feeling and expression. Mars made them very systematic in their work, gave them forcefulness and accuracy of statement and enabled them to lead in their particular fields of research.

Saturn added logic in high degree and gave them a wide range of experience as well as ideas. It caused them to seek in many directions and increased the volume of their work and influence.

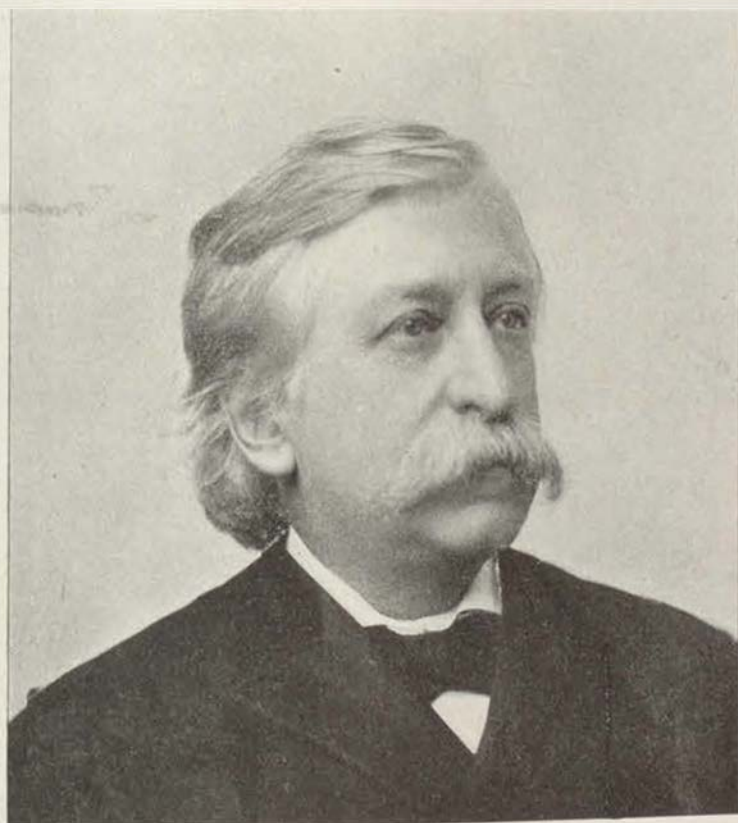

Venus was, however, the drawing magnet of their time, and its tender and harmonious influence spiritualized and ennobled every impulse and motive.

It is a very strong horoscope for literary power and ability. Jupiter in Libra in conjunction with Uranus was a favorable combination for high ideals, and Neptune in aphelion in Scorpio gave a great amount of strength to the individual characteristics. They were strong characters, therefore, by nature, and thus became influential by being so environed that they entered their proper sphere of labor at the right time to make the most of their lives as authors.

The important point we wish to bring before the readers is the fact that both were born on the same day and both followed the same line of business or expression, so far as their lives have come before the world.

This is merely an illustration of the fact that persons born at the same time will lead very similar lives. Their thoughts and impulses will bear a striking resemblance and Nature will seem to be in competition with itself to see which will really merit the greatest praise.

MELVILLE W. FULLER
Chief Justice of the United States.

We present the horoscopes of two leading characters who have attained prominence as chief magistrates of their respective nations.

CHIEF JUDGE

All matters of great importance have been carried to these exceptional minds for a number of years.

These two leaders in the sphere of Law are Chief Justice Fuller of the United States and Li Hung Chang of China.

It is interesting to find in these two horoscopes the fact that both are born in the same sign and have very striking planetary combinations for the special work to which their lives have been devoted.

Mr. Fuller was born February 11th, 1833, which makes him a Leo character. This shows that he has a tender heart and is extremely emotional and sensitive to a degree that he feels the conditions of people and things in a manner that must, at times, be very heart-rending.

RULING PLANET.

His ruling planet is that highly vibrating body called Uranus, and as there are no other planets in his quadrate of birth, the single influence of this magnet makes him far-sighted, keen and penetrating and gives him a wonderful grasp of life, conditions and things in general.

Uranus is the planet that spiritualizes and sensitizes and gives one an analytical mind as well as a very clear perception. The sign of birth and the ruling planet combined show a wonderfully just and upright nature. The planet gives nerve in the highest, the sign gives power. Leo—the Lion. He is a humanitarian in the highest degree. He is clear in judgment and free-hearted to a fault.

He should have been a leader in some great movement for the educational advancement of the race; yet the United States may have needed him most as Chief Judge of the nation.

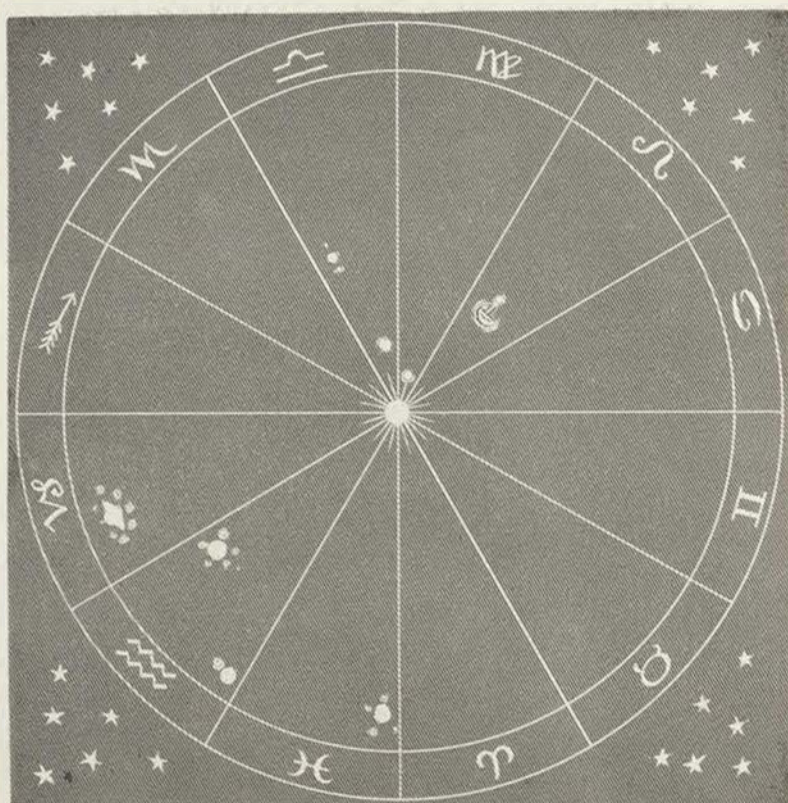

Mercury, Mars, Jupiter and Neptune, in mental signs well poised, show his wonderful capabilities in the field of law and jurisprudence.

LI HUNG CHANG,
China's Grand Old Man.

We find our subject was born in the sign Leo with a combination of planets quite similar to that of President McKinley. Like Chief Justice Fuller, he is a humanitarian and a deeply emotional character. He has a pull for government honors superior to that of Mr. McKinley, as both Jupiter and Neptune are in position for great honors and are not interfered with as they are, slightly, in Mr. McKinley's case.

Venus and Mars in Libra are favorably posited for power with the people. Saturn is also in its favorable place. Mercury, being his health promoter, is very much in his favor, and it plays a double role in giving scientific tendencies. Uranus is the weaker planet, while his life is ruled by the great Jupiter.

Taken as a whole, his horoscope is a very fine one. It shows favors, prestige, diplomacy, power, justice, nerve and executive ability to a very marked degree. Few men in the world are born under such all-round favorable auspices from the starry hosts. It is a remarkably fine horoscope. It is such characters as this that have kept the Chinese empire of 400,000,000 souls under reasonable control for so many years.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

The horoscope of Theodore Roosevelt is an interesting one at this writing (September, 1900), as he is in nomination for the position of Vice President of the United States.

Born in the sign Taurus, October 27th, 1858, shows him to be very studious and possessed of intensely nervous and high-strung traits of character. He has a double way with him in that he appears to be slow and set in his ways, yet on occasion displays the extreme degree of activity and impulsiveness. These things are shown by his

HOROSCOPE OF THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

RULING PLANET

Mercury, which gives the quick and impulsive responses and movements, while Saturn, which ever lowers the vibrations and makes one more reserved and secretive, holds him at times in complete statu quo.

Mars, the god of war, is in combination with Mercury and Saturn, hence the "warrior bold" which he is.

We may put this down as a very warm combination to meet in battle. It is considered a very intense combination for fearlessness and determination.

HOROSCOPE OF WILLIAM II. OF GERMANY.

One of the noted public characters of the times and one toward whom many eyes and minds are turning when considering the questions of the East, the relations of the powers and the possible action of the German government in the great questions of the nations, is William II., Emperor of Germany.

We present his horoscope and find he is a Leo character, with the planet Saturn as his Ruling magnet.

Mars alone in the quadrate of the mind is conducive to power in government and military matters. Mercury in Scorpio adds much in the way of vitality and keenness of feeling, but it seems that with all the better positions there is a condition which would go to say: that great caution and much counseling with all the various members of his cabinet and in parliament is necessary to the welfare of the empire.

The Emperor has the power to rise high, but like Napoleon, he has the same planet that often carries up such a great load with honors that a collapse must of necessity result.

Will the Emperor see the point in time to keep matters in a way to protect himself and his people?

This is a period in the affairs of the German people when great care should be exercised by the nation's chief executive.

up at the approach of a person or the extension of a hand toward it. The blossom is the first to wither and decay on account of this.

Therefore this co-ordinate function in man, also the most sensitive, is in the greatest danger, of all the functions, from influences without. People feel things, conditions in others, the weather, and they get impressions through this section which they cannot account for. There are many and curious phenomena connected with this particular function. Hypnotic, subconscious and various other phenomena have to do with this center of sensitiveness.

THE BRAIN OR CEREBRUM.

The front brain or cerebrum may be likened unto a ledger where things, impressions, feelings, emotions, etc., are entered up, recorded for reference; a division to which one turns for facts which experience has given to the rational being.

The solar plexus may be likened to a day-book where entries are made of the day's doings. When posted to the ledger brain they are in shape for the reason to consider them—the rational being to profit by them.

Thus the cerebrum is the seat of the mentality; that which is builded after the sensitive plant, the organism, has been constructed and completed as a product.

The cerebellum is in Pyramidal correspondence with the function of the stomach, spleen, etc., and in its special office is primary to the cerebellum. The cerebrum alone is the one function which is cultivated and trained into many and varied conditions after an organism is ushered into the world.

Brain matter in varying degrees of fineness or sensitiveness no doubt permeates the entire organism of man. The nerve fluids are sufficiently susceptible to give one an idea that his brains are everywhere throughout his body.

So the idea of a third brain is not out of harmony with the law, if one considers that a sensitive function which is capable of being so influenced by outward vibrations that impressions of various kinds are made upon the rational center, the cerebrum.

One point more is very interesting and may be taken as a guide in handling children, especially babes. The human organism is upright while in active expression; but it must be placed in a horizontal position in order to be recuperated. The head should be as low as the feet in order to be in proper polarization for the rejuvenating currents.

Nature has so constructed us that we can brace up and ply our varied lines of activities for a short time only, without returning to horizontal refreshment.

People should lie upon the ground face downward for best results. Babes should be placed upon the ground on the green grass and allowed to crawl around as they see fit. It is necessary to health, development and vigor. The children of the poor, because of this natural contact with mother earth, are hardier than those of parents who keep them indoors and over treated with soap, water and unnecessary care.

OUR SUGGESTION TO TESLA.

In Planets and People for 1899 we made a suggestion to Mr. Tesla, and, acting upon the same, he gave the following to the press as the result of the work accomplished and the value of the knowledge which he gained.

We refer the reader to Planets and People for 1899, page 7, article "Electricity," which induced Mr. Tesla to go to Colorado and make the experiments herewith reported.

MAY SPAN THE OCEAN.

Nikola Tesla's Experiments With Wireless Telegraphy in Colorado.

Colorado Springs, Colo.—* * *
"Mr. Tesla opened his experimental station here last May, and for six months he has been patiently at work transforming his ideas into actual operative condition. He came here with the announced intention of making scientific measurements and observations with wireless telegraphy in high altitudes, but until now has kept secret his main purpose. He asserts he has perfected a machine by which communication between New York and Paris will be a comparatively simple matter.

"I have been successful in my experiments beyond anything I ever accomplished," he said. "I am glad I came to Colorado. I am delighted with the results. I am not at liberty to give out the details of my work at this time, but you can say the system of wireless telegraphy has been successfully demonstrated in this altitude, which is 6,000 feet above sea level."

Since the establishment of his laboratory in Colorado Springs Mr. Tesla has lived at the Alta Vista Hotel, but he is seldom seen there. The Colorado Springs laboratory in which Tesla has been so successful is located about a mile from the center of the city on the highest point of land in this vicinity, and is on a direct line east from Pike's Peak. It is about 200 feet higher than the town proper, affording an unobstructed view of the Rocky Mountains.

It is not inclosed, and although located only a few hundred feet from a street, Mr. Tesla has obtained all the privacy desired, as he has placed about the building numerous signs bearing the following inscription:

: Great Danger—Keep Out. :

The laboratory is a queer-looking structure, and has been an object of interest to the town folk, who have gazed at it long and often, but who, as a rule, never ventured closer than fifty feet, the sign being a sufficient warning to keep away the curious.

The most noticeable features about the barn-like building are the numerous electric wires running into the place, the scaffold-like contrivances on the roof and the pole in the center of the building rising to a height of 250 feet and surmounted by a large ball.

Few persons looking at the ball suspended on the innocent looking pole would imagine that it has played an important part in high altitude experiments. The ball, which is about one and one-half feet in diameter, is used to transmit and receive messages. There is a wire on the inside of the pole which runs to the instrument in the building.

Tesla zealously guards all approaches to the laboratory. There is a small engine near the entrance. The laboratory proper is located back of the engine, and is inclosed by a circular partition, so that employes will not come in contact with "live" wires.

The laboratory consists of two large cylindrical-shaped contrivances. One reaches from the floor to the roof, and is made entirely of wood. Surrounding it is one which is encircled by "live" wires, and it is here where Mr. Tesla has accomplished his scientific experiments in a high altitude.

The building, from an exterior point of view, is of peculiar design. It is a low, wooden building, thirty feet square, and rises to a height of only twenty feet. The building to the right is the Printers' Home, founded by Messrs. Childs and Drexel, and maintained by the International Typographical Union.

There is a world of information to be gained in connection with other things than those which pertain to electricity. Photographing sounds is to be one of the experiments in the higher altitudes, especially musical sounds, which will show the most interesting phenomena of all the tones of the vibrant scale.

Photographing phenomena of various kinds will be accomplished there by a new process as yet undeveloped, and messages, or rather conditions of far off bodies, such as the planets of our system, will be recorded by a new plate, proving the varying influences of the planets at different points in the circle and determining just how the changing polarities produce results upon our earth.

We suggest these things that others may make the necessary trials. Many things of this nature will be taken up in the new educational movement of the Pyramid and Cube University.

ANOTHER SUGGESTION CARRIED OUT.

Way back in 1895, Planets and People, page 249, "My Order For Lunch," we presented a new plan for a restaurant or "cafe," as they are now called.

We not only talked this matter up and impressed it forcefully upon others, but went so far as to publish the article above referred to in order to induce some one to make a start in this direction and serve pure food in a way that appeals to people of esthetic tastes and habits.

We succeeded finally, and Mr. E. H. Baker led in establishing the first Restaurant of the kind in this city, Chicago. The plan in the way of service and styles of dishes as given in one article has been carried out admirably, and we have to-day no less than five establishments in Chicago where no animal food of any kind is used, not even lard. Butter, eggs and milk of course are used, as they are products of the living, not the dead animal.

They are all called "Pure Food Cafe," with the firm or company name attached, and may be found readily by strangers who visit the city and wish to enjoy something new in fine cookery.

Thus Planets and People is gradually producing results which make it worthy of a place with the influential publications of the times.

We may add that Planets and People received honorable recognition in the American Exhibit of Periodicals at the Paris Exposition, for which a Grand Prize was awarded.

In the rational study of nature lie the secrets of knowledge, and every admission of the existence of supernatural influences is a barrier to progress.—R. C. Adams.

WHAT THE PEOPLE SAY.

To The Editor:

Without counting the Moon, or the degrees in a sign, there can be 429,981,696 different combinations of the eight planets in the twelve signs of the Zodiac. Counting the Moon would make it 5,159,780,352.

Counting a different combination for each degree (without the Moon), there can be over 282 quintillion different combinations. Counting the Moon would make it over 101 sextillion.

Counting for every five minutes (5') of each degree (every two hours of time), without the Moon, would make it over 121 octillion different combinations.

Thus several million years could pass without exhausting the combinations given by my lowest figures.

A. C. Gardner.

Bristolville, O.

Add to these possible differentiations the billions of magnetic rays from the earth's surface, which also plays a part in the scheme of differentiation, and where are you?

It simply shows that no two products of nature of any kind can possibly be the same in every detail. There is a distinct difference which gives to each an individuality—the grandest thought of man. To know that one is distinctly different—this alone should keep every person attending to his own affairs. What a glorious thought!—Ed.

To The Editor:

Since the Precession of the Equinoxes is a movement of the earth and not of the constellations, and the sign Aries is determined by the perihelion of Jupiter, or when Jupiter is in the Constellation Pisces, were the signs and constellations ever together, as astronomers state that they once were?

Will the Oracle please answer and oblige?
Subscriber.

This is a mooted question. We have found that there is no connection between the signs of the Zodiac and the constellations called by the same name, and it satisfies us that in 25,000 years the people of this planet will see entirely different configurations of the stars than those we see to-day. The earth will have changed in relation to the constellations to the extent that they will appear as new constellations entirely. We are not going in a circle of 25,000 years' duration to return to the same place and see the heavens as we see them to-day. This universe is too large for such circumscribed limitations.—Ed.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 4, 1900.

My Dear Brother Ormsby:

I hope you will pardon me for not writing sooner. How delighted I was with the wonderful law and the way its high priests expound it I shall not try to say, and I am sure that you know my thanks come from my heart. What is a man? What can he know and comprehend? What and where is his religion, his understanding of the all in all, without this sublime knowledge? Brother, to me it is the most sacred and highest treasure I ever shall aspire to possess—the source of the keenest delight my heart shall feel while beating with the pulsations of Uranus.

What a wonderful help it shall be for me when I shall enter the field of the healing art.

* * * * *

Shall we rejoice and be glad that we can feel the ecstatic thrill vibrating every fiber of our beings with a delightful satisfaction so intensely keen as only eternal and unchangeable truth can give? Why can not and why do not the rest of the people feel likewise? I know I can, or rather the Law can answer this question, yet even deeper prys my mind, as if there was still something behind it. The more one penetrates the more there must be, for how can we limit the unlimited? So, brother, have my thanks for the book, and when vacation comes and I shall exchange the books and scalpel with the anvil hammer in order to make my tuition for next year I shall then remember you. With my sincerest regards I am yours as ever, Alfred F. M. Titze.

Mr. F. E. Ormsby, Chicago, Ill.
Dear Sir: Enclosed find postoffice order for $1, for which please send me a copy of "Planets and People" for year of 1900. Also send Special Horoscope as premium for myself and oblige. I was born in Logan county, Illinois, July 10, 1869, 2:30 a. m. Male sex. American. I am greatly interested in your writings, especially the magazine, having made Occult Science a study. Wishing you success and thanking you for past favors I beg to remain your friend, Prof. F. E. Ormsby.

Dear Friend: * * * I have taken an interest in Astrology since 1895, when I first subscribed for Planets and People at Salem, Ore., but since you sent the Law and the Prophets to my wife I have been reading it and have obtained information that startled me. I never saw such a work and I would not lose it for a thousand dollars if I could not get another. Now I am anxious to spread the light, that others may see. Please let me know by return mail how much the charts will cost. Respectfully yours, Leonard Brown.

Deadwood, S. D., Dec. 11, 1899.
Mr. F. E. Ormsby, 358 Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill.
Dear Friend: Find enclosed a post-office money order of $1 for Year Book for 1900, as I could not think of getting along without it. I remain, yours respectfully,
John Boyer,
No. 18 Van Buren St., Deadwood, S. D.

Messrs. F. E. Ormsby & Co., 358 Dearborn Street, Chicago.
Dear Sirs: I beg to acknowledge receipt of the chart, The Places of the Planets, and book of instruction in good condition. I sincerely thank you, as I value it very much.

I received to-day my certificate of Magnetic Law and am very much pleased with it. Very truly yours,

John H. Rosengreen.

Mt. Washington, July 10, 1900.
Mr. F. E. Ormsby.

Dear Sir: I hesitated in thanking you for the last letter received to see what I could do pertaining to law. I have consulted a lawyer and am now studying. I thank you many times for the true and good advice received. I learned of your wonderful knowledge through Miss E. Sutton. Sincerely yours,
Elizabeth Frisby.

Mt. Washington, O., June 22, 1900.
F. E. Ormsby.

Dear Sir: Received book "Law and Prophets" some weeks ago—am studying. It is one of the grandest works in this world. I want all mankind to learn—but, alas! as yet. Please write me of Co-ordination Chart—price, etc., (referred to on page 185). I must have that, too, if possible. Plate No. 4 Solar Anatomy is worth the price of this book, and many times more. I am studying and in time hope to understand more fully.
E. S.

Blenheim, Canada, June 19, 1900.
Professor Ormsby.

Dear Sir: The very interesting information that you write in this year's edition of "Planets and People" gives me a desire to learn more. The predictions in your magazine come to pass and we enjoy studying them and would not want to be without it. I shall follow your advice to beginners and send for your book and chart. After studying the horoscopes for each month and taking note of the positions of the planets I can locate them all. It makes it so much more interesting when looking at them in the sky to know the name of each one. The earth being now in my sign of birth and in conjunction with my ruling planet (Uranus) must influence and give the stronger interest that I now feel towards occult studies.

Titusville, Pa., July 27, 1900.
Mr. F. E. Ormsby, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir: I planted seed and sowed grain on the dates given in Planets and People and have fine crops. I have heard there are certain days in late summer or early fall when brush and saplings may be cut and will not sprout. If this is so will you kindly give them on enclosed card?

From a planetary point of view what is the real cause and what will be the outcome of the Chinese trouble? Please answer in Oracle for 1901 and oblige, very truly yours, Indestructibility of force, indestructibility of matter, ceaseless change of motion, work and velocity—such is the general result of our present physical science.—Buchner.

AN OLD MAN'S DARLING.

The hair is white that sweeps across
His deeply furrowed brow;
The head that once was proudly poised
Droops forward feebly now!
He swings no jaunty cane, but leans
Upon a heavy stick,
And, as I watch him come and go,
I notice that the step is slow
Which once was light and quick.

Her hand is laid upon his arm,
And love lights up her face,
When he, with trembling gallantry,
Still helps her o'er the place Where small obstructions chance to lie;
Assists her up the stair,
And, after fifty years have run
Their course, still looks on her as one
Who needs his aid and care.

A smile oft plays around her lips
When she accepts his aid,
For only loving, gentle hands
Has Time upon her laid;
Her eyes are bright, her step is light,
But he, with ancient pride,
Must guard her and assist her still—
Must be her knight—as down the hill
He totters at her side.

BOOKS, CHARTS, ETC.

ADVICE TO BEGINNERS.

People often ask: What can we get to read that is simple and suitable for a beginner.

Planets and People as a Periodical, now in its seventh year, is published in the interest of the Science of Planetary Law as taught and exemplified by its founder and editor. From its first issue to the present number it is laden with many valuable lessons relative to the law of life and being, as well as the value of the knowledge of which it treats as applied to all the affairs of man.

It is a line of reading very valuable to the beginner. The primary lesson course in Astronomy, the special question department in which a thousand and one points, of interest to all, have been treated and explained, gives one, in a neat compact form, a world of valuable matter that should not be missed. The volumes (what few we have) are now for sale as long as they last, as follows:

*Volume 1.—Year, 1895, 432 pages; cloth	$5.00
Volume 2.—Year, 1896, 164 pages; cloth	1.50
Volume 2.—Year, 1896, 164 pages; paper cover.....	1.00
Volume 3.—Year, 1897, 432 pages; cloth	2.00
Volume 4.—Year, 1898, 490 pages; cloth	3.00
Volume 5.—Year, 1899, 200 pages; cloth	2.00
Volume 6.—Year, 1900, all the year; paper.....	1.00
Volume 6.—Year, 1900, all the year; cloth.....	1.50
Volume 7.—Year, 1901, all the year; cloth.....	1.50
Volume 7.—Year, 1901, all the year; paper.....	1.00

*The few copies now on hand of the year 1895 we have gathered in from all sources, and, because of their scarcity and their special value, we are obliged to make the price $5.00 a copy.

Note.—We issued a special Almanac aside from Planets and People, predicting the great business year of 1898. It contains valuable lessons and many important points in the science which are specially instructive to the student. It contains the ephemeris of the planets both geocentrically and heliocentrically for that year. It is called Ormsby's Geo-Helio Almanac, Business and Weather Guide for 1898. Price, paper, 50c; cloth, $1.00. Order as per instructions on last page.

THE PLACES OF THE PLANETS.

Ormsby's Simple System of the Planets and the Zodiac.

This Wonderful piece of Mechanism, which does away with mathematical problems in the study of the Planets and the Zodiac and all phenomena relative to human life, makes the study of Astrology very simple and brings the subject within the reach and comprehension of children. The Primary Book which comes with the Chart is an entirely new work, entitled

ORMSBY'S SIMPLE SYSTEM OF THE PLANETS AND THE ZODIAC.

DESIGNED FOR BEGINNERS.

A simple and easy method of delineating horoscopes and reading character. The meaning of the Quarters, Quadrates, Signs, Aspects, Planets, Ruling Star, Etc., are simply stated and numerous lessons and horoscopes illustrations are given to show the student how to proceed in the science. The book contains Correction Tables to use with the Chart, beginning with the year 1801 and ending with the year 1900, a period of 100 years. This enables one to make a horoscope for any person living upon the earth, not over 100 years old. The Chart is very handy for finding the transit of planets and in locating dates for special happenings when one becomes familiar with the principles of the law. Many things, too numerous to mention here, are revealed to the student as he observes the methodical and cyclic illustration of planetary movements through the years of time to which this simple device may be applied.

If you wish to take up a line of study that will give you a new way of seeing and doing things, this simple system will more than meet your desires. It will lead you at once into a new field of thought, into a new science of life and being. It is the stepping-stone to knowledge—a knowledge not taught in schools, that reveals the truth of all things. It is a Wonder Worker. Price, $2.00.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Any person having a copy of any previous edition of this Chart and Primary Book may exchange the same for this latest print on payment of $1.00. Both the Chart and Primary Book must be returned.

Note.—A new table of corrections, covering 100 years in advance, all of the twentieth century, is now ready for those who wish to have it. It extends the use of the above chart and makes it good for 200 years. Price, $2.00.

THE LAW AND THE PROPHETS.

By F. E. Ormsby.

This work is the first and only work dealing with Planetary Law in a simple, rational, scientific manner. It explains the causes, the reason why, and clearly presents the facts relative to the phenomena of life.

The second edition, just from the press, is double the size of the first and contains the Geo-Helio law of the planets in simple terms with elaborate illustrations in black and colors. It is

A Practical Work on Solar Anatomy.

A New Science of Personal Magnetism.

- A Science of Being of Universal Scope.
- A Health Monitor of Surpassing Value.
- A Wonder Worker in the Law of Vibration.
- A Revealer of Symbols and Signs.
- A New Hygienic and Dietary Process.
- A Book of Revelation and Prophecy.
- A Work on Practical Alchemy.

Any person can use this work and make money by the application of the principles enunciated. There is nothing about a person's life that cannot be illustrated and explained by its use. Covering such a wide range of thought it can only be referred to here in a fragmentary way. It must be seen and used to be appreciated. It is unlimited in its scope, opening up new and marvelous truths at every paragraph.

COLORED PLATES.

The colored plates, "Solar Anatomy" and "The Elemental Divisions of the Zodiac," reveal the secrets of human life as no other work has ever done. In Diagnosing Disease, Reading Character, Illustrating the Business, Social, Political and all other relations, relative to a person's life, it is a marvel of accuracy. A few of the special features may be found in the following list of contents:

Every student of Astronomy and Astrology, every Physician, every Surgeon, every Farmer, Preacher, Mechanic and Thinker of every name should have a copy of this work, for it deals with the law of all phenomena and lays the only universal basic foundation for the acquirement of knowledge. Every person may, by disseminating the information contained in the work, obtain not only enough to pay the cost of same, but a sufficient revenue to give one a comfortable living.

It is so simple in language, illustration, and demonstration that children of ten years may study and understand the truths of which it treats.

The study of the heavens as well as the study of man is no longer beyond the grasp of the ordinary mind, when this work is taken as a basis of reasoning and the formulation of concepts relative to the science of life and being.

The work is written in a way to withstand the test of ages, and will be turned to ten thousand years hence and found to be demonstrative of laws and principles which were true a million years ago, are true to-day and will be true a million years hence.

Such is the nature of the work that no matter what may occur in the affairs of the nations or their peoples, a glance at its pages will reveal the hidden cause that underlies the whole.

One well versed in its teachings is able to turn back one, ten, a hundred or ten thousand years and find the condition of the civilization of the time, and he may turn toward the future and penetrate into that seemingly vast unknown region and predict the rise and fall of nations, empires, kingdoms and republics, and determine the very thoughts, feelings and emotions that will actuate the motives and acts of every age to come.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Any person possessing a copy of the first edition of The Law and The Prophets may exchange the same for a copy of the second edition on payment of $2.00.

This work is distinct and separate from the Planetary Chart and Primary Book originally coupled with it.

(See ad of Chart elsewhere.)

WHAT PEOPLE SAY OF The Law and The Prophets.

"I consider your work to be of greater importance in connection with the practice of Medicine and Surgery than anything that has ever been accomplished upon the earth."
P. S. R., M. D.

"If I could not get another copy of The Law and The Prophets I would not take One Hundred Dollars for my copy. It is the grandest work ever published and I hope to see the day when it will be appreciated by the great mass of mankind, for whose benefit it is so admirably adapted."
J. ADAMS.

"The Law and The Prophets keeps me busy and my head in a whirl. I can see now why my patients have agitated nervous periodically. This was all a mystery to me heretofore. How beautiful it is when the real light of science is flashed upon these unknown phenomena." Yours Very Sincerely and Gratefully, J. A. T., M. D.

"The accuracy of The Law and the Prophets as a means of diagnosis, is most amazing. The operations of the law are astounding." Respectfully, C. H. WEAVER, M. D.

"I believe your work to be the Oracle of the new dawn, scattering with delighted hands, the knowledge of Infinite law that has been kept alive by mature souls until the people were ready to receive it. The times are now ripe, and the enlightened souls that were silenced by the rack and thumb-screw of the dark ages have again appeared on earth; not to be poisoned by the foul miasma of theological dogma, enslaved by cunning priestcraft, and chilled by the gloom of the prison vault, but with a conscious pride of freedom, holding high above all other thoughts the love of truth, they come to herald the dawn of the new era, the Golden age of the twentieth century, when the knowledge of truth will again cover the earth as the waters the face of the mighty deep." Yours Very Truly,

URIEL BUCHANAN.

"Language cannot express the good your work is doing and money cannot pay for the knowledge it contains."

MRS. F. M. OVERMAN.

"The simplicity of your method of illustrating and teaching the Science of Astronomy and Astrology and the very clear manner in which you present the facts, from both the Geocentric and Heliocentric standpoints, has enabled me to see in your work a great future. I believe it is the knowledge and the Science that will reconstruct the thought of the world. You have my best wishes." H. E. B.

HOROSCOPE.

The majority of people are sufficiently interested in themselves, their business, their health, their immediate family, children, wives, sweethearts, partners, etc., etc., to want to know many things that ever remain strange, peculiar and vague until the light of Planetary Science is turned upon the situation. Therefore the editor of Planets and People is called upon very often to explain these matters and give a clear illustration of the conditions of the law which produce these perplexing problems.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Now bear in mind that our work must not be confounded with that done by charlatans of every name and kind who aim to give information of so important a nature without ever having learned the law or even given it a casual study, strictly speaking.

You can get such information for twenty-five cents and a full horoscope for a dollar if you are not particular about the source from which it comes. We, however, are in a position where we cannot afford to do loose and unreliable work. We must have facts to back up our statements at all times.

WHAT PEOPLE WANT TO KNOW ABOUT.

Among the many things people wish to know about may be mentioned:

BUSINESS.

How few people know where they belong in the great commercial field of the world. The many and varied lines rapidly growing up in this particular field puzzles one to decide just what is best. It is an age of specialists, when it means that one must get very close to his proper work or profession in order to make any degree of success.

The universal law is vibratory and all lines of business or professions are also in harmony with these vibratory currents, and the qualifications of people, which are the result of the same law, are determined very accurately by Planetary Science as we present it.

To have a right, clear understanding of one's relation to the business world is worth thousands of dollars, and we have so simplified the study of the law as to be able to give this information in a simple way that all may understand for the small sum of $2.00.

See instructions for ordering this work on last page.

HEALTH.

One of the most important matters to which our science is applicable is Physical Diagnosis, showing the primary cause and nature of every bodily or mental ailment. It is marvelous how accurately this can be done by Planetary Science, the Law of Magnetism and Alchemy.

This is all accomplished by analyzing the Personal Horoscope, which reveals every vibratory center and condition and opens up the real secret of every affliction that flesh is heir to. In giving a diagnosis of this nature we sometimes advise the attendance of a physician, and as we are in touch with some who use our work in their daily practice we are in position to suggest the best proceeding for those for whom we make these diagnoses.

This is particular work and the life of a patient often depends upon its accuracy, but our charge is $5.00 and upwards, according to circumstances and the nature of the work necessary to a successful result. In ordinary cases the charge is only $5.00.

GENERAL HOROSCOPES.

We make a General Horoscope which explains the figure of birth, gives the ruling star and the special significance and meanings of all the signs and planets affecting one's life, the character, capabilities and probabilities of one's affairs throughout his life, with an illustrated chart showing the Personal Magnetism in colors and the percentages of power arising from each planet in making up the aura of one's being.

This Horoscope is a study of one's life, which may be referred to daily, and a valuable lesson learned on each occasion.

It gives the business or profession, the conditions relative to marriage, the kind of partner desirable for harmony and success, and general information along the lines of health, seasons of prosperity and suggestions for all-round improvement of the individual, physically, mentally, commercially and socially.

A very complete exposition of one's life worth many times the cost. Price, $10.00.

SPECIAL HOROSCOPES.

A horoscope may be made which will lay out one's life from month to month for many years, showing just where the favorable and unfavorable periods come into his line of destiny. It is desirable in relation to life insurance investments, property rights, estates, speculative interests, etc., etc.

There is not a set price, as the longevity decides the matter, and the nature of the work will also make some difference. In some lives there would be little to consider in the way of large projects, while in others it would all relate to heavy matters.

Prices for such work quoted on application.

PARTNERSHIPS.

Successful and harmonious partnerships, as well as unsuccessful and inharmonious ones, are the result of the blendings of the Personal Magnetisms of the contracting parties. It is a simple law that makes all of these conditions.

We show the conditions under which people come together in marriage or business partnerships, illustrating the harmonies and inharmonies, if there be any, mentally, physically, and in the line of money matters as well. All is clearly explained for $2.00 for each date considered, be there two, as in marriage, or three or more, as sometimes occur in business partnerships.

DATES.

We are often asked to give dates for some important undertaking; for the launching of some new project, the creation of a new life, etc. Dates for offspring are becoming popular among advanced people. People often want to know when things are favorable for them especially. It is natural and right for them to know, for knowledge alone is power. Whatever the desire for dates may be involving one horoscope we furnish for $5.00.

ANNUAL COMMERCIAL DATES.

We make a schedule of the periods favorable and otherwise for business characters, as a guide in the year's operations. This is very valuable to some people, as one simple turn may make thousands of dollars (we have known this to occur in many instances where we have given them) and add much to the returns for the season's labors.

This is given one year in advance, with many valuable suggestions, for only $10.00.

ADVICE.

Now, be it remembered, that our aim in life is to educate people in the science of life and being. We do not aim to study and do special horoscopes alone, but prefer, very much prefer, to interest people in the study to the extent that they can do their own work and understand fully the importance of the science.

We had much rather see you take up the study than to receive your order for a horoscope, but of course we know all people can not spare the time to study into these matters as we have done, and for that reason we do all the work of which our limited time will permit.

If we can do good in the world what little time we stay our mission will be fulfilled, and the added knowledge of the one only science of life thus given to the world will make its everlasting imprint in the consciousness of those who live in harmony with the gems of the night.

A young married lady had just acquired a new coach and a new footman to match, relates the Scottish American. "John," she said one day, "we will drive out to make a few calls. But I shan't get out of the carriage; you will therefore take the cards that are on my dressing table and leave one of them at each house we stop at." "Very good, ma'am," answered John, and he ran upstairs to fetch the cards. After they had driven about a considerable time and cards had been left at a large number of houses, the lady remarked: "Now we must call on the Dales, the Fromptons and Clarkes." "We can't do it," here broke in the footman, in alarm; "I've only got the ace of spades and the ten of clubs left!"

When the minister made his first pastoral call at the Smith's he took little Anna up in his arms and tried to kiss her. But the child refused to be kissed; she struggled loose and ran off into the next room, where her mother was putting a few finishing touches to her adornment before going into the parlor to greet the new clergyman. "Mamma," the little girl whispered, "the man in the parlor wanted me to kiss him." "Well," replied mamma, "why didn't you let him? I would if I were you." Thereupon Anna ran back into the parlor, and the minister asked: "Well, little lady, won't you kiss me now?" "No, I won't," replied Anna, promptly, "but mamma says she will."

THE STORY OF OUR FLAG.

New Book, 2nd Edition.

In these troublous times when nations are at war with one another, it is important that a knowledge of the American Flag be extended to the remotest parts of the world. The rising generation especially should read its history and study the Constitution of these United States and the Declaration of Independence, for which principles it was created to symbolize.

Its history from its first inception and the struggles, changes, etc., which it has passed through in evolving to its present significant state, is concisely stated in a work with the above title, by

MRS. ADDIE G. WEAVER, Of Chicago.

It is beautifully illustrated in colors, showing all of the varying tints, inscriptions, shapes, etc., in which it has been made from the earliest times. A wonderful amount of data and information surprising to all who have not made the subject a special study.

STORIES OF FAMOUS CHILDREN.

True Stories of Real People.

This is a new work which tells the story of leading historical events of noted characters, such as Joan of Arc, The King of Rome, Frederick the Great, The Dauphin, Marie Antoinette, Madame Le Brun, Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth, and especially the children of these peoples, and others whose lives are intimately interwoven in the doings of the recent past and form a part of the general education of children. This collection of facts and the simple manner in which they are presented will appeal to every reader who wishes to avoid long treatises upon these subjects.

All superfluous and unimportant connections are left out and the simple, plain facts alone given in a style that appeals to the child mind. It is a very creditable production and will find a ready sale as a gift book for children. The author got up the first copy for a present, written upon the typewriter, and illustrated with red photographs of the various characters mentioned in the work. It cost her twenty-five dollars when completed and bound. The favor with which it was received and read by her friends has induced her to have it published, that others may enjoy its superb illustrations and literary merit. The price of the work in best silk cloth is $1.00. We supply the trade.

WOMAN.

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Give us that grand word "woman" once again,
And let's have done with "lady": one's a term
Full of fine force, strong, beautiful and firm,
Fit for the noblest use of tongue or pen;
And one's a word for lackeys. One suggests
The Mother, Wife and Sister! One the dame
Whose costly robe, mayhap, gives her the name.
One word upon its own strength leans and rests,
The other minces tiptoe. Who would be
The perfect woman must grow brave of heart
And broad of soul to play her troubled part
Well in life's drama. While each day we see
The "perfect lady" skilled in what to do
And what to say, grace in each tone and act
(Tis taught in schools, but needs some native tact),
Yet narrow in her mind as in her shoe.
Give the first place then to the nobler phrase,
And leave the lesser word for lesser praise.

PYRAMID AND CUBE.
PREPARATORY INSTRUCTION.

As the time draws nigh for opening up the work of the Pyramid and Cube University, we deem it best to send out a call to those who wish to take up a course of instruction bearing upon this new system of education, that we may secure good, reliable people in every locality to represent the extension work when the same is fully developed.

Therefore, we shall open up a correspondence course of study and examination with a system of questions and blank spaces for the answers of students, followed by replies and instructions. The ways and means of meeting people and properly presenting the truths we have to teach will be a feature of this work and we shall aim to handle the matter so that teaching may be carried on by those who take this course while taking the instruction.

Our work needs a great many teachers. They must be versed in the study and must be able to lead in the work wherever they may reside. We want those who are able to take hold and work on entirely new lines without danger of being switched off by some little suggestive side issue.

This call, therefore, is for the purpose of locating desirable representatives of the Pyramid and Cube University Extension.

The course will cover three months' time beginning the first week in January, and the cost to those who enter their names will be Twelve Dollars.

We shall endeavor to make it possible for each one to earn this amount and more with it during this time, so there will be no expense attached to the deal. The tuition can be paid monthly in advance or the whole amount at once, as desired.

APPLICATIONS.

Applications for this course must reach us by December 1st. We shall arrange for the number entered at that time. We shall be pleased to hear from as many as can decide to take the course before that date. There will be twelve lessons and the correspondence necessary therewith. By this method we aim to form groups of students who are interested or may become interested in this new educational movement. Teachers which may be secured in this course of study we trust may be qualified to lead classes and thus gradually start the work throughout the world.

PROSPECTUS OF THE PYRAMID AND CUBE UNIVERSITY.

A prospectus of the work planned for this new institution of learning has been issued and will be mailed to those who enter their names for this course. It gives a general outline of the work and what we propose in connection with the building extension of the plan.

BEWARE OF VACCINATION.

There is no law that is constitutional, that is, contrary to the freedom guaranteed by the constitution of the United States to each citizen, that compels a person to submit to vaccination.

Every one should resist this growing curse upon the race. Its evils can not be overdrawn. It is a direct pollution of the very life of the nation, and a menace to health and purity.

Resist it with all the power at your command. It is a scheme that has no foundation, in truth, justice or common decency.

There is not one scintilla of proof that it ever prevented a single case of smallpox anywhere in the world.

There are thousands of proofs showing that it is not a preventive in any way whatsoever.

Beware of this growing monster that threatens the purity of every drop of blood upon the earth. It is an obnoxious and poisonous sting of a very bad style of vampire.

Fight against it! Vote against it! and kill out the nefarious practice as you would any other pestilential plague.

COMMUNICATIONS.

In writing us for information, horoscopes, etc., be careful to give name, address, year, month, day of month, and time of day, if known, as accurately as possible. If time of day is not known, be careful in stating the color of hair and eyes, complexion, height and weight. These latter points well stated will give a very clear basis for determining the time of day.

State briefly what you desire to have attention given to principally. We wish to give the very best we can in the way of knowledge and suggestion to those who seek for guidance in this great universal field of science.

The work we do in this line is confined principally to students of the law, hence, each write-up is a series of lessons which apply to the life of the one for whom it is written.

We shall endeavor to make Planets and People as interesting as possible for the year 1902, and we hope in time to make it of much greater value to all students as well as more interesting to the general reader. It is being sought for by mystics in every country on the globe, but it takes time for them to find us, and time for us to find them.

Special announcements will be sent to each subscriber relative to the work for 1902. Ask your friends to subscribe, and we shall ever remain sincerely and gratefully,

F. E. ORMSBY

MAGIC MIRRORS

Originated "far back in the dim and distant past," with a people who devoted much time and close study to nature and nature's laws. They are constructed with certain combinations of materials and ingredients, magnetically arranged, charged and co-ordinated to the mentality of human beings. The subtle laws of vibration, psychometry and planetary astral influences, must be understood to properly construct and perfect such an instrument.

The renewal of astronomical and occult studies has again revived the interest in these instruments, and as they are in our line, they are furnished to order by one who understands the principles of their construction.
